CARROLL COUNTY, Md. — According to Gus Schwartzbeck, co-chairman of the 1995 Maryland Holstein Convention Sale, the sale was one to remember. "The dairy business is pretty tight right now," Schwartzbeck said, "and I just thought it went better than I expected it would go. I thought everything brought what it was worth, and some even brought more than I thought they would."

With 62 head of Holsteins featured in the Saturday, March 4 sale, prices averaged $2,861 per head. The top-selling cow was a two-and-a-half-year-old who came fresh on July 22, and sold for a whopping $11,700. Ladys-Manor Top Star-ET was bred and born on the farm of owners Robert and Mary Smith of Monkton, Maryland.

"$15,000 in contracts for AI stud went with her," said Mary Smith. "She's out of four generations of cows bred here on the farm." Smith noted that Lady's Manor Top Star-ET had a dam that was "excellent," a second dam that was "very good" and a fourth dam that was "very good."

"He's worked very hard on these cows," Smith said of her husband, Robert. "She's one of our best!" Smith also said that a full sister to Ladys-Manor Top Star-ET will be offered for sale at the upcoming National Sale.

The second highest selling cow on Saturday was a five-and-a-half-month-old Red & White out of Derrwyn Centra Selsy-Red-ET, a dam who made All-American R&W in 1992 as a three-year-old. Out of Golden Oaks Farms in Wauconda, Illinois, the calf was purchased by Charles E. Thie-

Ag Receives 5 Percent Increase In Overall Spending

Gov. Ridge Announces '95-'96 Budget Proposal

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — State Gov. Tom Ridge during a Tuesday press conference announced his proposal for the next state budget, calling for tax cuts and — according to a published report — the smallest spending increase in more than 10 years.

With all forms of estimated revenue tallied in, the proposed spending would total $31.198 billion, a decrease from last year's overall budget.

The typical budget process begins with the governor's administration proposing a budget to the legislature, which scrutinizes it and makes its own changes and suggestions, or makes a complete counter-proposal.

Normally, the budget falls somewhere in between, depending on what compromises are made in the course of debate as to what should be the state's spending priorities.

The state legislature has until the end of June, normally the close of session for the summer, to approve a budget for the state. The state fiscal year runs from July 1 to June 30.

If a budget isn't approved in time, special legislation can be approved to fund state operational expenses until an approved budget

ANDY ANDREWS

WILLOW STREET (Lancaster Co.) — Potato growers beware: a new type of potato blight fungus, if it makes its way through the crops this season, could prove devastating and provide challenges never faced before, according to a Cornell plant pathologist.

Dr. William E. Fry, Department of Plant Pathology, Cornell University, told about 150 potato growers that the new isolate could be more fit, more virulent, more aggressive, survive longer, and resist most major fungicides in the long run. Growers must take steps now to control a disease which has grown to be a "national concern," according to Roger L. Springer, general manager of the Pennsylvania Co-Operative Potato Growers.

State potato growers joined industry and university representatives at the 44th Annual Potato Growers Institute and 79th Annual Co-Operative meeting on Wednesday and Thursday at the Willow Valley Resort and Conference Center.

The major topic at the meeting: late blight and how to control it. The disease proved devastating last year to many growers.

Because of last year's cool spring, wet summer, and moist harvest season, the fungus which causes late blight attacked a great deal of the crop grown in many states in the Mid-Atlantic and Northeast, according to Fry. Symptoms include full ear lesions and complete stalk damage. Within weeks, without fungus treatments, plants turn brown, wither, and die. The tubers are infected and soft rot sets in, rendering many

We could show you stacks of research data that demonstrate the benefits of planting W-L alfalfa seed, but the most important barometer of our success is the success of growers like you.

Growers have depended on W-L Research as a provider of superior alfalfa seed for over thirty years, and in that time W-L has developed seed well-known for its value. At W-L, "value" is defined as long-term yield, persistence, and quality. These characteristics of W-L varieties are the cornerstone of our success, and we continue to measure our success as we always have — one grower at a time.

Forage Ahead with W-L!

National Grain Market

St. Joseph, MO
Wednesday March 8, 1995

USDA-Market News Service
Daily National Grain Summary

The U.S. dollar showed a slight improvement on today's market and added some pressure to grain and soybean prices. Declines were limited, however, due to improved export outlook. Wheat 2 to 3 cents lower. Corn mixed, mostly unchanged to 3 cents higher. Sorghum unchanged to 1 cent lower. Soybeans 4 to 7 cents lower. Wheat prices moved lower in reaction to a stronger U.S. dollar. However, today's EEP wheat sale to China, the reported 1.1 million bushels of wheat allocated to China and indications 4.8 million bushels were sold to Japan, kept prices from falling too far. New crop wheat condition is good and recent snowcover is beneficial to growth. Corn prices were mixed with some weakness stemming from the higher U.S. dollar and light profit taking noted after yesterday's price strength. However, the uncertainty over this years corn production and improved export demand, offered some support to corn prices. Weaker Soybean meal and oil demand and the improved U.S. dollar value, erased most of yesterdays gains in bean prices.

The OLD FARMER'S ALMANAC THIS WEEK WITH

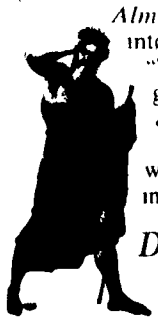
FULL SAP MOON, MARCH 16.

"BEWARE THE IDES OF MARCH"

The Ides of March was certainly calamitous for Julius Caesar, who was assassinated on March 15, 44 B.C., and the concept of unlucky days has survived into modern times. Ancient Romans regarded the ides (the 13th or 15th depending on the month) as ill-fated, as well as the calends (first of the month) and the nones (nine days before the ides). In the 1816 Old Farmer's Almanac we find these days transformed into old women whose breath is poisonous.



"To whatsoever was true, honest . or of good report, their breath was as blasting and mildew. These monsters are now no more; but they so leavened the world with their abominable practices that their influence will never be eradicated."

Do not be born good or handsome, but be born lucky.

TIP OF THE WEEK

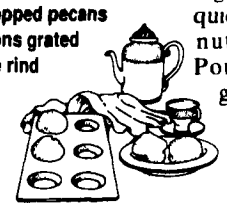
Bread will stay fresh longer if you keep a piece of celery in the bag with it.

YAM AND PECAN MUFFINS

3/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon nutmeg
2 eggs
3 tablespoons melted butter
3/4 cup milk
1 cup cooked, mashed yams
1 cup chopped pecans
2 teaspoons grated orange rind

Combine flour, salt, sugar, baking powder, cinnamon, and nutmeg. In a separate bowl, beat eggs and add melted butter, milk, and mashed yams. Combine liquid ingredients with dry ingredients with a few quick strokes and fold in nuts and orange rind. Pour batter into well-greased muffin tins and bake at 400° F for 20 to 25 minutes.

Makes 12 muffins.



The OLD FARMER'S WEATHER PROVERBS

If the Moon rises clear, expect fair weather.

CONTROL WEEDS WITH ONE GREAT HERBICIDE AFTER ANOTHER.

Weeds love conservation tillage. So much so that one herbicide treatment just won't do. But a sequential treatment of PROWL® herbicide followed by PURSUIT® herbicide postemergence will. Put PROWL down early for broad-spectrum, season-long control. And PURSUIT over the top for control of really tough broadleaves and escapes. Together, the PROWL followed by PURSUIT sequential gives you superior control of more than 50 problem grasses and broadleaves. So don't give weeds a chance. Hit 'em where they live with PROWL followed by PURSUIT.

OPINION

Farmers Deserve Health Care Tax Deduction

As you know, the deduction of 25 percent of health insurance premiums from income taxes for farmers and other self-employed business persons expired at the end of 1993. Late last month the House passed a bill (H.R. 831) that would permanently and retroactively restore the deduction.

Many farmers pay for their families' health insurance out of pocket while corporations can deduct the cost of employee health benefits as a business expense. To be fair, the U.S. Senate should pass the 25 percent deduction bill before the tax filing deadlines are reached this year to save farmers a lot of extra refiling costs to obtain the benefit later.

Of course, this should only be the first step. When Congress takes up the health care reform debate later this year, they should include in the final measure a 100 percent deduction for self-employed people. In this case, the little guy deserves equal standing with corporate America.

Now Is The Time

By John Schwartz

Lancaster County Agricultural Agent

To Protect Against AI

The outbreak of avian influenza (AI) in Mexico has become more serious with mortality reaching up to 50 percent in broiler flocks.

The virus has become highly pathogenic and spreading despite tight biosecurity measures. There is concern the virus could spread to the United States by way of migratory birds returning to the United States.

Now is the time to implement a very good biosecurity program. Farmers should enforce a restricted movement of people to their poultry houses. Avoid contact with migratory and wild birds. Make sure your poultry houses are birdproof. Also, change footwear after working in fields and disinfect boots or shoes before entering poultry houses.

Do not allow dogs and cats that have been in fields or in contact with wild birds in your poultry houses. Finally, if you have any abnormal mortality, contact your service person immediately or take some birds to one of the laboratories.

Taking a few precautions now could prevent a major disease outbreak latter.

To Make Adjustments For Milk Base

Will breeding problems that occurred this winter affect your ability to establish a good milk base this fall?

According to Glenn Shirk, extension dairy agent, it will.

He states it could have a reducing effect on your milk price for 1995. Cows you wanted to have in peak milk around September may now peak around the beginning of the year. Instead of building a milk base, they will be contributing to excess production.

One way to help solve this problem is to purchase some "tail enders" that are bred and in late lactation this spring at reduced prices. You will be buying them when feeds and pastures are more plentiful and more affordable while having animals ready to freshen during late summer.

To Plan For Future

This past week, the future of agriculture in Lancaster County was discussed by two different panels of agribusiness leaders. All six speakers stated the future depended on the people and their outlook.

Pennsylvania is the major agricultural area in the Northeast. There are many reasons for this: the strong work ethic of the farmers, excellent livestock and poultry farmers, efficiencies of production, young age of farmers, and a strong infrastructure, including banks, feed mills, equipment dealers, sales people, and agricultural educators.

As one industry leader stated, if you doubt there is a bright future in agriculture, then look around at the number of major national companies making large capital investments in Pennsylvania. They would not be making these investments if they thought agriculture is declining in the area.

The consensus of these speakers was agriculture will remain strong as long as the farmers stay competitive by making the necessary changes and continue being the best there is!

Feather Prof.'s Footnote: "Constant and determined effort breaks down all obstacles and sweeps away all resistance."

Editor:

The following article should be of interest to the readers of "Lancaster Farming."

"This time it's bees, next time roadside produce stands . . ."

Anyone in PA who has ever had a hive of bees inspected has probably received notice of the new bee law (act 131), signed into law by Gov. Casey at the 11th hour of his term.

I question the entire program but the part informing us that the "Beekeepers Association" has actively supported this legislation I expect is deliberately misleading. I don't know how it was pulled off but I am sure that a poll of beekeepers will show they are not in favor of giving the bureaucrats another $10 every 2 years to have inspectors spread disease in their colonies.

The inspection of beehives by state inspectors is the most effective way of spreading bee diseases that can be imagined. A man who has been to numerous other hives, breaks yours open and pulls frames from the brood area, the most vulnerable part of the hive. Bees are smashed both in the removal and replacement of these frames. This is the area the queen operates in and the possibility of her being killed or injured is real. Over and above the physical damage any disease organisms he is carrying on his self, clothing or equipment has an excellent opportunity to infect your hive.

Yes, I know the part about the inspector taking precautions, cleaning themselves and their equipment: baloney! Effective cleanup between hive inspections short of boiling the guy in hot water is impossible. The inspection program is superfluous. It is an after the fact event at best, that has nothing to do with disease prevention. It tells you your bees are infected and any attentive beekeeper becomes aware of this through his routine hive maintenance long before an inspector shows up. At worst it exposes your hive to infection.

The first time an inspector visited my bees I was too green to associate the loss with his visit. On the next visit he brought me foul brood. On his last visit he brought

ON TALKING OR PLAYING A GOOD GAME

March 12, 1995

Background Scripture
I Corinthians 4
Devotional Reading
Romans 12:1-10

Is Paul contradicting himself in I Corinthians 4:20? He has been speaking of the ultimate weakness of temporal power, but now he says: "For the kindgom of God does not consist in talk but in power."

But the "power" of which Paul is speaking here is not temporal power, but spiritual power — and he has already demonstrated in this letter that there is a vast gulf between these two types of power. Temporal power appears to be mighty, but ultimately it is weak. Spiritual power seems to be weak and ineffectual, but in the long run it is the only power that prevails.

Lots of people bemoan the churches' loss of temporal power. In the last 50 years we have seen a tremendous loss of that kind of power. When I was growing up in Reading, Pennsylvania, the churches there seemed to be pretty powerful in the community: able to keep the stores closed on Sunday, influence the local schools, and often get its way in the community.

SPIRITUAL POWER

The churches have mostly lost that temporal power and, although we all mourn the loss of it, the loss may be a blessing. For now, the church can focus upon what it should have been concentrating on all along: spiritual power, the power to influence, not by coercion, but by shining example. It is always easier to compel than to inspire, but "easy" doesn't equal "success." All too often, we in the church have assumed that temporal power is the measure of the effectiveness of the gospel.

That's what the cross of Jesus Christ was all about. God could have intervened and kept Jesus from dying on the cross. But the victory was not dependent upon escaping the cross, but in transforming it. An object that represented human nature at its worst has become the symbol of divine and human love triumphant. The cross says to us that we cannot win with temporal power because it is always inferior to spiritual power.

TALKERS & DOERS

A young exchange student from Southeast Asia, after being exposed to American television and radio, came to the conclusion that Christianity is mostly a matter of how people talk. We preach, teach, discuss, argue and sometimes fight over the words people choose to talk about their faith. The essence of the gospel seems to be the precise way in which people articulate it.

In writing to the church at Corinth, Paul distinguished between the talkers and the doers. "But I will come to you soon," he said, "if the Lord wills, and I will find out not the talk of these arrogant people but their power. For the kingdom of God does not consist in talk but in power" (4:19, 20) — spiritual not temporal power. The gospel is about doing, not talking. Not talking about love, but doing it; being it.

What does that mean? Paul gives us a good idea: "When reviled, we bless; when persecuted, we endure; when slandered, we try to conciliate. . ." (4:12b, 13a). Like good music, the Gospel is dependent not upon spirited argument but inspired playing.

I'm not sying there's anything wrong with Christian talk so long as we don't let the talk become a substitute for Christian action. We are called, not to sing about the "old rugged cross," but to bear it.

Keep 'Em Safe from Rootworms with Lorsban 15G.

Once you get the corn planted, you have to keep it safe from rootworms. And the right way to keep it safe from rootworms is with an at-plant T-band application of Lorsban* 15G insecticide – the most widely used corn soil insecticide.

Lorsban 15G stops rootworms whether you're going conventional, minimum or no-till. And Lorsban 15G controls all species of cutworm, plus a broad spectrum of secondary pests; it's compatible for use with Accent and Beacon herbicides; and comes in the convenient, easy-to-handle Farmer Designed bag.

Experience has proven, season after season – reason after reason, the right choice is Lorsban 15G!

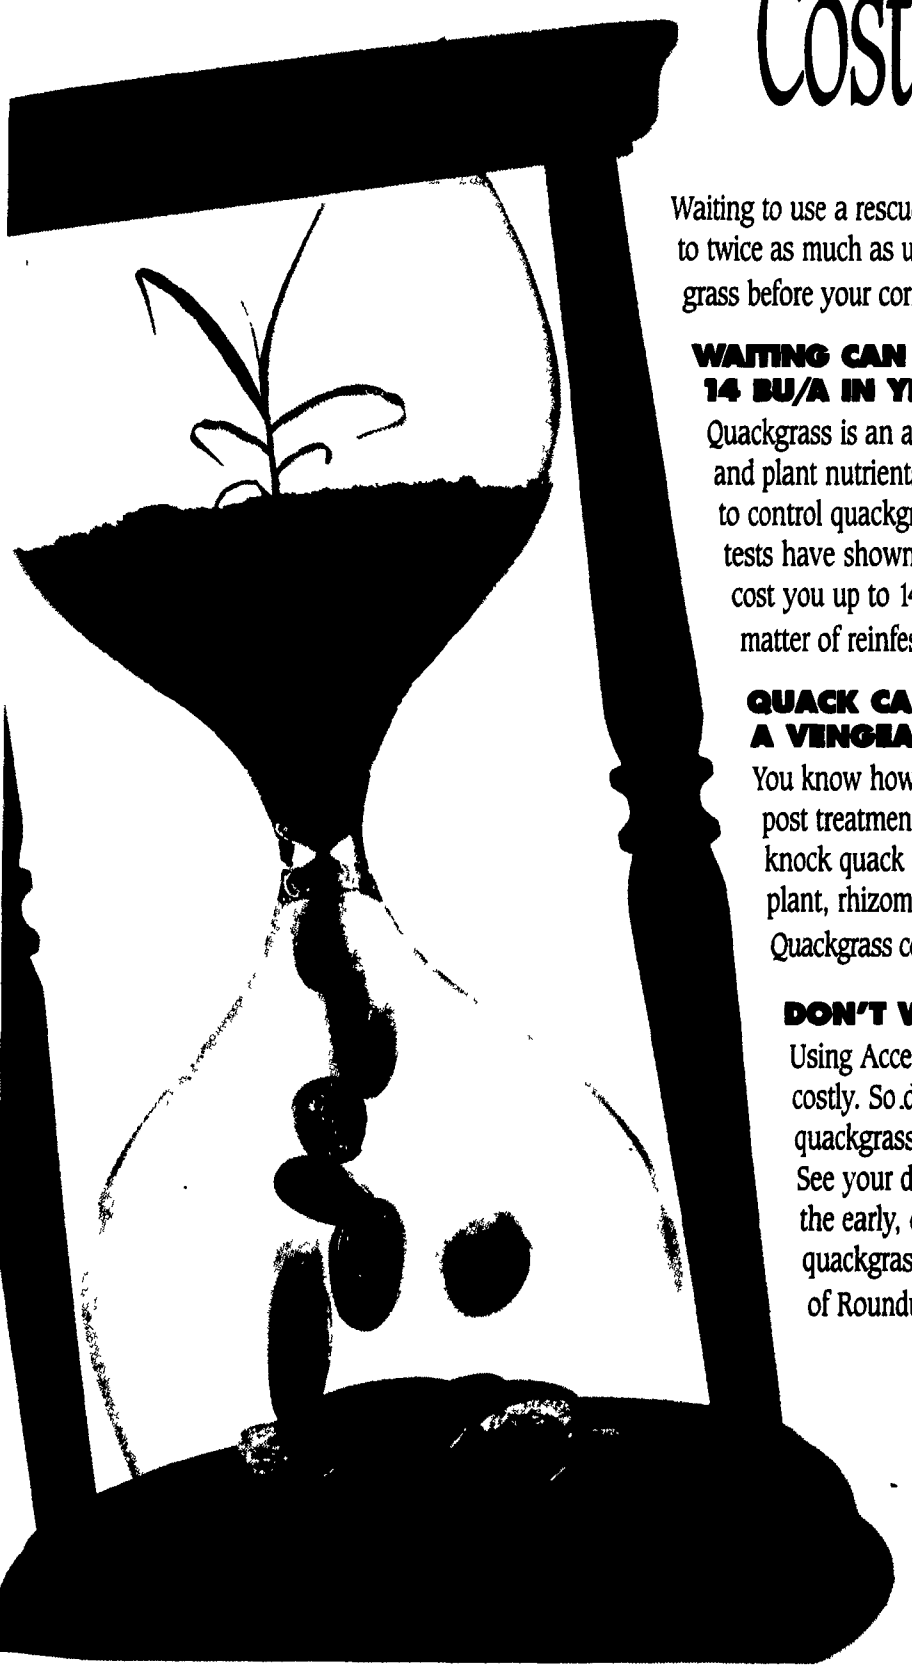
Waiting To Control Quackgrass Can Cost You Plenty.



Waiting to use a rescue treatment like Accent* can cost you up to twice as much as using Roundup® herbicide to stop quackgrass before your corn is up. But that's not all you'll pay...

WAITING CAN COST YOU 14 BU/A IN YIELD

Quackgrass is an aggressive competitor for soil moisture and plant nutrients. And if you wait until your corn is up to control quackgrass, you've already lost yield. University tests have shown that waiting to control quackgrass can cost you up to 14 bushels per acre. And then there's the matter of reinfestation...

QUACK CAN COME BACK WITH A VENGEANCE

You know how tough quackgrass can be. Unfortunately, post treatments like Accent don't. They often just knock quack back instead of controlling the entire plant, rhizomes and all, like Roundup. The result? Quackgrass comes back and you're back to square one.

DON'T WAIT UNTIL IT'S TOO LATE

Using Accent after the damage is done can be costly. So don't hesitate. Use Roundup to stop quackgrass before it robs you of yield and profit. See your dealer for the early, economical quackgrass control of Roundup.

Green Thumb Clinic March 18

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.)—On Saturday morning, March 18, from 9 a.m. to noon, the master gardeners of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension will host the second Green Thumb Clinic in 1995 at the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office Meeting Room at the Courthouse in Honesdale.

Topics to be covered include oriental vegetables, how to read that soil test, propagation techniques of house plants, how to buy and handle transplants, and sick house plant clinic.

Green thumb clinics are designed to help gardeners at all levels improve their skills and gain more enjoyment from their gardening efforts. Reservations are required. The cost for the clinic is $5 and is payable after 8:30 a.m. the morning of the clinic.

For more information and to make a reservation, call the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Office at (717) 253-5970, ext. 239.

What makes an outbreak particularly dangerous is that it can easily be generated by next-door neighbors who grow tomatoes in gardens. Without constant and frequent fungicide treatment, late blight attacks tomatoes and is spread by air to potato plants. The disease can originate in tomato or potato hosts and can strike either.

Fry showed examples of the effects of late blight at the Cornell University research plots in Ithaca, N.Y. Of the plots shown, late blight was started Aug. 2 last year and by Aug. 19, much of the foliage was gone. "The disease can increase and spread dramatically," said Fry.

The disease can progress from 1 percent of total coverage to total death in a span of 18-28 days.

What is worse is that good growing conditions for potatoes also spell good conditions for the outbreak and spread of late blight.

The fungus was originally brought to the U.S. from central Mexico in the late 1830s and early 1840s, according to Fry. It was the primary cause of the Irish Potato Famine in 1845. It can readily spread by air to neighbor fields.

The mating type of the original fungus was A1, an "asexual" organism that cannot reproduce itself. It needs a living host in order to survive. But more virulent and longer-lasting mating types emerged through the years, such as the A2 mating type.

What concerns researchers, according to Fry, is the emergence of more deadly and longer-lasting types, the A-7 or A-8 strains, which can reproduce and may be extremely difficult to handle. The new types, isolated in 1992, are very aggressive, can infect tomatoes and potatoes readily, and are resistant to commercial fungicides.

In 1994, US-7 isolates were discovered in New York, Virginia, Tennessee, South Carolina, and Florida, according to the researcher. US-8 isolates have been discovered in New York, Maine, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Michigan, Illinois, Oregon, and Washington.

Dr. William E. Fry, Department of Plant Pathology, Cornell University, told about 150 potato growers that the new isolate could be more fit, more virulent, more aggressive, survive longer, and resist most major fungicides in the long run.

Even Maine had problems with late blight because of the bad weather conditions last year, according to Leigh Morrow, extension crop specialist, University of Maine.

Terry Bourgoin, director of plant industries, Maine Department of Agriculture, spoke about the importance of making sure the fungus does not overwinter in storage.

Dr. Donald Daum, Department of Ag Engineering, Penn State, provided information on "getting the whole plant covered" with a spray program.

Because of the subsequent soft rot because of blight infection, many potatoes were culled and dumped after harvest. These dumping sites can easily store mating types.

With the new A-7 and A-8 mating types, reproduction is possible. As a result, "oospores" are generated, which can "recombine" traits and make the fungus more durable. Oospores can survive on clothes, equipment, soil, and other places. They can even survive freezing.

The two long-term problems with the mating types are the fact that they can mutate and that the oospores have "a good survival structure," said Fry. "They can survive a lot of things."

Fry examined some trials with various types of fungicides. The important thing for growers to remember is that they must apply fungicides early and often. Applying a low dosage frequently rather than a high dosage infrequently works best in blight control, according to Fry.

Also, growers need to communicate with each other about the spraying programs, so that both can work together to ensure the blight is under control. Potato growers need to keep an eye out what is happening around them — if a neighbor is growing tomatoes, and the tomato plants aren't being treated for late blight, the risk of outbreak in potatoes is intensified.

"There is no silver bullet," said Fry, "for dealing with late blight."

Management will depend on a variety of factors, especially weather. According to Fry, New York extension believes late blight will be a problem this year.

Conditions need to be humid, warm, and wet for late blight to occur. If the season proves hot and dry, late blight shouldn't be a factor, according to growers.

Growers need to improve scouting, weather monitoring, and more closely inspect the seed source for signs of blight. Work is being conducted at several universities on coming up with blight-resistant cultivars, of which some work proves promising.

At the Wednesday morning annual meeting of the cooperative, Roger Springer, general manager, told those present to "communicate and ask a lot of questions. It's a serious situation that we all need to come to grips with."

Even Maine had problems with late blight because of the bad weather conditions last year, according to Leigh Morrow, extension crop specialist, University of Maine. Particularly hard hit was the east and northeast portions of the state, in Aroostook County. Where areas had twice the rainfall, the problem was really serious, according to Morrow. The drier areas of the state were able to keep late blight under control.

The total Maine potato cull crop was 500,000 CWT, and piles were covered and composted. What growers learned through the experience was the importance of controlling the inoculum "and protecting foliage — and that's it," said Morrow.

He told the growers to check the seedlots and "test your seed.

"I don't think we can expect to go to zero tolerance on blight," he said.

WARNING!

DON'T THROW AWAY UP TO 45% OF YOUR HAY.

Losses occur when crops are stored--regardless of the storage method Those losses are real--colorless, odorless and invisible--you can't see them, but they're there.

The air trapped within stored feed begins the fermentation process--and fermentation continues until all the air is consumed. The less air within the stored feed, the less loss.

Because bunker silos are not easily packed, losses in bunker silos range from 27% to 45%. If the feed is valued at $30 per ton, every 1000 tons stored in a bunker would suffer losses from $8,100 to $13,500. Tower silo losses range from 3% to 8%, or $900 to $2400 for every 1000 tons.

Those losses occur for every 1000 tons--every time feed is stored, year after year Before investing in any storage method, consider the total costs--including fermentation loss.

Conservation District Directors To Visit Capitol

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — County conservation district directors will make their annual trip to the State Capitol on Monday, March 13 to better educate their legislators about the accomplishments and funding needs of conservation districts in natural resource protection.

More than 50 directors from many of the 66 conservation districts are expected to spend the day visiting their local legislators to discuss issues of concern. District directors are volunteer local boards appointed by county commissioners to oversee the work of paid district staff.

The day is part of the week-long celebration of Conservation District Week, March 12-18, the 50th anniversary of Pennsylvania's law which established county conservation districts. Acting Secretary of the Department of Environmental Resources James Seif has been invited to present a proclamation by Governor Tom Ridge announcing Conservation District Week.

During their visits, directors will stress that stagnant state funding for conservation district core programs impacts the districts' abilities to properly administer some of the state's programs delegated from the Department of Environmental Resources (DER). The increase in state allocation from fiscal year 1993-1994 still does not cover cost-sharing needs for conservation district technicians.

State funding is allocated to conservation districts through the State Conservation Commission for the employment of staff and special conservation projects. The current allocation provides an average $33,712 per district for an average staff of 4.5 persons. Staff typically spend a majority of their time administering state-delegated programs. Because the Commission is housed within DER, districts have provided a strong form of local input and control of DER regulatory programs. Conservation districts have established a wide variety of natural resource programs that deal with agricultural and non-agricultural related issues.

State Potato Growers Meeting

The extension published a newsletter, Pest Alert, which provided a great deal of timely material about late blight and ways in which growers could work together to treat it.

Morrow spoke about the importance of sprayer calibration to make sure foliage is completely covered and treated to protect against the fungus.

Terry Bourgoin, director of plant industries, Maine Department of Agriculture, spoke about the importance of making sure the fungus does not overwinter in storage. He told growers about the importance of moving all the potatoes out of storage and cleaning and disinfecting the storage areas.

Bourgoin spoke about the statewide seedlot late blight screening program that provided information on total infection and how information can be applied to controlling late blight.

Dr. Donald Daum, Department of Ag Engineering, Penn State, provided information on "getting the whole plant covered" with a spray program. Daum spoke about how growers can achieve total coverage and selecting the right sprayer system for the task, choosing the best nozzle, and how to achieve proper droplet atomization, deposition, and minimize drift.

Coverage is the key factor in controlling diseases such as late blight.

At the Wednesday morning meeting, Roger Springer, general manager of the cooperative, provided a financial overview. Also, Keith Musser, president of the cooperative, spoke to the members about how the cooperative is "doing more than just trying to market potatoes," including lobbying for grower concerns and taking a strong stand in opposing water usage fees by the Susquehanna River Basin Commission.

New directors were elected. They include District 1, Eugene Manifold, Stewartstown and District 3, Leroy Hoover, Patton, for three-year terms. Three new at-large directors were also elected: Timothy Geiger, Schnecksville, a one-year position; Mark Masser, Hegins, a two-year position; and Ferd Irish, Coudersport, a three-year position.

There's something extra in a starter fertilizer program.

Starter fertilizers unlock benefits for corn farmers. They stimulate seedling growth, hasten crop maturity, improve crop tolerance to some insects, increase crop competition with weeds and frequently increase yields, particularly in production fields featuring conservation tillage and irrigation. Starter fertilizers make crop production more environmentally sound because they improve fertilizer uptake efficiency.

Maryland Holstein Breeders Present Awards, Name Directors

LOIS SZYMANSKI
Maryland Correspondent

CARROLL COUNTY, Md. — The 31st annual Maryland Holstein Convention and Sale were held last weekend in Carroll County, Maryland. On Friday, March 3 the annual business meeting was held at the Comfort Inn. During the meeting the election of officers showed little change. President Charles Iager kept his role, as did Vice President Jason Myers and Secretary Treasurer Anita Hill. New three-year directors elected were David Lease, Tom Crothers, Kevin Leaverton and Arthur Johnson.

The Maryland Outstanding Senior Holstein Breeder award went to the Iagers, of Maple Lawn Farm, and the Maryland Outstanding Junior Holstein award went to Dennis Savage of Keymar. The U.S. Naval Academy was also given the distinguished service award, the A. Doty Remsburg Memorial trophy, for "providing leadership and dedicated service to the dairy industry in Maryland."

The top three Progressive Breeders Registry award winners were C. Renn Remsburg of Middletown, Maple Lawn Farms, Inc. of Fulton for 27 years and Marlin Hoff of New Windsor for 14 years. 1994 Progressive Genetics Herd Award winners, given to herds with the highest TPI of all females in the herd, were given to Allen Brothers, D. Richard Flickinger, Marliln Hoff, Kevin Scott Hood, Jason and Donna Myers and Genfarm Partnership.

The business meeting was followed by lunch and guest speaker, Richard "Dick" Chichester, recipient of the Dairy Shrine's most coveted "Guest of Honor" award. Chichester came to Maryland in 1963 as sire analyst for the Maryland-West Virginia Bull Stud. He then served as Sire Programs Manager for Sire Power, Inc., before going to Select Sires in 1971. He has served as general manager at Select Sires for 22 years. At the convention's business meeting, Chichester spoke of the convention's theme, "Forged by our history, united in our future."

"I tried to bring in the theme, by talking about the history of the Holstein breed from 2,000 years ago," Chichester said. "Up until about 1950 we had made no genetic progress what-so-ever because we just didn't have the scientific means to do it. Then, in 1950, we made some gradual progress, but now we are making tremendous progress in the dairy industry."

"We can work together in the future to enhance the genetics that we already have, and build from that foundation that we have." Chichester highlighted some of the tools we have to work with in the dairy industry today as compared to our yester-years.

"Today we almost have what I call an information overkill!" he added. Many attendees commented on how Chichester's talk brought common sense issues into play.

While the business meeting was taking place at the Comfort Inn, many of the lady-folk were off enjoying a day in Carroll County. An 11 a.m. luncheon and tour at Antrim 1844 in Taneytown, Maryland was the highlight of the ladies' program. The historical mansion known as Antrim 1844 was built in 1844 as a farming estate once tended to by slaves and known simply as the Antrim House. Today, the totally restored Antrim 1844 operates as a bed and breakfast inn with elegant formal gardens and updated cottages and outbuildings, still retaining all of its antebellum charm. At Antrim 1844, the ladies' luncheon took place in what was once a slave quarters, but now operates as the Smokehouse Restaurant. Following the visit to Antrim 1844 the ladies' program took a turn toward shopping, with country crafts being the main object of the shop!

While the ladies were at Antrim 1844, and the men-folk were at the Comfort Inn, the youth program was taking place, too! After viewing some educational displays at the Carroll County Agricultural Center, the Maryland Junior Holstein Club held its annual business meeting.

There was a slide presentation highlighting Carroll County juniors followed by a pizza lunch, then the young Holstein breeders were off to Piney Run Park and Nature Center for an environmental program and a scavenger hunt. But, by 3 p.m. they were back at the Ag Center for a Dairy Bowl competition.

On Friday evening, everyone came together for the convention's banquet. Held at Wilhelm's Ltd., and featuring a buffet dinner of fried chicken, fried shrimp, roast beef and more, the dinner was the site of the junior awards, including an introduction of the judging teams. A fun auction, held to benefit the Maryland Holstein Dairy Bowl teams at the National Convention, brought in a total of $2,695. Items auctioned off had all been donated and included a gingerbread barnyard, several milk cans and bottles, a Santa doll mann of Shermansdale, Pennsylvania for $7,100.

With auctioneer Denny Remsburg revving the crowd up, and Mike Heath reading pedigrees, the auction moved along at a fast paced clip. The third highest selling cow of the day was one of Carroll County's own. Peace & Plenty offered Jawood Aerostar Omanda-ET, a cow born in July of 1992 and classified "very good." Jawood Aerostar Omanda-ET sold to Leaseway Holsteins for $6,100.

"Dad bought her two years ago as a calf in the (MD) state Sale in Garrett County," Gus Schwartzbeck recalled. "She calved in," he said, "and she is a fine young cow!"

Gus Schwartzbeck said that the sale went off so well because of the incredible amount of help received. "Everyone pitched in," he said, "but I particularly want to thank Brian Derr, Greg Burdette, Eddie Russell, Scott Hay, Allan Chaney and Dan MacKenzie," he said. "Those six guys volunteered all of their time and they were there from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. with a lot of razzing from me," he added with a laugh. "It's help like that that makes a sale come together!"

The third highest selling cow was Jawood Aerostar Omanda-ET (VG-86), sold by Peace and Plenty Farms was purchased by Leaseway Holsteins for $6,100. Around the cow are from left, Nona and Joe Schwartzbeck; Dave Lease; Gus Schwartzbeck; and Danny McKenzie at the halter. Denny Remsburg and Mike Heath are in the box.

Penn State Sets Garden Symposium

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—On Saturday, March 18, Penn State is sponsoring an all-day landscaping program intended for novice gardeners as well as professional landscapers, for designing an entire yard or creating the specialty flower bed at the Farm and Home Center.

The symposium will feature nationally recognized horticulturists Steve Frowine, vice president, White Flower Farm, Litchfield, Conn.; Bruce Hellerick, regional horticultural specialist with the Brickman Group; Marilyn Daly of Rosewood Farm, Dallastown, Pa.; and Julianne Schieffer, Penn State forestry agent.

The morning begins with "The Elements of Landscape Design," presented by Perry Morgan, assistant professor of landscape contracting for the Department of Horticulture at Penn State University. These professionals teach how to select, plant, and care for trees, shrubs, perennials, and annuals to build that landscape plan. Lepidopterist Rich Mikula from Hole-In-Hand Butterfly Farms, creator of the "Butterfly Emporium" for Dollywood, presents ideas for attracting butterflies to your garden. During several breaks, certified massage therapist Janice Eastman offers techniques to avoid muscle aches and pains due to gardening.

The symposium is sponsored by Penn State, The Lancaster Center, Cooperative Extension, Lancaster County, and Master Gardeners of Lancaster County. Cost for the day is $35, and includes continental breakfast, lunch, and up-to-the-minute hand-out material. Call the extension office at (717) 394-6851 for information or for registration.

Mid East UDIA Hosts Annual Meeting At Dairy Spectacular

COLUMBUS, Ohio—Dairy producers will learn more about the value of their investment in product promotion at the opening luncheon of the 1995 Ohio Spring Dairy Spectacular.

Mid East United Dairy Industry Association, the advertising and promotion organization for Federal Orders 33 and 36, will host the luncheon and annual information meeting Thursday, April 6, in the Circle Building on the Ohio State Fairgrounds. Registration begins at 10:30 a.m. Lunch will be served at 11 a.m. and is free to those in attendance.

Mid East UDIA management will share how their team of marketers, dietitians, home economists and communicators build demand for dairy products and make a difference for the dairy industry. Topics to be addressed include the new fluid milk advertising campaign, Milk. Help Yourself; workshops to help retailers and restaurateurs to increase the demand for milk through proper care and marketing, school breakfast programs to benefit children and increase milk demand, nutrition education and health professional programs to help consumers make dairy products a part of their diets, and efforts to respond to media and consumer crises involving the image and safety of dairy products.

The information meeting will conclude by 12:45 p.m. as the Ohio Spring Dairy Spectacular events begin at 1 p.m. Dairy producers in Federal Orders 33 and 36 will receive an invitation to the annual meeting. Others interested in attending may RSVP at least seven days in advance by calling Mid East UDIA at (800) 292-MILK.

Does your alfalfa variety produce more milk?

In a recent University of Wisconsin lactation study, cows fed quality-selected WL 322HQ alfalfa produced four more pounds of milk per day than cows consuming a widely grown non-HQ variety. This additional milk production came at no sacrifice in milk composition and resulted in significantly greater yields of both fat and protein from the cows fed WL 322HQ.

For a dairyman milking 100 cows, this increased milk production – due solely to WL 322HQ being used in the ration – could generate as much as $20,000 in additional income.

We've put WL 322HQ to the test and the results are in: WL HQ alfalfas provide dairymen with the best returns in the business.

Holstein Names Lentz Field Representative

BRIDGEWATER, Va. — According to an article published in the February issue of Southeastern Holstein News, an official quarterly publication of the Delaware, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and West Virginia Holstein-Freisian associations, Lebanon County native David Lentz has been recently named a field representative for the national Holstein Association.

Lentz, a recent graduate from Penn State University, is to serve as field representative in Florida, Georgia, North and South Carolinas, and southwest Virginia.

David, son of Gary and Barbara Lentz, of Lebanon, is to serve as a communication link between members and the national office, located in Brattleboro, Vt.

His main goal is to generate more interest from members and non-members in Holstein programs.

A 1992 National Distinguished Junior Member, Lentz has achieved a great deal of success in his pursuit of dairying and Holsteins.

His parents, Robert and Sandra Lentz, had milked 65 registered Holsteins until selling their farm in 1987, and David helped with chores there, and then at his uncle Gary Lentz's 70-head registered Holstein farm, also in Lebanon.

In fact, while Dave is currently residing in Kannapolis, N.C., he said during a Thursday telephone interview that he still has four wholy owned registered Holsteins and interests in two others that kept at his uncle's farm.

While working for his parents and uncle, Dave not only raised and fed calves and did registration work, he did breeding, marketing and advertising for their registered stock.

Lentz earned a degree in dairy and animal science with an emphasis on business form Penn State, while also earning a minor in international agriculture, Lentz has a number of achievements to his credit, including being named outstanding junior and senior in the University's College of Agricultural Sciences's Deparment of Dairy and Animal Science.

He was president of the Penn State Dairy Science club, chaired the Nittany Lion Fall Classic sale, and was a member of the state's top dairy bowl team for two years, 1990 and 1991.

He also was an outstanding dairy cattle judge, serving as a member of three teams representing Pennsylvania nationally in contests: in 4-H, FFA and at the collegiate level.

Prior to taking the job as field representative for the Southeast, Lentz had worked as a field representative intern in 1993, spending seven weeks in California promotin Holstein activity.

More recently, he worked part time with Clarence Stauffer doing registration catchup work in Pennsylvania.

David has also been involved with serving on the 1995 National Junior Convention Planning Committee, and the Pennsylvania Youth Committee. The national convention is to be held in Pittsburgh in June.

Lentz has said many times how grateful he is for all the support and guidance and help he has received from adults within the dairy and Holstein industry, and he said he has a commitment to return that support by working with youth in his new home area.

Meanwhile, he said he has been busy traveling around to the various states meeting with people and getting some "grass roots" meetings scheduled.

These type of meetings are not the large barn-type meetings which include a variety of family oriented activities. He said these are more kitchen-table meetings, where a smaller, more intimate group of Holstein enthusiasts can sit down and discuss issues.

David said that these meetings are a good way for national Holstein to understand better what it can do to serve members.

NAAB Applies For Aid For Semen Export Promotions

COLUMBIA Mo. — As a member of the recently formed U.S. Livestock Genetic Export Inc. (USLGE), the National Association of Animal Breeders (NAAB) has applied for funds to be allocated to qualified private firms for promotion of USA origin bovine semen in international markets.

The funds are made possible under the auspices of the Market Promotion Program (MPP) administered by the USDA Foreign Agricultural Service (FAS). The final funding level for the USLGE/NAAB Branded Program will be determined by FAS.

The USLGE/NAAB Branded Program supports the efforts of USA firms to promote private labels of frozen bovine semen throughout the world. The ultimate objective is to increase the total market for bovine semen from all USA exporters.

Allocation of available funds will be made to qualified USA firms on an equitable and uniform basis within the guidelines of USDA-FAS and consistent with the objectives of the MPP program.

Under the program, participants will be reimbursed up to 50 percent of eligible promotion expenses up to the amount of their respective allocations authorized by NAAB. The 1995 program year will be July 1, 1995 through June 30,1996. All program expenses must be incurred before the end of the program on June 30,1996.

USA companies desiring to take advantage of this program must submit an application to NAAB using the form prescribed by NAAB. The deadline for receipt of applications by NAAB is noon, Monday, May 1.

In determining the qualifications of each applicant and fund allocations, consideration will be given to previous experience with exporting of bovine semen from the USA and the applicant's ability to provide staff support to supervise and carry out the proposed promotional activities.

Willingness and ability to provide adequate supplies of USA origin bovine semen of the quality desired by foreign buyers in response to the demand generated by the promotional activities must be demonstrated.

The method by which the applicant proposes to evaluate the success of the proposed promotional activities must be included.

The applicant must own the bull whose semen is promoted and own the label or brand name under which the semen is to be promoted, or by written agreement with the proprietor, be assigned exclusive rights of representation for the semen and brand to be promoted. All semen and brands to be promoted must be USA origin.

Additional information about the program and applications are available upon request from NAAB by contacting Dr. Gordon A. Doak, P.O. Box 1033, Columbia, MO 65205, (314) 445-4406.

Farmer Cooperatives Advocate Volunteer Water Quality Program

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Farmers and their cooperatives advocate a voluntary, incentive-based approach to water quality issues, an NCFC spokesman last week told Chairman Sherwood Boehlert (R-NY) and other members of the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee's Subcommittee on Water Resources and Environment.

Steve Hoefer, vice president of public affairs for Agway in Syracuse, New York, said agricultural organizations recommend a strategy to "maintain and enhance the quality of water resources through effective management of nonpoint source pollution from agricultural activities, where problems are identified, in a manner compatible with food and agricultural policy objectives."

The ag co-op leader commended full Committee Chairman Bud Shuster (R-PA) and other cosponsors for introducint HR 961, which shifts the focus of Clean Water Act reauthorization debate from a top-down, command and control strategy to an approach that places emphasis on empowering states to develop programs that will allow farmers to become partners in addressing water quality concerns through more flexible, cost-effective means.

He advocated a strategy that employs an educational outreach program, developing a single farm plan concept, use of certified advisors, and incentives that encourage voluntary adoption.

Hoefer told the subcommittee that Agway and other cooperatives are considerably hampered in their efforts to help farmers comply with water quality regulations and programs explaining, "We have to deal with multiple agencies and different requirements. For example, in our 12-state region, six federal statutes and programs come into play: the Clean Water Act, the Coastal Zone Management Act, the Chesapeake Bay program, the Great Lakes Initiative, the Safe Drinking Water Act, and the Farm Bill."

He specifically recommended four key improvements to HR 961:

- Consolidate federal quality programs where possible, and send one clear policy signal to states and stakeholders;
- Resolve serious problems raised by C.A.R.E. v. Southview Farm where the court decision could unfairly subject many of America's farmers to onerous regulations and clean water citizen suits;
- Revise provisions that could unintentionally encourage implementation of enforcement mechanisms and detract from the partnership approach; and
- Maximize limited federal resources by engaging private sector capabilities, such as those in cooperatives.

"We in agriculture are already doing a great deal to move toward the water quality finish line," Hoefer said. "H.R. 961 is a step in the right direction toward providing a voluntary, incentive-based approach."

The National Council of Farmer Cooperatives represents nearly 100 major farmer marketing and supply cooperatives, the banks of the Farm Credit System, and 31 state councils of cooperatives. Its members, in turn, represent nearly 4,300 local cooperatives with a combined membership of nearly two million individual farmers.

Hershey Foods 'Sweet' On Envirothon

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.)—Hershey Foods Corporation, for the fourth consecutive year, has granted $25,000 to the Pennsylvania State Envirothon.

The Envirothon is a program designed to teach students about what is happening in the environment and how their actions can affect the environment. Students learn about issues and problems facing today's environment through a variety of competitive events and educational activities.

"We're proud to sponsor the Pennsylvania State Envirothon which does an excellent job educating kids about the environment," said Andrea Bowerman, corporate contribution manager, Hershey Foods Corporation. "We hope this program will help raise environmentally conscious people."

The Envirothon program begins at the local level. Five member teams rotate through five testing stations that include questions related to aquatics, forestry, soils, wildlife, and a current issue (this year's issue is groundwater). The team with the highest overall score in the five subject areas wins the local competition and represents its county at the state competition. State finalists advance to the National Envirothon.

Since the Envirothon's inception in 1979, participation has increased dramatically. More than 15,000 students from 59 counties are involved in the 1995 program. The continued success of the Envirothon reflects the participation and support of county conservation districts, cooperating state and federal agencies, and environmentally active groups, organizations, and businesses.

This year's State Envirothon competition, which is sponsored by Hershey Foods Corporation, the Pennsylvania Association of Conservation Districts, and the State Conservation Commission, is scheduled for June 23-24 at Bald Eagle State Park near Bellefonte in Centre County. The winning team will represent Pennsylvania at the National Envirothon, held July 31-August 4, at Ricks College in Rexburg, Idaho. The National Envirothon competition expects to have teams from 30 states participate, up from 22 in 1994.

Atlantic Breeders Annual Meeting

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — The 31st annual meeting for Atlantic Breeders Cooperative has been scheduled to start 10:30 a.m., March 22, at the Eden Resort Inn and Conference Center, in Lancaster.

This meeting is open to members, although advance reservations must be made through the ABC headquarters in Lancaster.

An orientatation and development conference for all resource/promotion committee people is to be held the previous evening, as the first of three scheduled events this year for membership representatives.

The business of the regular meeting is to include reports on cooperative business activities, and an official seating of member-representatives elected during earlier district meetings.

After dinner, Dr. Gordon Doak, president of the National Association of Animal Breeders (NAAB) is to speak on the interaction of the artificial insemenation industry in the United States with the world dairy industry.

IS YOUR CORN STATE-OF-THE-ART?

It is when you start with advanced IMI-Corn™ hybrids. New IMI-Corn is specifically designed to be used with today's modern herbicides. Advanced herbicides like RESOLVE™ CP herbicide. The contact and residual control of RESOLVE can put down your toughest broadleaf weeds and key grasses — with 60 to 90% less active ingredient per acre than standard corn herbicide programs. And it does it all with no atrazine. So insist on state-of-the-art performance.

Gov. Ridge Announces '95-'96 Budget Proposal

comes on line. Such a situation occurred several years ago, under the Casey administration, when the state legislature didn't approve a budget until late August.

According to newspaper reports and news releases from administration agencies and legislators, the proposal has received wide support. Deadline-pressing to pass the budget is apparently not in the outlook, according to several news releases from state legislators.

A Wednesday news release from the state Department of Agriculture (PDA) stated that Charles Brosius, Gov. Ridge's nominee and acting state secretary of agriculture, said that state farms and agribusinesses will profit from Gov. Tom Ridge's proposed tax cuts that go along with the budget.

In the release, Brosius said, "Every farm and agricultural processor in the commonwealth can realize a better bottom line under the governor's tax cuts. Lower taxes mean more money in farmers' pockets without higher consumer prices."

Of the proposed state budget, the Department of Agriculture is slated to receive a total of $116,184,000 this year.

That spending includes all sources of funds and covers all projects.

The amount proposed to go to the state Department of Agriculture from the state General Fund is $45,863,000 million, according to the agriculture department press office.

According to Gene Schenck, press secretary, there are five categories of funding identified in the budget — Special Funds, General Funds, Federal Funds, Augmentations, and Other Funds.

General Funds are those generated mainly through state income taxes, etc., while revenues included under Other Funds come from the sale of dog licenses, public weigh masters, the recovery of lost commodities, etc.

Augmentations are funds derived from fees for other licenses and registrations.

Of the types of spending, there is a basic distinction made between recurring and non-recurring expenditures.

Last year, for example, the state General Fund allocation to agriculture was $45,243,000, which is slightly less than this year's proposal. That figure includes one-time spending and repeated spending.

However, this governor's proposed General Fund allocation of $45,863,000 million to agriculture is all recurring funds, otherwise known as operational funds.

In terms of recurring funds, the amount allocated to agriculture under former Gov. Robert Casey's last budget was $43,571,000.

According to an agriculture department spokesman, what this means is that proposed operational spending for agriculture represents an increase of 5.2 percent.

Non-Recurring Funds

While included in the overall budget, non-recurring funds should be considered investment spending, extraneous to annual spending.

An example of non-recurring funds would be last year's $800,000 spent to build an incinerator at the University of Pennsylvania's New Bolton Center. It is needed to allow Pennsylvania to destroy diseased carcasses, instead of paying some other state or facility to do it at a higher cost.

For example, two years ago during an interview about the state's effort to coordinate an effective and accredited animal diagnostic and disease control system, Dr. C.S. Card, executive director of the PDA Animal Health and Diagnostic Commission, talked about the cost of handling large numbers of condemned diseased animals.

At that time, Card had said that he was aware of a Pennsylvania shepherd whose flock had Scrapie disease, and that it had been estimated that the cost to incinerate the 120-head flock was from $8,000 to $9,000 through a private contractor.

With each of the laboratories within the state animal diagnostic system having an incinerator to handle diseased carcasses, it would reduce the cost of eliminating potential human health problems and also provide an accredited system within the state.

The incinerator at New Bolton was part of a project to completely revamp the state's ability to detect and control animal diseases which had suffered from negligence for many years.

And it is also part of a broader-scoped project to put the state in a better position not only to protect the health of its citizens and the health of domestic animals, but to give the state's livestock producers an ability to sell to a wider market.

According to Dr. Card, without an officially accredited laboratory diagnostic system, many producers are cut out of competition in selling to export markets.

Expanding export markets and the ability of Pennsylvanians to export goods has been part of the governor's announced plan to revitalize the business environment of the state.

Included in this year's budget is money to move construction of a new state diagnostic laboratory adjacent to the PDA headquarters building in Harrisburg. The current laboratory, built in 1957, is in Summerdale, and because of it not being kept up to date, the state lost accreditation of its lab in 1988. The state was then forced to pay other state's to carry out certain work.

As recently as early January, Dr. Card received notice from the chairman of the American Association of Veterinary Laboratory Diagnosticians Inc. Accreditation Committee that because of the work to develop a tripartite system involving state land grant university facilities and the agriculture department, the state regained temporary accreditation.

In a letter to Dr. Card dated Jan. 3, M.W. Vorhies, DVM, MS, at the Department of Veterinary Diagnosis, College of Veterinary Medicine, Kansas State University, stated, "Congratulations on the successful beginning. The committee has granted provisional accreditation for three years and has asked for annual progress reports related to committee recommendations."

In other words, the state has received accreditation again, though it is conditional — it depends on whether other things promised to be done, get done.

In the budget, Ridge has proposed spending an additional $485,000 to speed up the movement of the Summerdale Laboratory and open the PDA's $6.7 million animal health laboratory.

"The budget includes the final funding component to actually move the animal health lab into a new facility," Brosius said. "We expect to break ground for the new lab in a few weeks."

More For Ag

While the accreditation gives Pennsylvania a boost in providing services to help certain types of exporting business, it also provides a sense of security that a functional system is once again coming in place that can help protect people's life investments in livestock farming operations, as well as protect human health, among other non-direct benefits to quick detection and response to potentially devastating disease.

What Gov. Ridge's proposal may prove to do even more for farmers is through the proposed tax cuts.

According to the PDA press release, Brosius said that making taxation more in line with other states helps provide an incentive for processing businesses to locate here, thus providing additional markets for locally produced raw agriculture products.

"Pennsylvania has done a lot to promote and protect farms, but the best thing we can do for agriculture is to expand markets to make farming profitable," Brosius said.

Under Ridge's proposal, the state Corporate Net Income tax would drop to 9.99 percent this year, two years ahead of the scheduled reduction.

According to Brosius, another benefit to farming operations, which by nature experience fluctuating amounts of income, would be the governor's proposed expansion of a special allowance for calculating taxes.

According to the news release, the governor has proposed expanding the Net Operating Loss (NOL) "carryforward" provision. It is basically a tax break for those who, by the nature of their business, have to juggle regularly fluctuating income.

Under the NOL, certain businesses would be allowed to use prior year losses to cut back on the amount of tax they would otherwise have to pay during a profitable year. In other words, it allows those with businesses such as farming to be more fairly taxed because it allows the highs and lows to balance out for tax purposes.

In addition to being able to use the NOL, in his budget proposal, Ridge has requested that the limit on how much loss can be deducted to be doubled from $500,000 to $1 million.

Furthermore, according to the PDA news release, Ridge has proposed double-weighting of tax deducations for those businesses which create jobs in Pennsylvania.

In his budget announcement, Ridge said he wanted to eliminate the state's "Widow Tax" which taxes at 3 percent the inheritance from a spouse. The tax is currently set to be eliminated in 1998, but Gov. Ridge has requested that it be done with immediately.

"Elimination of the Widow's Tax will get rid of one of Pennsylvania's most unfair taxes and make it easier to keep a farm within a family," Brosius said.

Dairy Day II Features Real Experiences

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Discussions of real experiences with adopting new ideas into dairying, and straight talk about what considerations go into considerations of investments into nontypical dairy management were among the topics shared by a panel of dairy producers and consultants during Lancaster County Extension Service's Dairy Day II, held Tuesday at the Lancaster Farm and Home Center.

The top dairy county in the state, Lancaster County holds two different dairy day events, while other counties hold at most one. The events are normally scheduled to occur a week apart.

Last week's dairy day event focused on cow comfort and mastitis. This week's event primarily with opinions of technologies and business objectives.

The day started off humorously with Robert Anderson, county agronomic extension agent, setting the record straight about a typographical error in the announcement of topics to be covered. It listed a pest as "spring redroot."

Anderson said he had never heard of such a pest, but that he would talk about "spiny" redroot. He also said that while the error in the program announcement was a mistake, that there are new weeds and pests showing up every year, more so in recent years.

According to Anderson, in the past year he saw several incidence of a wild millet showing up in Lancaster County as a weed. It is a major pest in the West, he said.

But Anderson said that with the anticipated opening up of world trade, that an increase in the introduction of exotic pests should be expected.

Anderson spent most of his talk discussing the standards imposed on farmers by the federal Worker Protection Standards which require such things as specific signs being posted around fields sprayed with pesticides to warn farm workers (non-immediate family employees only) in both English and Spanish to stay out of the fields.

He reviewed the rules which were formed primarily to benefit a select group of people.

He also reviewed several pests and treatments for control. His talk was worth a credit toward pesticide certification.

The bulk of the event was spent in discussions by several producers. On the panel were Dale Hershey, of Hershey Brothers, in Manheim; Steve Hershey (not directly related), a producer in the Elizabethtown area; Tom Barley, of Elizabethtown; Bruce Kreider, a Bainbridge area producer and former extension agent; and Greg Schweiger, a dairy consultant with Lancaster Veterinary Associates.

The panel discussions were broken into morning and afternoon sessions with James Fry, of Brandt's Farm Supply, in Elizabethtown, and Darryl Gross, of Keystone Farm Credit, joining the panel during the afternoon.

The format was for the moderator — Schweiger in the morning, Gross in the afternoon — asking the panel questions. Questions from the audience were saved until the end

Ag Groups, PennDOT Reach Compromise On Farm-Trucks

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — House Majority Whip John E. Barley this week announced a compromise has been reached with Pennsylvania's farm organizations and PennDOT to correct a costly and onerous farm vehicle inspection program from enactment before special regulations were adopted by the department.

Barley (R-Lancaster) and Sen. John Peterson (R-Venango) brought farm organizations and PennDOT together for talks earlier in the month when it appeared the department was going to enforce the same stringent inspection criteria on certain farm trucks as over-the-road trucks.

These farm trucks—used mainly on the farm — carry no license plate, but farmers must obtain a certificate of exemption every two years in order to drive on commonwealth roadways between farms.

The solution, which was offered as an amendment in the House Appropriations Committee on Monday, gives farmers an option on farm truck exemptions and inspections.

Barley said problems cropped up as a result of passage of Act 115 of 1994, which became effective Feb. 5. PennDOT officials interpreted the new law as requiring all farm truck-exempt vehicles to get a regular safety inspection, despite the fact that many of these vehicles were heavily modified for farm use, making it impossible to meet current inspection standards.

The proposed compromise would correct this misinterpretation.

"If enacted, this proposal will allow farmers the option of a less onerous inspection procedure or, if they choose, no inspection in exchange for driving less miles on roadways," Barley said. The Lancaster County House Republican Whip noted that House Bill 511, along with the compromise language, was scheduled to be voted on by the full House on Wednesday.

Barley said the amendment would establish the following three classes:

• The Type I vehicle under 17,000 pounds will be the same as the current biennial exempt vehicle with no special safety inspection needed. Its fee remains at $24 and the vehicles may be used incidentally on highways during daylight and within a 25-mile radius of the farm.

• The Type II vehicle is over 17,000 pounds and is under a daytime only, 10-mile radius from the farm driving restriction with no inspection requirement. The biennial fee would be $50.

• The Type I over 17,000 pounds vehicles would be permitted day and night driving, and a 25-mile radius for a $100 fee. These vehicles must also submit a modified safety inspection.

"The amendment permits PennDOT to modify the inspection program for Type I vehicle over 17,000 pounds by publishing notice in the Pennsylvania Bulletin until the necessary regulations are promulgated," Barley said.

"Many farmers granted day and night driving and 25-mile radius driving in Act 115 of 1994 did not want or need this provision. This amendment would give them an option."

Responding to Barley's earlier request, Transportation Secretary-designate Bradley Mallory authorized the extension of the period for safety inspection of heavy farm trucks and truck-tractors until March 6. A subsequent ruling at Barley's request has suspended this program entirely until legislation is adopted. Until that time, the heavier trucks will not be permitted night driving.

Barley said this proposal has the support of the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau, the Pennsylvania Grange, the Pennsylvania Farmers' Union and PennDOT officials.

Lancaster Conservation Banquet March 23

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—The 44th Annual Banquet of the Lancaster County Conservation District is scheduled to be held on Thursday evening, March 23, at Yoder's Restaurant and Steakhouse, New Holland, at 7 p.m.

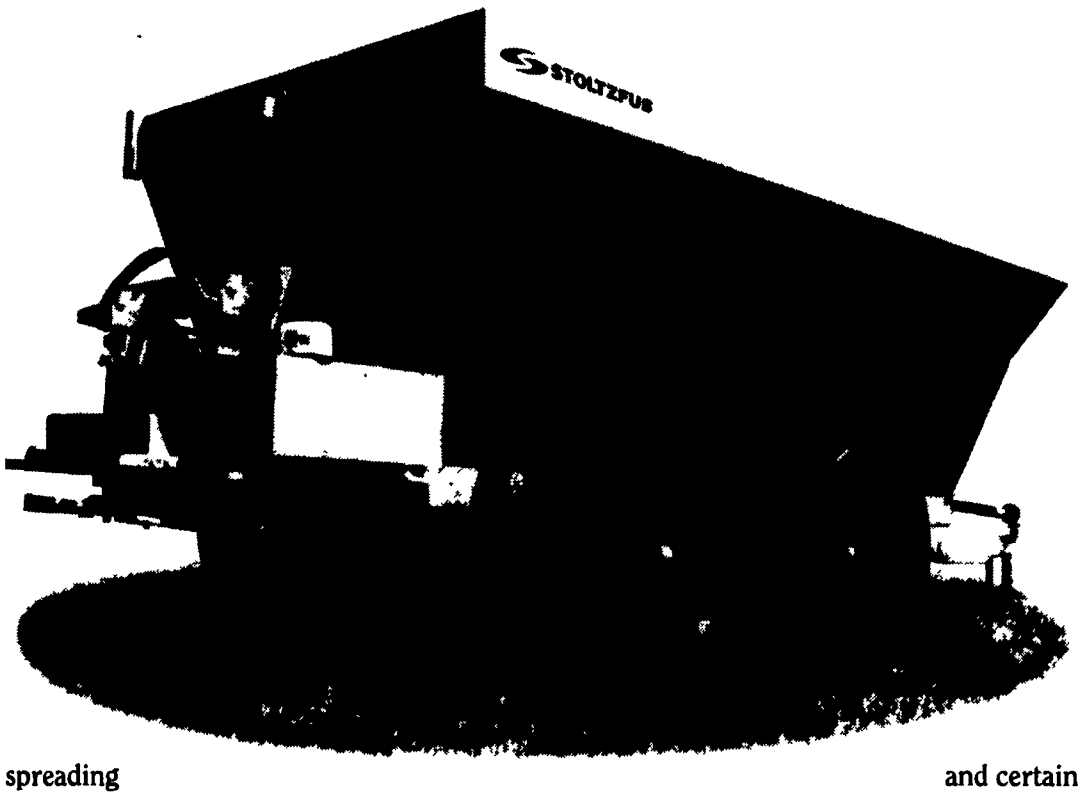
Tickets at the cost of $12 each are available from any district director, members of the staff, or at the district office by calling (717) 299-5361, for a family style dinner.

Guest speaker is Daniel Lynch, wildlife education specialist, for the southeast region of the Pennsylvania Game Commission.

Prior to Lynch's appointment to the Pennsylvania Game Commission, he was an agriculture science teacher in Berks County. His job entails doing programs for students and adults in the southest region on a variety of topics related to wildlife education.

The district will also be presenting the Outstanding Cooperator Award for 1995 and a number of Oustanding Service awards.

Sometimes You Need A Spreader Built Like A Tank.



When spreading stockpiled lime, for example. The Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreader is likely the most powerful spreader of its kind on the market today. You see, we've been building them since 1945, and farmers are still using Stoltzfus Wet Lime Spreaders they've had for 20, even 30 years. Our special drag chain is 4 times stronger than stainless steel, and handles frozen and heavy stockpiled lime with ease. Plus, for spreading compost, composted sludge, poultry litter and certain fertilizers, the WLS is without equal for sheer volume spreading. We call that performance. You'll call it terrific.

We hope you compare a Stoltzfus WLS with other spreaders. It makes us look even better. Price? Sure we may be a little more. But when you end up replacing cheaper units in a few short years, what have you saved? Stoltzfus quality always pays for itself many times over.

Just how tough is a Stoltzfus WLS? Plenty tough. Call today. We'll tell you where to find the dealer nearest you, and send you free literature to inspect.

Meeting Focus: Lancaster County Ag Future

EVERETT NEWSWANGER
Managing Editor

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — The value of livestock, poultry, and the products sold from these enterprises puts Lancaster County third in the nation out of 3,100 counties for agricultural production.

Lancaster is first in eggs and pullets raised; fifth in hogs and pigs; sixth in dairy products; 26th in broilers; 69th in cattle, and 95th in turkeys. But the county is not even in the top 100 for total number of agricultrual acres. Top counties in the nation have from 1 million to 800,000 ag acres, but Lancaster County has less than 400,000 acres of farmland.

With these facts, John Schwartz, Lancaster County extension agent, opened the monthy Ag Issues Forum breakfast Thursday morning. "We are in the top group of ag production counties in the nation," Schwartz said. "But sometimes we forget just how big our ag scene is here in Lancaster County."

The issue this month focused on the future of ag in the county. A panel of three farm experts started the discussion by expressing observations of the past and present to make "guesstimates" of future trends. Alan Bair, Atlantic Breeders, had dairy; Mark Price, Lanc. Poultry Assn. president, took poultry, and Gary Dean, Purina Mills, made observations about the hog industry. Then the meeting was opened for a free exchange of ideas from the 35 farm and ag industry leaders who were present.

Some of the observations were:

• History shows the people who settled here brought their knowledge of agriculture production with them, along with a good work ethic.

• We are close to population centers and thus close to markets, but this also brings land pressures and conflicts with neighbors. The people we want to sell to are also those who are telling us what we can and cannot do environmentally, in food safety, and in animal welfare. In addition, one farmer pointed out that the close markets help the processors and distributors of food but have little advantage to farmers because production agriculture does not share in the reduced costs.

• Soils, climate, and water support ag in this area, but nutrient management laws and water regulations put up blocks to free expansion of ag when larger herds and flocks may be needed for greater efficiency.

• The Amish play an important factor in the county ag community, providing a stabilizing force both in land pressures and fluctuation of cow numbers and production figures.

• Farmers are moving out of the county, but others are moving in, so the net change seems not to be as great as in other areas.

• The ag industry infra-structure plays an important role in keeping ag in Lancaster County. Both the need for and the supply of farm inputs such as feed, machinery, credit, and other farm services, provide advantages to the Lancaster County farm industry not found in other areas.

While many of the experts see farming as profitable in the past and the future, the present price squeeze is especially hard and has everyone worried. Hogs that were once called "mortgage lifters" have been mortgage creators during the last six months. Farming must be profitable to keep it viable. We can no longer produce away our problems. We need a different approach to ag. Politically we need to be listening.

• The producer/farmer must become more than a hired person. We need to integrate the producer/farmer into the profit centers of the food chain.

The meeting adjourned at 9 a.m.

'Lion King' Topiaries Go On National Tour

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—How many college students with an interest in horticulture get to create giant topiaries of lions and water buffalo? Ronda Roemmelt, a senior majoring in agricultural sciences and minoring in horticulture in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences, got that chance last summer.

Roemmelt was one of 36 students chosen out of hundreds nationwide to participate in the horticulture internship program at Walt Disney World in Florida. She propagated and cared for tropical plants in the greenhouses and designed topiaries depicting characters from the film "The Lion King."

The topiaries are touring 10 major U.S. cities this winter, including Boston, Los Angeles, New York City and Chicago. "It's great, because my name is included in the display—these are my topiaries," Roemmelt said.

Roemmelt's main project during her internship was looking for ways to improve how topiaries are constructed and maintained. "Before I did the internship, I had no idea how topiaries were put together," Roemmelt said. "An incredible amount of work goes into it.

"The kind of topiaries we constructed usually were metal frames covered with sphagnum moss and creeping fig," she said. "I experimented with different plants, such as sheet moss, which has a softer look—like fur. It looks more convincing when you're constructing lions and other animals."

Roemmelt also developed an internal irrigation system for the topiaries to keep the plants from drying out. "This is especially important for the smaller parts, like ears and paws," she said. "It's almost like a circulatory system."

Roemmelt set up a drip irrigation system similar to the kind used for potted plants in greenhouses, where water is pumped through tubes to emitters, and volume and frequency are controlled by a timer. "Disney liked my idea, so we used it on all the new topiaries," Roemmelt said.

"We installed drip systems only on the upper half of the forms," she said. "Water from the emitters trickled down through the bottom half. We had to be careful not to use too much water, or the topiary would rot."

Roemmelt also got experience constructing landscaping for special events, such as Disney weddings and festivals. "For some events, we set up plants and mulched the area," Roemmelt said. "After the event, all these trees, shrubs and mulch had to be removed."

"Before I could help with these projects, I needed to learn all about Florida's native plants," she said. "They sent me around the grounds at Epcot Center with an identification book. I learned a tremendous amount about tropical plants."

Roemmelt believes the Disney internship was a turning point for her. "Before I took this internship, my horticulture courses were a lot of work. Now I have an understanding of plants that makes the textbook information very clear. The experience also has helped me in my job at a florist's shop, and I've been able to pick up some plant consulting work."

"I wasn't completely sure what I wanted to do after I graduated," Roemmelt said, "But after last summer, I'm sure of where I want to go in my career. I always want to work with plants—they're fun and they're always a challenge."

me mites. I know most people will claim mites can only be spread by bees but I don't buy it.

The part about "increased fines and penalties for violations" did not go unnoticed (Heil Hitler!). That is bound to create a "good feeling" of cooperation. As Newt Gingrich recently remarked "The people who we have hired to serve us have decided they are our masters."

It is interesting to note that the state of Arizona has rescinded all bee regulations and no longer inspects, (American Beekeepers Journal Feb. 95, P. 87). The state's involvement in beekeeping, if any, should be restricted to the dispensing of the information generated by the informed individuals in our agricultural universities.

I think I understand this new emphasis on bee law and registration. It has little to do with bees or bee diseases. It has to do with money. The bee law states that registration fees, fines and civil penalties shall be credited to the PA Dept. of Agriculture. $10 from every 4-H and FFA kid with a bee project, every hobbyist, just about every farmer and every beekeeper in the state. What a boon that will be to a redundant, archaic, overstaffed bureaucracy.

I can see more registration programs in the future, perhaps next year it will be roadside produce stands or everyone owning a horse or a goat. The opportunities are endless now that a registration program under the guise of disease control is under way.

Be aware of what your legislators are doing. They often have something other than our well being in mind.

What is the proper way to price milk to dairy farmers?

For nearly 35 years the Minnesota/Wisconsin (M and W) series has been the bench mark price used to determine the value of grade B milk in the upper midwest. This price then basically becomes the price for manufactured milk in all Federal Orders. It also is the basic formula price in federal milk orders that establishes all class prices, including class I.

While we have been critical of the M and W price as not being the proper way to price milk, the formula did help return somewhere near a fair price to dairy farmers during the 1960s, '70s and early 1980s. However, the reasonable price was accomplished mainly because the support price on manufactured milk was set at a percentage between 75 and 85 percent of parity. In 1981 the U.S. Congress passed a resolution which was signed by President Reagan, that prevented the support price from being adjusted semi-annually, and further actions by Congress during the last 14 years have reduced the support price from a high of $13.10 per cwt to its present level of $10.10 per cwt.

Some people will argue that the manufactured milk price has maintained a level somewhat above the support price, consequently the support price has no worthwhile meaning. In my opinion this argument is not valid, because the support price on milk products and the purchases of dairy products made by the U.S.D.A. does influence the manufactured price.

Class I Milk

No one has ever (to my knowledge) determined the value of any milk and this is especially true with milk used for fluid purposes (class I).

Basically, the class I price is established by using the basic formula price in the federal orders, and placing transportation differentials on top of the basic formula price which then establishes the class I price.

The blend price is determined simply by using the value of each class price coupled with the utilization of each class of milk.

One important factor is left out! What does the dairy farmer deserve for 100 pounds of milk? Many experts use the argument, there is plenty of milk, therefore farmers are receiving an adequate price. WRONG.

It's time to get away from the fallacy that enough milk produced equates to an adequate price to dairy farmers. There are many reasons why dairy farmers continue to produce somewhere near enough milk. The main reason is the supplemental income derived by the dairyman or his spouse. The other main, unfair reason is GOING WITHOUT (health insurance, etc).

Dairy Farmers Prices Must Improve

As I reported in an earlier editorial, three recent milk hearings have failed to improve prices paid to dairy farmers. It's obvious that federal milk hearings have not and will not improve, to any degree, prices paid to dairymen.

In our opinion there are two ways to establish adequate prices that dairy farmers need.

1. All dairy farmers join together and establish the right price.

2. Amend the U.S. Agriculture Marketing Act, and pass legislation that allows dairy farmers to produce milk that fits the needs of the real market. (The same could also be done by the other commodity producers.)

So far plan #1 has not developed, and will happen only if dairy farmers make it happen.

A 1995 Farm Bill will be passed. It's up to all commodity producers to make changes in the Farm Bill that will reflect adequate prices.

Those of us that are working on a new dairy bill have come up with a plan that will #1 reduce Forage Yield And Forage Quality: Other Alfalfas Don't Stack Up To Sterling.

Outstanding yield or excellent quality. Most alfalfas will give you one at the expense of the other. But Sterling delivers in both categories. You get a 1-2 yield and quality punch that outstacks the competition.

WORK WATCH

The Work Watch Is Back!

In the mid-1980's we sold hundreds of work watches to hard-working individuals like yourself who needed an accurate, dependable timepiece. They needed a watch that would withstand the dust, moisture, bumps, and temperatures encountered on the farm, in the orchard, and in the woods. Many who bought the work watch told us it was the best watch they had ever owned. Now, due to the past success and the present need, we are again offering the work watch through Lancaster Farming.

Our work watch has all the features needed to endure the punishment you will put it through. The WATER RESISTANT seal will protect your watch when you irrigate fields, fix broken water systems, get milk splashed on your arm while feeding calves, or walk the fence in the rain, to find out where your cattle are getting out. Being SHOCK RESISTANT, your work watch will continue to work when it is slapped by a cow's tail, a falling board, or the belt shield that your arm slams against when your wrench slips off the bolt. While your watch is scraped by branches, rubbed against walls, and knocked against machinery, the low profile, SCRATCH RESISTANT, glass crystal will resist the scratches and cracks that render watches unreadable. Finally, the BATTERY POWERED QUARTZ movement of your work watch is accurate to within 2 minutes per year, and does not need to be wound, meaning that your watch will be on time, all the time, without any effort on your part.

A final proof of the strength of this watch and of its suitability to your needs is the warranty. If your work watch stops running within THREE YEARS of the date of purchase, the manufacturer will repair or replace your watch at no charge. This is one of the longest warranties in the watch industry. The manufacturer's confidence in this watch means that you can have confidence in its durability and can know that this is the only work watch you will need to buy for the next three years

Northeast DHIA, Cornell Set New Direction

ITHACA, N.Y. — Northeast Dairy Herd Improvement Association (Northeast DHIA) and Cornell's College of Agriculture and Life Sciences (CALS) jointly announce a new direction Northeast DHIA has set for its long-term relationship with CALS. In response to Northeast DHIA's vision for the future, Northeast DHIA will focus on providing services to its members by applying computer technology to on-farm herd management service and support to replace those currently provided by Cornell Dairy Records. Northeast DHIA is evaluating options to enhance record processing services for greater flexibility, responsiveness, and economies of operation. Alternative processing organizations will be interviewed. It is expected that a recommendation will be given to the Board of Directors in mid-April. Members and industry leaders will be involved in helping to define the specifics of a new record system to help define any changes in reports or in the RMS program.

David Chamberlain, President of Northeast DHIA and a dairy producer from Wyoming, NY, noted, "With this new direction set, we can now work to define the specifics of the future records system and set the timetable for a smooth transition."

Nelvin Empet, General Manager Northeast DHIA, commented "Northeast DHIA is committed to meeting the needs of the dairy producer and the dairy industry in this information age. We look forward to continuing and building on the long-term, cooperative relationship with Cornell for Research and Extension education programs."

Cornell will continue to focus on research and extension programs, but discontinue the service provided by the Cornell Dairy Records. The Animal Breeding Group and Dairy Management Group of the Department of Animal Science have been asked to develop plans for creation of a research center with the objectives to continue genetics and management research in dairy and other species. At the core of sustaining this emerging new facility is a commitment by Northeast DHIA to continue to provide the university with the data needed to conduct these research and extension functions for the dairy industry.

A goal is to minimize the changes DHIA members and other users will see during the transition to the new records system.

Average Farm Feed Costs For Handy Reference

To help farmers across the state to have handy reference of commodity input costs in their feeding operations for DHIA record sheets or to develop livestock feed cost data, here's last week's average costs of various ingredients as compiled from regional reports across the state of Pennsylvania. Remember these are averages so you will need to adjust your figures up or down according to your location and the quality of your crop.

Game Commission Seeks Help Counting Pheasants

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Game Commission is seeking help from volunteers to assist in locating winter concentrations of pheasants within the state's six pheasant restoration areas, and in a Mercer County hybrid study area.

In an attempt to restore a naturally reproducing and huntable wild pheasant population — which were to date officially inexplicably decimated during the late 1970s and early 1980s — the commission in recent years began a restoration project which included stocking a different variety of pheasant, called the sichuan, which reportedly does not rely as much on open and fallow farm fields, but more on upland conditions. Ringnecks were also stocked, as well as hybrid pheasants.

Hunting for pheasants has been banned in the areas receiving the experimental stockings.

According to a commission news release made last week, "In order to conduct flushing surveys on these areas, assistance is needed to locate areas where pheasants have congregated during the winter. Specific locations and the names and telephone numbers of property owners are necessary in order to obtain permission to conduct flushing surveys throughout most of March.

"Volunteers, with or without dogs, are encouraged to participate."

The commission didn't have the opportunity to gather data from flushing surveys last year because of heavy snows.

The news release stated that, "Those taking part in the surveys will join Game Commission biologists in walking identified pheasant wintering habitat and record the number and sex of birds flushed."

There isn't much time to become involved and information provided is sketchy, as meeting times and places have not been determined.

While the Game Commission did provide a listing of dates and counties to be surveyed and the variety of pheasant sought, those interested in reporting wintering populations in the areas, and those wishing to participate in surveys should contact Tom Hardisky, wildlife biologist at (717) 725-2287.

A primary list of dates for counties, and the bird variety sought includes: March 4, Dauphin County, ringnecks; March 5, Northumberland County, sichuans; March 11, Centre County, ringnecks; March 12, Juniata County, sichuans; March 18, Erie County, ringnecks; March 19, Crawford County, sichuans; March 25, Mercer County, hybrids.

For those with concerns about the spread of poultry diseases through the stockings, the state Department of Agriculture last year confirmed that, while the Game Commission's birds are not purposefully tested for avian influenza, blood samples taken for other tests are screened for the disease and in effect, the birds have been cleared from having the disease before stocking.

government costs on the dairy program (which is already one of the lowest cost commodity programs); #2 return a fair price to dairy farmers; #3 take care of the nutrition programs; #4 make milk available for the export program; and #5 reimburse dairy farmers for mandated conservation and environmental programs.

The formula that we are using to accomplish the above will return an adequate price to dairy farmers on their investment, which they are presently being denied, plus the formula will return an adequate price to dairy farmers to cover their unpaid labor and living expenses which is not presently being covered adquately.

The formula will use defensible figures by the Commerce Department, the Bureau of Labor Statistics and figures from the U.S.D.A. Coupling these figures together dairy farmers can receive a pay price at least equal to the December 1989 price.

Some people will argue that our pricing formula reflects only the supply factor and does not consider the demand factor. Wrong.

The demand figure is taken into consideration by the percentage of utilization in each class of milk.

However, even more important is the supply management part of the bill that takes into consideration the total demand of dairy products by consumers.

Many unfavorable things may happen this year to dairy farmers and other commodity producers. It's up to the dairy farmers to decide which programs they support.

USDA Dairy Outlook Projects Slightly Lower Prices

WASHINGTON, D.C. — The outlook for the dairy industry in 1995 is to expect slightly lower prices for milk and cull cows, while total cow numbers can be expected to decline, according to a recent report by the U.S. Department of Agriculture Economic Research Service.

The USDA's Economic Research Service publishes a quarterly supplement to its regular projection report, Livestock, Dairy, and Poultry Situation and Outlook.

The most recent update of the Service's projections was published Feb. 27.

In its entirety, the report follows:

"This year is shaping up as one of rapid growth in milk production, strong domestic demand, and (at least for a while) commercial exports of butter. A modest (possibly small) surplus and only a moderate price decline is in sight.

Strong Output Ahead

"Milk production is projected to be strong in 1995, rising 2 to 3 percent from a year earlier.

"The robust milk prices of 1992-94, continuing adoption of bovine somatotropin (BST), and generally favorable feed supplies will support the expansion.

"A 3-percent rise in milk per cow is projected to easily outweigh a fractional decline in milk cow numbers.

"Structural adjustments may be particularly sensitive to price changes. Changes in milk cow numbers in recent years are consistent with the simultaneous existence of a relatively large group of producers on the verge of exit and another on the verge of entry or major expansion.

"Expected 1995 milk prices probably will cause declines in milk cow numbers to resume soon.

"Declines in milk cow numbers will be mitigated by a large herd of replacement heifers and continued low cull cow prices.

"On Jan. 1, there were more than 43 heifers per 100 milk cows, continuing the relatively high ratio of recent years. Stable, relatively high replacement prices in recent years have encouraged retention of heifer calves. In addition, many exiting dairy farmers continue to raise heifers after disposing of their milking herd.

"The increase in BST use in 1995 is projected to be similar to 1994. After generally favorable initial experiences, experimenters (estimated to have been almost a third of herds in 1994) probably will inject more of their cows.

"Some producers will begin experimenting with BST, but these may be largely offset by early experimenters who conclude that BST use is not profitable for them at this time.

"The milk-feed price ratio is expected to run close to 1.6 in 1995, similar to 1994's moderately unfavorable level.

"These ratios will provide only modest incentive to boost concentrate feeding and milk per cow. However, more ample supplies of good forage should help milk per cow during the first half.

"In February, final estimates of 1989-92 milk production were released, as well as the normal revisions of 1993-94 data.

"In general, the revisions did not greatly change the picture, although they did imply more structural change in the early 1990s than previously thought. More Midwestern farmers exited (particularly in the Corn Belt), while Western growth was slightly faster.

Wholesale Prices May Slip

"Spring milk supplies are expected to be large enough to reestablish stability in wholesale dairy markets at prices (except for butter) below current levels.

"However, commercial exports of butter, large Dairy Export Incentive Program (DEIP) exports of nonfat dry milk, and apparently strong domestic sales of major products hint that prices might be higher than currently expected, even if milk production expands briskly.

"Current market tightness is ambiguous because it may have resulted either from heavy final sales, or advanced buying for protection against future tightness.

"Nonfat dry milk prices in most areas are expected to be near the support purchase price this spring.

"Contracts under DEIP are not projected to absorb all of the flush season surplus of powder. This loosening of the nonfat dry milk market and stronger Midwest milk supplies should erode cheese prices.

"Price weakness is particularly likely if pipeline holdings of cheese and nonfat dry milk have swollen recently.

"Butter prices probably will run near current levels if international prices decline seasonally as expected."

Researcher Uses DNA To Track Down Culprit

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—A researcher in Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences is using DNA evidence to help California authorities track down a culprit.

But this work is not part of a high-profile murder case. The culprit is the Mediterranean fruit fly, and results of DNA studies may help California officials to identify the source of medfly outbreaks, with an eye toward stopping the pest's introduction and spread into that state's fertile agricultural regions.

"California and the U.S. Department of Agriculture have spent hundreds of millions of dollars in the past two decades trying to control medfly infestations," said Bruce McPheron, associate professor of entomology. "If we can develop genetic 'fingerprints' that show us where these medflies are coming from, authorities may be able to block their introduction.

"Genetic markers also could help us to determine whether an infestation is the result of a new introduction, or the resurgence of an old one that had been reduced to nondetectable levels by eradication efforts," he said. "That, in turn, could help us to improve control strategies, tell us where to look for natural enemies and minimize the use of pesticides."

At stake in the medfly war is California's $18 billion-a-year agricultural industry and its status as a major exporter of fresh fruits and vegetables. Should medflies be found in agricultural regions, produce from the state could be embargoed by trading partners such as Japan, costing California growers as much as $6 billion annually in lost export sales. Restrictions on the movement of California produce, coupled with actual damage done by the pest, also could reduce the amount of fresh fruits and vegetables available to U.S. consumers and drive up prices in supermarkets.

McPheron and colleagues from USDA and the Florida Department of Agriculture have identified genetic markers common to medfly populations from different regions of the world. The researchers believe these DNA "fingerprints" can help them narrow the source of medflies found in California in recent years.

"For instance, officials have thought that fruit illegally shipped to California from Hawaii was a likely source of new medfly infestations," McPheron said. "But data we've collected so far shows that California medflies appear to be of a different genetic type than those found in Hawaii, indicating that these California medflies probably originated somewhere else."

The Mediterranean fruit fly is a serious threat to crops in tropical and subtropical areas where it becomes established. Medflies are thought to have originated in equatorial Africa before spreading to the Mediterranean region in the early 1800s. During the last 150 years, they have spread to South and Central America, Australia, Hawaii and other areas, mostly by hitchhiking with humans and their cargo.

The pest damages fruit by laying its eggs inside the fruit's skin. After hatching, medfly larvae feed on the pulp, rotting the fruit and making it unsaleable. The fly is attracted to more than 250 varieties of fruits and vegetables.

Medflies have been found nearly every year in California since 1975. When medflies are discovered, California authorities impose a quarantine on produce from the affected county and begin eradication efforts, sometimes including controversial aerial spraying of the pesticide malathion. Although medfly infestations so far have occurred largely in urbanized areas surrounding Los Angeles, officials fear their spread to production agriculture regions.

McPherson said the results of this research could go beyond the California medfly problem. "These DNA fingerprinting technologies could be used to combat other pests," he said. "When a foreign plant pest is found at a port of entry, inspectors sometimes aren't sure what it is or the risk it presents in the U.S. For some pests of economic quarantine significance, it would be useful to have genetic methods to identify them so we know what measures are needed to address the problem."

Farm Bureau, Farm Link Sponsor Seminar

CAMP HILL (Cumberland Co.) — Want to retire from farming, but hate to see the land that provides sustenance carved up into a quick-cash wasteland?

No heirs, or no heirs interested in working hard to keep the farm intact or productive?

A special meeting for farmers seeking to retire who have no immediate heirs interested in continuing the farm, and who also would like to see their acreage kept in farming, can find out about the legal and personal issues involved in transferring the farm to another generation.

And they can find out about a program that can help them meet and evaluate young people claiming to have a sincere, strong interest in farming, but no forseeable way to get access to farmland.

The meeting is set to be held 9:30 a.m. to 2 p.m., (Tuesday) March 28, at the Pennsylvania Farm Bureau (PFB) headquarters, located in Camp Hill, near Harrisburg's west shore.

The meeting is being co-sponsored by the PFB and the Pennsylvania Farm-Link Program, an official program of the Center For Rural Pennsylvania, a bipartisan legislative agency of the state's General Assembly.

There is a $10 fee for the meeting, but that is to be used to offset the cost of lunch and meeting materials. Those interested in attending should call (717) 761-2740 for reservations, by Wednesday, March 22.

According to Jan Carson, press spokesperson for the PFB, the joint meeting of the two agencies resulted from interest expressed at the PFB's booth at the state Farm Show, held in January.

She said quite a number of young people asked about how to get into farming, and others, with farms, asked about how to meet up with people with a sincere interest in farming.

They were directed to the Center For Rural Pennsylvania Farm Link booth.

Farm Link is a program started last summer with the expressed mission, "To sustain Pennsylvania's farms and ranches by successfully linking individuals seeking to actively farm with farming opportunities."

The Center For Rural Pennsylvania is the Farm Link agency, and the goal of the program is to "establish and operate a database which provides information on land and resources available and individuals seeking farming opportunities, as well as providing support materials and training."

More to the point, the Farm Link is a "matchmaker" program — it is set up to allow people of similar interests to meet.

Farm Link also serves as a catalyst for services and information to those interested in developing a farm-transference relationship.

There are existing programs and services available, at little or no cost, that have been designed to help people get started in farming. The Farm Link program brings knowledge of those programs together in one agency.

According to information provided by Farm Link, "Landholders contacting the (Farm Link) agency will receive a list of individuals with compatible interests. The actual details will be worked out by the individuals. Both parties will be encouraged to participate in goal-setting workshops.

"Individuals will be screened to ensure that they have a genuine interest in becoming farmers. They will be required to attend workshops prior to being linked."

The cooperation between the PFB and the Farm Link program is not coincidental. The PFB has a long experience helping its farmer members with economics and farm management in a variety of areas, as part of its services.

The Farm Link program was originally spearheaded by the Center for Rural Pennsylvania, Rodale Institute, and the Pennsylvania Farmer magazine.

However, many others became involved in the effort to make the idea a reality, including the PFB, state Rep. Sheila Miller R-Berks County, Rep. Sara Steelman, Keystone Farm Credit, Delaware Valley College, Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture, the Chesapeake Bay Education Office, the USDA Farmers Home Administration, Soil Conservation Service (now called the Natural Resources Service), Penn State University Cooperative Extension Service, York Farm and National Lands Trust, the Wildlands Conservancy, York Farm Credit, the state Department of Agriculture, and several farmers.

Carson said the upcoming meeting is to feature several speakers, including PFB attorney Gary Heim, an inhouse expert on the transference of farms and related issues, and Don Hummel, PFB manager of its Farm Management Service. Hummel is to talk about how to transfer the farming business, and what to be aware of in doing so, along with long-range planning.

She said that there are to be several farmers who have either participated in the current Farm Link program, or who, on their own, have transferred their farm to a non-family person interested in farming.

Also to speak is Marion Bowlan, coordinator of the Farm Link program. She is to discuss the program, what it can and can not do, and the services that it can provide. For direct information on the Farm Link program, call her at (717) 787-9555.

For more information on the meeting, call Don Hummel at (717) 761-2740.

Western Md. Sets Pond Management Workshop

KEEDYSVILLE, Md. — Pond management and practices to increase the usefulness of your pond will be the focus of an upcoming program at the Western Maryland Research and Education Center (WMREC), 18330 Keedysville Road, Keedysville, from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday, April 1.

Whether your pond is utilized for recreational use, wildlife and fishing, or aquaculture production, this workshop will provide up-to-date information to participants on improving the various aspects of pond usage.

At the Western Maryland Pond Management Workshop, basic pond ecology and nutritient cycles will be discussed. Other important aspects that will be covered are proper stocking, pond fertilization, design, liming and aeration.

On-site demonstrations at a nearby pond will provide a firsthand look at water analysis procedures and interpretation of the various measurements. Recommendations for management of bass, bluegill, trout and hybrid bass populations will also be examined. Many problems such as the overgrowth of aquatic weeds and algae overproduction can hinder the quality of plant and animal life of the pond. This workshop will offer solutions to these and many other pond issues.

The $7 registration fee will cover the cost of handouts and break beverages. For registration or additional information, contact Steve Bogash, (301) 432-4492.

Bull Sale Set

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center is making final preparations for Pennsylvania's 22nd annual Performance Tested Bull Sale, scheduled for Friday, March 31 at noon in the Penn State University's Ag Arena.

The sale is to be followed this year by the Pennsylvania Cattleman's Association annual banquet.

The following day, Saturday, April 1, there is an educational symposium scheduled. In the morning, there will be a variety of breakout sessions to provide information for producers witih a wide range of interests.

In the afternoon program, a cattlemen's production workshop with audience participation is planned. Topics such as castration, implanting, condition scoring, handling vaccines, and nutritional needs of animals through the year among others will be covered.

A very good group of bulls is on test this year. The group consists of 32 Polled Herefords, 22 Angus, 2 Red Angus, 15 Simmentals, two Charolais, one Limousin, and one Beefmaster. These bulls have had their performance already measured through 84 days. They completed their 112-day testing period on Feb. 28.

The top-gaining bull over all breeds so far is the April 9 born Simmental bull co-owned by Shoemaker Simmentals and Marshall Simmentals. This Holleys By the Numbers son has gained 5.83 pounds per day and maintained a lifetime weight per day of age of 4.27 pounds per day. The second-fastest gaining bull is the top-gaining Angus bull owned by Diamond D.L. Cattle. This R & J Prospector 341 son has maintained a 5.23 pounds per day gain through 84 days. The top-gaining polled Hereford bull is gaining 4.52 pounds per day. This FPP First Priority 28 U. son is owned by Meadowview Farm.

The entire group of bulls is performing very well. So far, 28 bulls are still gaining in excess of four pounds per day. Penn State has growth bulls as well as calving ease bulls. Most of the bulls are becoming more moderate in frame size and carrying more thickness.

For more information or to request a catalog, contact Glenn Eberly, P.D.A. Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16803, (814) 238-2527.

Farmers To Meet With Congress

CAMP HILL — Pennsylvania's congressmen and U.S. senators will learn firsthand how the state's farmers feel about the federal budget and taxes, government regulations, property rights and other issues during Pennsylvania Farm Bureau's Washington Legislative Tour, March 15-16.

A delegation of about 200 farmers, members of county farm bureau national legislative committees, will visit their congressmen to discuss Farm Bureau's position on key issues affecting agriculture.

Among the issues to be discussed during Pennsylvania Farm Bureau's annual Washington Tour will be the following: 1995 Farm Bill, Clean Water Act/Wetlands Reform, Regulatory Reform, Health Insurance Tax Deduction, Property Rights, Property Rights, and Capital Gains/Estate Taxes.

Dairy Day II Features

The morning started off with each producer explaining their operation and how it is designed.

Kreider, for example, said he is starting a seasonal dairying strategy, which means that for about three months out of the year, he intends to not milk cows.

Kreider said he intends to not milk during the hotest part of the year, and to have his herd freshen in the fall, and take advantage of spring growth of forages and small grains to supplement feed. However, he said that he did not intend to use grazing too much in his program, as he wanted to have tight control of the nutrients going into his milking animals.

Dale Hershey and his brother have been featured in Lancaster Farming for their expansion within the past five years. The two have approached dairying as a business and depend heavily upon their computer records to manage the business. They also milk three times per day in a double-eight herringbone parlor.

The brothers have also make distinct separations of responsibility within the farm and each specializes to a good degree.

Tom Barely is in his second year as a dairy producer, in partnership with a brother and cousin. They milk 75 cows three times daily in a tie-stall barn.

Steve Hershey is an independent producer and family farmer who overall appears to practice more traditional production techniques, but who also uses BST, prostaglandin and a totally mixed ration.

The producers were asked to serve on the panel because each has experienced a measure of success, and because each represents a different strategy toward dairy production.

Topics ccvered ranged to tunnel ventilation, BST use, feeding, and management decision-making.

Association Forms To Support Composting

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.)—A statewide steering committee composed of representatives of composting companies, producers of organic material used in composting, reserchers, educators, agricultural producers, and industry consultants and suppliers has formed the Pennsylvania Composting Association (PACA).

Serving as the association's interim chairman is Daniel J. Eichenlaub, president of AgRecycle Inc. in Pittsburgh.

The association will work with the Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture to oversee efforts to create a legislative and regulatory climate that supports composting as a responsible business venture.

PACA's objectives are to create a cooperative atmosphere among industries and organizations interested in composting; to enhance public and market acceptance of composting processes and products; to encourage the use of science-based processes, product standards, and guidelines; and to coordinate efforts with other state, regional, and national organizations.

The association has unanimously adopted a set of bylaws and will move toward incorporation as a non-profit organization as soon as possible. The current steering committee will serve as an interim board of directors until nominations and elections can be conducted later this year. Categories of membership also were approved, and a membership recruitment drive will begin shortly.

The steering committee was formed in June 1994, following a forum on commercial composting in Pennsylvania hosted by Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences. The committee's first task was to prepare and present testimony on proposed revisions to Pennsylvania Department of Environmental Resources regulations.

For more information about the Pennsylvania Composting Association, contact Patricia Heuser, Director of Industry Relations, Dean's Office, College of Agricultural Sciences, The Pennsylvania State University, University Park, PA 16802, (814) 863-9646.

Dauphin County Farm Women Reminisce

So Many Rich Memories . . .

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

DAUPHIN (Dauphin Co.) — "Remember when Lois got lost on her way to a Somerset County Farm Women's and stopped to ask directions?"

"That was time when she was dressed in a gown and children pelted ears of shelled corn at her," someone answered above the din of voices as Farm Women reminisced.

These memories and many more were fondly retold during a recent gathering of the Dauphin County Farm Women's Past President's Club.

The club is an informal gathering of previous members who have served as president of the Dauphin County Society of Farm Women. This close-knit group of friends share an affinity for the Society of Farm Women of Pennsylvania, which was founded in 1914 in Somerset County. It wasn't until 1931 that the first group was formed in Dauphin County, which now has 14 societies with 233 members.

Through the years, changes in health, moving to another residence, and death have caused the group to flunctuate in size. But regardless of how far away these past presidents are spread, all make it a priority to attend the scheduled gatherings.

Lois comes the farthest. Four years ago, she and her husband moved to the state of Virginia to be closer to their children.

"But I come back to the area six times a year for Farm Women meetings. I have many dear friends all over the state," Lois said.

She added that being pelted with corn wasn't the only time that she and her traveling companion had trouble trying to locate a Farm Women's convention in a distant county. One time, she and Ethel Cline traveled for hours trying to follow a hand-drawn map. Much later, to their chagin, they discovered they had the map turned upside.

Most of the members joined the Society of Farm Women after a friend or a neighbor invited them to a meeting.

Members take turns holding the monthly meetings in their homes. The agenda often includes an educational program or making a craft project together.

Margaret Zimmerman remembers the time members made towel cakes and decorated them with whipped waxy soap. The ornamental cake looked so authentic that her husband tried to slice a piece.

But her husband was supportive when it came to Farm Women. One time after he designed a patio at their home, he remarked that it would be a great place for a wedding. Farm Women members planned a mock wedding on the patio. The bride and groom (both females) looked so realistic and the evening was so much fun, that the bridal pair decided to have a cup of coffee at a local restaurant. That was in the days before such shenanigans were suspect.

"Remember the time when we had a Come as you are party? I was dressed in the worst clothes because I was helping my husband sow wheat," lamented Martha Reed of Halifax.

"Some people showed up in housecoats," someone else recalled.

Showing up in worn-out clothing was considered disgraceful in the era before torn jeans and oversized clothing became vogue.

"Those were the days when women didn't leave the house unless dressed in their Sunday best. We always wore gowns to the conventions," said Lois. In fact, she hand knit a whole gown to wear to one of the conventions.

While the individual societies have their own projects and meetings, they do work together on joint projects from time to time.

"Hosting the Spring Rally in 1975 was the greatest fun in the world," said Pat Baum.

About 1,400 women from across the state showed up at the annual event which rotates among counties with Farm Women Societies.

Most of the women have mementoes of the years associated with Farm Women. Doralee Straub of Millersburg has a quilt with a patch completed by each society in the county. She purchased it after giving the highest bid at a silent auction.

Farm Women are known for quietly meeting community needs. For years Dauphin County societies have made grooming kits for the patients at Harrisburg State Hospital four times a year. They also bake cupcakes and donate clothing to the hospital.

They have held bake sales and fundraisers to purchase a sound system, tables, chairs, and other items needed for the Dauphin County Agriculture and Natural Resource Center.

The group also has hospital equipment that they loan to those in need.

Darlene Schmeltz said, "Farm Women band together whenever a need arises. We take a collection whenever a need arises and sometimes we dig a little deeper."

Caring is evident among the close-knit group.

Lois said, "We have so many rich memories with lots of business and fun."

While the camaraderie that exists among members is an incentive to keeping in touch, the reasons are much deeper than fun and games.

Darlene Schmeltz said that the caring members showed toward her during tough times has forever cemented a bond among them.

Their concern coupled with her faith in God brought her through the distress of losing two babies, a long recuperation from an accident that resulted in a shattered back, when both her parents died within eight days, and the trauma of having her only son diagnosed with a brain tumor.

"Other than a loss of hearing in the left ear, Bryan is doing pretty well," said Darlene of her son's recovery from brain surgery in 1991.

(Turn to Page B3)

Since Betty Shireman served as president in 1969, she has seen membership dwindle but sisterhood remain strong among members.

Rich Memories . . .

In the beginning years of the organization, members were required to live on a farm. Today, many members are from non-farming backgrounds. But their allegiance to promoting love for farm, family, and community remains at the core of the organization.

Darlee Straub is the most recent addition to the past president's club.

"The greatest fun in the world was the convention," said Pat Baum.

"I was not raised on a farm, but always loved rural and farm life," Darlene said. She has always had a garden and learned to can and freeze from her in-laws.

Evidently, Darlene also likes to pull weeds. She and her husband have 22 large flower beds surrounding their home.

In addition to holding almost every office at the local and county levels, she recently completed a three-year term as state treasurer.

Although Farm Women is a female-members only, the husbands often are coerced or generously offer their assistance to projects.

In Darlene's case, her husband Walter often double checked the financial reports that Darlene kept for the organization.

"He has a keen eye for figures," Darlene said.

Her husband is a steel worker for 20 years. Darlene works part time as a secretary for an insurance company. For the last three years, she has been a census taker for the school district.

"I love it because I just love people. They are so friendly and often invite me into their homes and give me a tour," said Darlene.

Tension with Teens

In the last few weeks, our local communities have been shattered by the news of multiple murders in two local families. In both cases, the suspects are teen sons. Although the cases are still unfolding, the shock wave quickly touched all of us—parents and children alike. How could such a thing happen? How could it happen to my neighbor, my classmate, my co-worker, my friend, my grandchild?

As a parent educator, I find myself wondering what I can say to parents and families who are dealing with this violence. The primary message that I want all parents to hear is that they should do the very best job they can as parents, but that they are not solely responsible for the way their child grows up. A child's genetics, temperament, home and community environment, parents, other family members, friends, other adult role models, societal messages all have an influence on how a child develops and the decisions a child makes.

You can do some positive things, though, as a parent to decrease the chances that your child will choose a violent approach to dealing with tension or conflicts. First, be available to listen. Listen more than you talk. Discussing these recent news stories with your own children opens the doors to positive conversation. Dr. Ronald Slaby, a developmental psychologist and lecturer at Harvard, is an expert on juvenile violence and violence prevention. He cites research that documents the differences between youth who choose to deal with conflicts violently and those who do not.

One difference that he has found is that the teens who choose violence can come up with few solutions to a problem. Believe it or not, violence is not their first alternative, but they just don't know of other possible alternatives. He also discovered that these individuals have a very weak understanding of the victim's point of view. As a parent, you can help your child to deal with tension simply by discussing "what if" scenarios and together coming up with as many possible solutions as you can think of. Role play with your kids confrontations with peers.

Sometimes it's easier to talk about an issue if it's framed as "suppose one of your friends...." rather than "what if you...". Speaking about an issue in third person makes the discussion less intense. This approach may help your teen to feel less defensive as you brainstorm solutions to a problem. Be VERY slow to offer a black-and-white answer or unsolicited advice. Listen first without interrupting. Later, if they continue to seek your input, share your advice beginning with a phrase like, "One thing that worked for me when I was your age was..." or "One idea that you might try is...let me know how it goes."

Another strategy that may help your teen make positive choices is involvement in activities like sports, community volunteering, hobbies, and clubs. These activities build skills and provide opportunities for interaction with and support from peers and other adults. But make sure that your teen is not so involved that you never have any relaxed time together. Also, remember that teens will also need time alone.

Supervise your child's time. Know where she is and what she is doing. Welcome their friends in your home. Recognize the extremely influential role friends play. From an early age, encourage relationships with children who hold similar values. Parents should stand by teens, but not over them as they make choices. Remember too that teens can be fun. Don's get so lost in monitoring and supervising that you never laugh or have fun together.

Never let your love for your child be doubted. Continue to speak about things that your son has done well or that make him special. And remember, no person, teen or adult, is perfect. Accept the fact that each of your children is different than you are now and that things have changed. But don't be afraid to speak up when you're concerned. You can't force your values and your choices on your child. You can share with her where you stand on an issue and why. This will help her as she makes her future decisions.

As a parent you should respect and advocate for your child's needs. Know what services are available and how to access them.

Those people who work with parents of teens know that it is also critical that the parents take care of themselves, too. If you have a teen (or for that matter a child of any age), make sure to regularly take time away from parenting to recharge your batteries. Finally, be willing to ask for help. Ask for it early and often. Ask for help from friends and from professionals. None of us was trained to be a parent. Sometimes we need help in knowing what to do or how to do it. Asking for help is not a sign of weakness—it's a sign of strength and wisdom.

All of this takes time and energy, but your family and your community will be better because of your investment in your teen's life.

Quilters Heritage Celebration Set

LANCASTER, (Lancaster Co.) — Relive past generations of American quiltmaking during the eighth annual Quilters Heritage Celebration (QHC) from April 6–9 at the Lancaster Host Resort and Conference center.

"Patchwork Pride", the theme of this year's QHC, focuses on prize-winning quilts from contests, country fairs and expositions. The exhibit is curated by quilt historian Barbara Brackman. Brackman will lead viewers through the history of quilt competitions and will outline the evolution of quilt aesthetics to its innovative original designs of today.

Fairfield Processing Corporation's 16th annual fashion show and luncheon will be held on Friday, April 7 at noon. The "Diamond Symphony Fashion Show" will once again showcase the newest in wearable, quilted art designed by artists from across the country and the world. It's a dazzling presentation! Advance reservations are required for the fashion show and luncheon.

All classes, lectures, demonstrations, tours and the fashion show/luncheon require advance reservations and have individual fees. Phone Barber Diversified at (217) 854-9323 to register or write to Barber Diversified at P.O. Box 503, Carlinville, IL 62626.

Recycling has always been part of the agriculture lifestyle of stewardship.

So it was only natural that a few years ago many of us would begin recycling newspaper as bedding for livestock. Mixed with straw or corn fodder, or used alone, sometimes shredded into small pieces, newspaper bedding is a win-win deal for both the donor and the user. Friends and neighbors bag or tie in bundles their used daily papers and stack them in our designated spot in the wagon shed at their convenience.

We do request they not include slick-paper magazines or thick catalogs; but a few days ago while tossing paper I came upon a fascinating magazine. While it was on newsprint-type paper, it was spared recycling into the bedding pack and instead ended up as part of the paper piles accumulating near the office desk.

The black and white cover first caught my attention, a scenic photograph of Holstein cows peacefully grazing a rolling countryside. Inside are articles on subjects such as farmers and sportsmen getting along, growth data on steers with better-balanced feed rations, and an update on the latest equipment. Advertisments featured everything from electric fence chargers to farm insurance to fly control.

So what, you say?

The date on this regional agriculture publication is June, 1956, just a year shy of three decades ago. That the material is so timely—and at the same time almost historic—just fascinated The Farmer and I.

Every few issues of current regional ag publications will carry articles on better relations between farmers and sportsmen, especially in the arena of the state's deer population. Whole issues are devoted to the newest equipment models and innovations. And today's nutrition articles detail what a finely-tuned, computerized science balancing feed rations has now become.

It's not likely, though, to open a current publication and find a reader letter heatedly denouncing the use of bulk milk tanks on dairy farms. One such opinion printed in the 30-year-old farm publication states that "there are few farms where the bulk system will ever pay" and concludes with the question of how any young dairyman can ever afford to get started if a bulk milk tank has to be purchased.

To borrow a phrase—we've come a long way, baby. Today, no stainless steel bulk tank.....no license granted to ship Grade A milk. End of discussion.

A photo shows a picture of triplet calves born on an Erie County farm. Twins are not that unusual in today's dairy herds but healthy triplets are still rare enough to generate farm magazine photographs even in the mid-90s.

One article aimed at farm women readers dealt with making tasty jams and jellies. Unlike most today, the recipe ingredients did not include the packaged pectin. But even then, a suggestion was included to use the metal two-piece canning lids to seal the jars, rather than the paraffin seal which was once commonly accepted but more likely to permit mold growth.

One request from a reader was for directions on making oatmeal soap by recycling leftover slivers of soap and adding oatmeal to it. Not many of today's recyclers are looking for those instructions.

But the piece de' resistance that made this publication a collectible for us was an article saluting Pennsylvania's top butterfat-producing cows. Among the photos of the top breed winners was the oldest of the six, a 13-year-old Polled Milking Shorthorn—owned by The Farmer's uncle right here in York County. The Farmer's dairy roots—his first 4-H heifer calf, a Milking Shorthorn—came from that herd.

We're still not certain where that magazine came from.

But we kinda' think Fate intended for us to find it.

AGCO ALLIS
8600 SERIES TRACTORS

36 SPEED CHOICES

AGCO Allis 8600 Series tractors give you 36 speed choices, an electronic engine speed governor and many other quality performance features, as well as a comprehensive 4-year/4,000-hour warranty

- Speed choices for all conditions. The standard synchropower transmission offers 24 forward and 12 reverse speeds An optional power Hi-Lo transmission boosts that to 36 speeds both forward and reverse. Both 8600 Series models are AWD with planetary final drive, and a self-adjusting, hydraulically-actuated clutch.
- The air- and oil-cooled engine advantage. The 8600 Series tractors feature the high-output, 6-cylinder, air- and oil-cooled diesel engine that eliminates components that cause downtime in liquid-cooled engines The 8610 model has a 103 PTO hp engine with a 22% torque rise and the 8630 model has a 120 PTO hp turbocharged engine with a 30% torque rise
- PTO power and versatility. The independent PTO operates at 540/1,000 rpm with 6- and 21-spline shafts and an electrohydraulically-actuated wet PTO clutch The 3-point hitch comes standard with telescopic stabilizers Category II/I on the 8610, Category III/II on the 8630 Optional telescopic lower links are available
- Quality performance features. The 8600 Series tractors ride on premium Goodyear radial tires. They have hydrostatic steering, a tilt-telescope steering wheel and hydraulically-actuated wet disc brakes on all four wheels for 40% better braking These models also have electrohydraulically-actuated rear and front differential locks that an operator can manually disengage for tighter turns

To learn about all the quality features of the 8600 Series tractors, or any of the "orange" line of AGCO Allis tractors ranging from 40 to 128 PTO hp, stop by or call us soon

Muffins For Every Taste

Muffins can be as dressed up or as plain as the multi-varied tastes of thousands of consumers. Some muffins are as sweet and rich as cupcakes while others are plain, heavy and similar to bran breads.

Muffins have enjoyed the popularity of being considered a healthful food. But some of those touted as a healthy choices are far from healthful if you are watching fat and sugar. Many bran muffins sold in supermarkets and restaurants have as many as 19 grams of fat. Of course, if only flavor and not fat and sugar is of any concern to you, you may indulge in those muffins calorie-laden muffins and be perfectly content.

Making your own muffins offers more control over what goes into them. If you are reducing fat and sugar in your diet, experiment with modifying recipes. Replace oil and shortening with an equal measurement of mashed banana, applesauce, yogurt or pureed pumpkin. This change usually results in moist muffins, but they may be more difficult to remove from muffin tins. Make sure you spray the tins with vegetable spray before filling with batter.

Sugar, too, may often be reduced with no ill effects. Substitute two egg whites for every whole egg listed in a recipe.

Modifying a recipe may require several trial and error batches to come up with the right proportions for your qualifications.

Muffins are great for snacks, breakfast on the run, as a bread to complement a meal or as an after-dinner dessert. The following recipes have been tested by our readers and received an excellent rating.

BRAN MUFFINS

1¾ cups whole wheat flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
Little or no salt
¼ cup sugar
1¼ cups milk
1 egg
½ cup vegetable oil
1 cup wheat bran
¼ cup molasses
¾ cup shredded carrots (prevents dryness and crumbling)
½ cup raisins

Mix altogether. Fill muffin pans half to three-fourths full. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes.

Fern Schlegel
Dalmatia

PEACH MUFFINS

4 cups all-purpose flour
1 cup sugar
8 teaspoons baking powder
1½ teaspoons salt
2 eggs
2 cups milk
½ cup vegetable oil
2 cups fresh peaches, chopped
Sugar

Sift together flour, sugar, baking powder and salt. In a separate bowl, combine eggs, milk, and oil. Add the dry ingredients and mix until moistened. Add peaches. Pour into well greased muffin cups and sprinkle with sugar. Bake in 400 degree oven for 20 to 25 minutes. Makes 2 dozen medium muffins and 12 Texas muffins.

Note. You may substitute apples or cranberries in place of peaches. With the apple muffins, sprinkle with a mixture of cinnamon and sugar. With the cranberries, add 1 teaspoon orange zest in the batter and sprinkle with sugar.

These are very good and easy to make.

GOOD MORNING MUFFINS

1½ cups all-purpose flour
1 cup oats, quick or old-fashioned, uncooked
½ cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon ground cinnamon
½ cup raisins
7-ounce can crushed pineapple in juice, undrained
½ cup shredded carrots
½ cup milk
⅓ cup vegetable oil
1 egg, slightly beaten

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Line 12 muffin cups with paper baking cups or lightly grease bottoms only. Combine dry ingredients including raisins. Add combined pineapple including juice, carrots, milk, oil, and egg; mix until just moistened. Fill muffin cups almost full. Bake 20 to 22 minutes or until golden brown. Let muffins stand a few minutes; remove from pan. Cool on wire rack.

Optional glaze:
⅓ cup confectioners' sugar
3 to 4 teaspoons milk

Combine sugar and milk; drizzle over muffins.

MAPLE BRAN MUFFINS

¾ cup natural wheat bran
½ cup milk
½ cup maple syrup
1 egg, slightly beaten
¼ cup vegetable oil
1¼ cups whole wheat flour
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup chopped walnuts

Glaze:
1 tablespoon butter
½ cup confectioners' sugar
1 tablespoon maple syrup

Combine bran, milk, and maple syrup. Mix in egg and oil. Combine remaining muffin ingredients. Add bran mixture, stirring until just moistened. Divide batter into 12 greased muffin tins. Bake at 400 degrees for 18 to 20 minutes.

Glaze: Combine ingredients, stirring to blend, and spread over warm muffins.

Contrary to popular belief, pasta is not fattening. One cup of spaghetti contains about 200 calories. It is the rich sauces that make it high in calories and fat. A tomato-based sauce is less fattening than a cream or cheese sauce.

There are more than 600 different shapes of pasta. Many types of pasta are interchangeable but some are more suited to particular sauces than others.

For example, delicate noodles are compatible with cream sauces, but spaghetti is usually enhanced by heavier sauces. Several preparations are made with very large pastas such as manicotti and giant shells, but they are not as good with seafood as smaller types.

PASTA WITH SEAFOOD SAUCE

8 ounces pasta (spaghetti, linguine, or angel hair)
1 pound assorted seafood

Tomato mixture:
1 pound tomatoes, chopped
3 cloves garlic, minced
2 tablespoons olive oil
1 cup basil leaves, finely chopped
¼ teaspoon salt and pepper to taste

Assorted may include shrimp, crab meat, scallops, clams, mussels, lobster, flaked fish and calamari. (If seafood is raw, cook with tomato mixture. If seafood is cooked, add it to mixture at last minute to heat).

Boil pasta in large quantity of water until al dente. Drain well. Saute tomato mixture. Add seafood, then quickly toss with pasta. Serves 6.

Consuming Thoughts

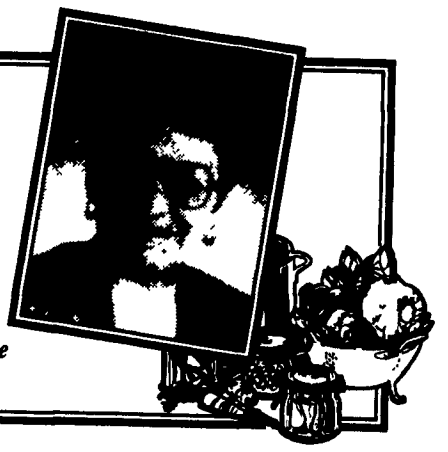
Penn State Extension Home Economist For Berks Co.



In my last column I discussed how to microwave safely when defrosting and cooking. As a follow-up . . . today's column will feature the latest information from USDA on warming precooked foods and what utensils and wraps to use when microwaving.

Warming Precooked Foods

• Cover precooked foods with microwave-safe plastic, waxed paper or a glass lid. This will keep moisture in and provide even cooking.

• Heat leftovers and precooked food to at least 165°F. Food should be very hot to the touch and steaming before it is served.

• Use caution when warming baby food. Stir toddler foods thoroughly and taste-test them yourself for child-safe temperatures. Shake milk or formula in a bottle before tasting as it can become extremely hot.

Suggested utensils, wraps and cookware to use in the microwave. Glass and glass ceramic cookware are safe for microwave cooking. But what about other materials?

• Use only those containers and products that have been approved for microwave use. These items are designed to withstand the high temperatures possible when cooking foods that have a high fat or sugar content.

• Avoid the use of cold storage containers. Margarine tubs, whipped topping bowls and cottage cheese cartons, for example, have not been approved for microwaving. High heat could cause chemicals to transfer into the food.

• Waxed paper is safe. Other paper goods such as towels, plates and napkins have not been tested for use in cooking. If using these items, for optimal safety, use only plain white paper goods.

• Never use brown grocery bags and newspaper. These contain recycled materials and metals, which could start a fire.

• Avoid letting plastic wrap touch foods during microwaving. It's fine to cover utensils with plastic wrap, but unless the wrap is a heavy-duty type, it could melt in contact with hot foods.

• Oven cooking bags are safe for use in the microwave. They are made from very tough nylon materials. Oven bags also promote even cooking, which helps meat reach safe temperatures throughout.

• Follow package directions when heating microwavable foods with special browning or crisping devices in the package. Never try to reuse these special browning devices. Don't eat from a package that becomes "charred" in cooking. Handle carefully, they become very hot to the touch.

• Do not re-use trays and containers provided with microwave convenience products. They have been designed for one-time use with that specific food only.

If you have additional questions about safely cooking meat and poultry in the microwave oven call the USDA's Meat and Poultry Hotline at 1-800-535-4555.

BLUEBERRY MUFFINS

2 cups flour
1½ cups sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup shortening
½ cup milk
2 eggs
2 cups fresh whole blueberries
1 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon

Preheat oven to 375 degrees.

In a large bowl, combine flour, sugar, baking powder, and salt.

Blend in shortening and mix until lumpy. Add milk and eggs, blend.

Gently stir in blueberries. Grease and flour muffin tins or use paper baking cups. Fill two-thirds full. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon mixture.

Bake 375 degrees about 25 minutes. Cool 15 minutes before removing from tins.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE MUFFINS

1 egg
1 cup milk
¼ cup salad oil
2 cups all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
3 teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon grated orange peel
1 cup cranberries

Heat oven to 400 degrees. Grease bottoms of 12 medium muffin cups (2¾ -inches in diameter). Beat egg; stir in milk and oil. Mix in remaining ingredients just until flour is moistened. Batter should be lumpy.

Fold in grated orange peel and cranberries, cut in half into batter.

Fill muffin cups two-thirds full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes or until golden brown. Immediately remove from pan. 12 muffins.

BANANA OATMEAL MUFFINS

¼ cup butter
¾ cup brown sugar, packed
1 egg, beaten
1 cup buttermilk
1 cup rolled oats
1 cup flour
1 tablespoon baking powder
½ teapsoon salt
½ teaspoon allspice
2 medium bananas, chopped

Cream together butter and brown sugar. Mix in egg and buttermilk. Mix together oats, flour, baking powder, salt, and allspice. Add to creamed mixture. Stir in bananas. Spoon carefully into greased or paper-lined muffin tins, filling almost full.

Bake in preheated 400- to 425-degree oven for 20-25 minutes or until golden brown.

ORANGE-YOGURT MUFFINS

3 large oranges
½ cup sugar
2 tablespoons water
5 tablespoons unsalted butter
2 cups all-purpose flour
1¼ teaspoons baking powder
1 teaspoon baking soda
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
¾ cup plain yogurt
¾ cup milk

Preheat oven to 375 degrees. Butter standard-size muffin cups. Finely grate the zest from oranges, removing the bright orange portion of the peel. You should have about ¼ cup zest. Combine the zest, ¼ cup sugar and the water in a small saucepan. Stir over medium heat for 2 minutes, until sugar dissolves. Add the butter and stir until melted, about one minute more. Set aside.

In a medium bowl, stir and toss together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt, and the remaining ¼ cup sugar. Set aside.

In a larger bowl, whisk together eggs, yogurt, milk, and reserved orange mixture until smooth. Add the combined dry ingredients and stir just until blended.

Spoon into the prepared muffin tins, filling each about ¾ full. Bake until a toothpick inserted in the center of a muffin comes out clean, about 15-20 minutes. Cool in pan for 3 minutes, then remove to a wire rack to cool.

Glaze for muffins:
1 cup confectioners' sugar
½ teaspoon grated orange zest
2 tablespoons fresh orange juice

Mix all together and glaze muffins.

1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup butter, melted

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease 15 medium muffin cups 2¾ -inches in diameter. Mix thoroughly shortening, ½ cup sugar, and egg. Stir in flour, baking powder, salt, and nutmeg alternately with milk.

Fill muffin cups two-thirds full. Bake 20 to 25 minutes. Mix ½ cup sugar and the cinnamon. Immediately after baking, roll puffs in melted butter, then in cinnamon-sugar mixture. Serve hot. 15 muffins.

QUICK APPLESAUCE MUFFINS

2 cups biscuit mix
¼ cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup applesauce
¼ cup milk
1 egg slightly beaten
2 tablespoons oil
¼ cup chopped nuts

Topping:
2 tablespoons melted butter
¼ cup sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Grease muffin cups. Combine biscuit mix, sugar, and cinnamon. Add applesauce, milk, eggs, oil, and nuts. Mix well. Fill muffin cups two-thirds full. Bake 12 minutes or until lightly browned.

In a small saucepan, combine 3 topping ingredients and stir until sugar dissolves. Top each muffin with sugar-cinnamon mixture. Cool. Makes one dozen.

OATMEAL CREAM CHEESE MUFFINS

1 cup quick or old-fashioned oats
1 cup milk
½ cup brown sugar, packed
¼ cup vegetable oil
1 egg, beaten
1½ cups flour
1½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
3 ounces cream cheese

Topping:
2 tablespoons quick or old-fashioned oats
2 tablespoons brown sugar, packed

In medium bowl, place oats and milk. Let stand 30 minutes. Stir brown sugar, oil and egg into soaked oats. Combine flour, baking powder, and salt. Stir into oat mixture just until blended. Do not over mix. Spoon half the batter into 12 paper-lined muffin cups. Place about one teaspoon cream cheese into center of batter of each cup. Top with remaining batter, making sure cream cheese is covered with batter.

For topping, combine oats and brown sugar. Sprinkle over batter. Bake at 350 degrees about 20 minutes or until center is set. Remove muffins from pan. Cool on rack. Makes 12 muffins.

ANSWER — Ruth Best, Newburg, wanted recipes for diabetic jams and jellies of several different fruit flavors. Thanks to Ida Keeny, New Freedom; Naomi Blank, Kinzers; Dot Waibel, Lykens; Barbara Randall, Holcomb, N.Y., and others for sending recipes.

Peach Jam

1 quart peeled peaches
3 to 4 teaspoons artificial sweetner
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 box powdered pectin

Crush peaches in saucepan. Stir in lemon juice, powdered pectin, and sweetner. Bring to boil and boil one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Continue to stir 2 minutes. Pour into sterilized jars to ¼ -inch of top. Screw band tightly. When cool, store in refrigerator. Yields 2½ half pints.

For strawberry jam, substitute strawberries for the peaches and reduce lemon juice to 1 tablespoon.

Apple Jelly

2 teaspoons unflavored gelatin
1 cup unsweetened apple juice
¾ teaspoon lemon juice
Few drops yellow food coloring
Artificial sweetener to equal ⅓ cup cup sugar, to taste.

Soften gelatin in ¼ cup cool juice. Bring remaining juice to boil. Remove from heat and add gelatin, stirring until dissolved. Add lemon juice, coloring and sweetener. Store in refrigerator and use within a short time.

Ida's Notebook

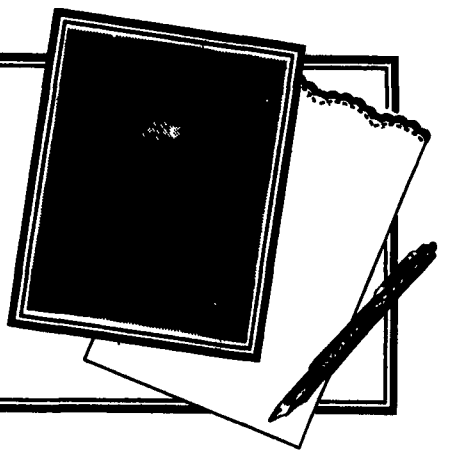
Ida Risser



Now that we are home from our 15 day trip to Florida, we must adjust to cold weather again. We spent 11 sunny and warm days with 17 other people from Berks, Lancaster, and Lebanon Counties.

When people ask what I saw, I tell them if it was in Florida we saw it. Our hostess kept us quite busy. Our first stop was a tour of the capital in Richmond, Virginia where we saw statues of George Washington, Robert E. Lee, and Stonewall Jackson. Our evening lodging was at Fayetteville in North Carolina.

There were four sisters in our group and so we never lacked for conversation. Many inns provided Continental breakfasts and during the whole trip we were very well fed.

In St. Augustine we saw the Florida Heritage Museum and also the jail built by Henry Flagler, a railroader. The oldest wooden structure, a schoolhouse is located on St. George Street and sits among many gift shops where we purchased a few items to take home.

At the Florida Welcome Center, everyone is given a sample of either grapefruit or orange juice. Our mystery stop was the 175-foot tall Ponce Inlet Lighthouse south of Daytona Beach. It was while we were at Cocoa Beach that we received a phone call from our daughter, Cindy, telling us that our 12th grandchild, Bryan, was born in Texas. It was a pleasant surprise.

The next day was spent at the John F. Kennedy Space Center. We not only saw a wonderful film on the five-story high screen at the IMAX Theater but also toured the Flight Crew Training Building and the Space Shuttle launch site. Along the way we now began to see orange groves with fruit on the trees.

In the evening we had an unusual experience as we tried to find the "Jungle Queen" boat to journey down the New River in Fort Lauderdale. As traffice was very heavy, we managed to miss the boat and so our tour bus took us on a dark, narrow road to the pavilion where a barbecue rib and shrimp dinner was served in a tropical setting. We took the boat on the return trip past many waterfront homes.

ADADC Offers Summer Internship

SYRACUSE, N.Y. — The American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc. (ADADC) is actively seeking applicants for a summer internship in the communications department.

A dairy background with strong communication and writing skills are required for the position. Applicants must have completed their junior year of college to be considered.

Responsibilities include writing news releases, ag radio scripts, assisting with the dairy promotion training seminar and special events at the New York State Fair. The intern will be based in the Syracuse office during the months of June, July, and August.

According to Director of Communication Brenda Beltram, "Not only will the intern develop writing and organizational skills, but they will gain 'real world' experience critical for securing future job placement."

To apply for the position, send a resume and two writing samples to Brenda Beltram, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., 14 Ridgedale Ave., Suite 260, Cedar Knolls, NJ 07927-1106. Deadline to apply is Friday, March 31.

Landis Valley Celebration

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — State-owned museums throughout Pennsylvania are opening their doors free of charge to all visitors on Sunday, March 12 from noon to 5 P.M.

Rated "exceptional" by AAA, Landis Valley will offer a variety of demonstrations — from pottery and cabinetmaking to tinsmithing and more. Tasty food will be for sale at the 1850s Landis Valley Hotel, located in the heart of the museum.

Everywhere That Yvette Goes, Four Lambs Are Sure To Follow

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

MANHEIM (Lancaster Co.) — Inside her home, Yvette Stoltzfus plays the strains of "Mary Had A Little Lamb on her violin.

The four quadruplets were born several weeks ago.

"We were walking up the lane from school when Mother said that she had a surprise for us," Yvette said of the day when the lambs were born.

"They were wet and slimy when we first saw them," Yvette's brother Jared said.

The lambs are now a soft furry white. Although they are penned in the barn, the lambs prefer to run outside when Jared and Yvette play with them.

The lambs appear to be identical in looks until Jared and Yvette point out that one has a curlier tail. So it was named Curlicue. Another has smaller ears and curlier fur so it was named Curly. The markings on the lambs' faces are a bit different so the one with the whitest face was dubbed Whitey. Of course, the one named Jumpy does a lot of jumping.

All four lambs make a lot of noise. Their constant baa-ing is their way of talking.

Yvette and Jared are the children of Judy and Jake Stoltzfus. Two older sisters, Vonda, 18, and Wafi, 20, help out with bottle feeding the lambs. At first, the lambs were bottle fed five times a day, now they are fed three times daily.

"We have 16 mommy sheep," Yvette said of the mixed breed raised on the farm.

The sheep keep about four acres of meadows surrounding the farm trimmed so that Jared doesn't have as much mowing to do.

These rambunctious lambs don't like to pose for pictures. Jared and Yvette take some time to play with the sheep quadruplets named Curly, Curly Q, Jumpy, and Whitey. The lambs look all the same to visitors, but Jared and Yvette can easily tell them apart.

Lieza doesn't stick to thistles. Once a feed salesman laid a bill on top of Lieza's pen. She jumped up and ate the bill.

Maybe Lieza thought that she was doing the Stoltzfus family a favor; but, unfortunately, they still needed to pay the bill.

Although both Yvette and Jared are 4-H members neither have sheep or the goat as a 4-H project.

"We should get a better breed sheep if we do that," Jared said.

Jared prefers to make woodworking projects.

"I have a band saw that I learned to use on my own," Jared said. He also likes to help his dad saw wood for use in the wood stove.

Recently Jared completed a model of his dream car — a 1994 deep blue Mustang.

"I like Mustangs because they go fast and they have a cool design," Jared said. "I guess I'm Ford-minded."

In addition to mowing around the farm, Jared has two mowing jobs that he does for other people. He also cleans out the hog pens and helps with feeding.

Jared plays soccer at Manheim Central Junior High School and is a member of his church youth group.

Yvette is in fourth grade at H.C. Burgard Elementary School. She'd rather play the violin or sew than go to school. Recently she completed two quilts that she hand knotted. She also stitched two dolls.

These are sewing projects that Yvette has made. "I'm lucky to have older sisters that help me sew," Yvette said.

Her dream is to be able to sew dresses for people.

The Stoltzfus family has a 1,300 hog finisher operation on their 11½ -acre farm in Manheim. They have one dog named Rainbow and five cats, Tigger, Fluff Ball, Alexander, Mikey, and Licky.

Nine-year-old Yvette plays "Mary Had A Little Lamb."

American Farmer Has Eye On Environment

Kevin Seibert
Student Teacher
Pequea Valley High School

Growing up in Narvon, in rural southern Lancaster County, Ehrhart was outdoors as much as possible, exploring nearby creeks, streams, woodlands, and fields. This early interest in nature helped him decide early his life's goal of working with the environment.

While he appeared to be following his older brother, Matt, and his father, Phillip, Ehrhart elected to follow the FFA course at Pequea Valley High School because of its environmental education option/concentration.

"It was a way for me to get a head start on my career goals. I was working with resource management for four years prior to college. It gave me a firm understanding of the field, its possibilities, and the future need for it," Ehrhart said.

A junior at Penn State, Ehrhart expects to graduate next year with a bachelor's degree in environmental resource management. He has achieved dean's list honors for the past three semesters. After graduation, he is considering a master's degree in environmental pollution control. He is involved with a research project at Penn State with sedimentation basins and design modifications to improve them.

However, before he reaches graduation, Ehrhart hopes to have his American FFA degree, for which he recently applied. This degree will cap a seven-year FFA career which has been filled with a myriad of honors and leadership roles.

"Ben is a hard-working, responsible, goal-oriented person. He knows where he wants to go. He's a leader that can take control," said Clair Witwer, his high school agriculture education instructor.

During high school, Ehrhart attended and served as a counselor for the Lancaster County Conservation Leadership school and was selected to attend the state conservation leadership school at Penn State. Witwer supervised Ehrhart's agriculture experience projects, which entailed wildlife habitat improvement and identification. He also worked with the chapter project on stream bank improvement.

He placed first in the county and state FFA aquatic resources competition.

Ehrhart has excelled in other FFA areas and received the Star Greenhand Award, Chapter BOAC Volunteerism Award, and was the regional star candidate for the Keystone degree in the specialty division.

In leadership roles, he was the state delegate to the national convention held in Kansas City. He served on the National Courtsey Corp. in 1990, as Lancaster County FFA secretary in 1991-1992, served on the 1993-1994 State FFA officer team, and served as eastern vice president. He coordinated the Lancaster County Leadership Training Conference. He has been both a counselor and the ROPES course director of the N.Y. State FFA Camp.

At Pequea High School, Ehrhart also excelled in academics and sports. He was a member of the high school's national honor society. He received a varsity letter in wrestling and soccer. He was a sectional and district wrestling champion and state qualifier his senior year.

Heather Glennon And Her Goats

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Correspondent

NEWBURG (Cumberland Co.) — Heather Glennon has raised dairy goats for more than half of her life.

Through all those years, her goats have given her and her family milk and have helped Heather to earn a lot of awards as well as a scholarship that is helping with her college education.

Heather said her involvement with goats began 12 years ago when her family was living in Florida. The goats went with them when they moved to Maryland, and then accompanied them again when the Glennons moved to their present home near Newburg five years ago.

At the moment, Heather said she has 22 goats of the Nubian and the Oberhaslie breeds.

She said that 10 of the goats are milking now. That milk fills a number of purposes.

For starters, some of the milk used to feed the family's calves. Whatever is left over after that is used for drinking, for making cheese and for general cooking.

After literally growing up with goats, Heather has developed quite a talent for raising champion animals. She has proven her abilities very regularly over the years at many shows in Maryland, Virginia, and locally.

She also was the 1992 Pennsylvania Dairy Goat Association Youth Representative.

Heather has been very involved in area 4-H and FFA Programs as well.

She was the Pennsylvania State 4-H Ambassador in 1992 and was president of the Cumberland County 4-H Council. Heather has been president of 4-H Dairy Goat clubs in both Pennsylvania and Maryland, and was a camp counselor with the Cumberland County 4-H Program at Camp Shehaqua and at the county science Camp.

In 1992 and 1993, Heather was the vice president of the Shippensburg High School FFA Chapter. She won the Star Greenhand, Star Chapter Farmer, Star Area Farmer, and Keystone Farmer awards.

To top all that off, she won the state FFA's Gold Award for Dairy Goats.

Her academic performance has been very impressive also.

She was valedictorian of the Shippensburg Area Senior High School's graduating class of 1993. Right now, she is a dean's list student at Delaware Valley College, where she is majoring in animal science.

Recently, she won the James Morrison/Dean Family Scholarship given by the American Dairy Goat Association. She was chosen for the scholarship based on her academic achievements and her accomplishments in the dairy goat industry.

Her accomplishments in that industry no doubt will continue for a long time to come.

Heather said she has had as many as 80 goats in the spring after all her does have freshened.

Usually, 10 to 15 of her goats are milking, she said. She added that each animal is milked using an automatic milker and gives about one gallon of milk a day.

The herd follows Heather everywhere.

Heather, who worked at a local kennel this past year, also has shown sheep and swine at local 4-H competitions. But she really prefers goats because they have more agreeable temperaments.

Her work with goats has taught her a lot.

"I have learned about the agricultural practices, marketing products, a lot of general information, and about money management on the farm," Heather said.

When she graduates from Delaware, she hopes she will be able to continue raising and showing her goats.

BETH MILLER
Cumberland Co.
Correspondent

HUNTSDALE (Cumberland Co.)—The election of officers and information about a deadly disease were the focus of the 62nd annual meeting of the Cumberland Cooperative Sheep and Wool Growers.

The keynote speaker for the meeting, which was held at the Penn Township Fire Hall, was Dr. Charles Rossow, a veterinary medical officer with the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

The subject of Rossow's talk was "Scrapie in Your Flock."

According to Rossow, scrapie is a fatal, degenerative disease that affects the central nervous system of goats and sheep. He said the disease is believed to be most commonly spread from ewes to lambs through contact with placental fluid.

Rossow said the signs of the disease usually do not appear until two to five years after an animal is infected. There is no test to detect scrapie in a live animal, said Rossow, who said that once an animal is infected, there is no cure and the animal will die.

Scrapie was first diagnosed in sheep in Europe 250 years ago, he said. Since then, it has been reported throughout the world, except in Australia and New Zealand, he said. Rossow said the disease was first reported in the U.S. in 1947 when it was found in a flock of sheep in Michigan.

Through September of 1992, he said, scrapie had been diagnosed in at least 652 flocks in the U.S. and has caused significant financial losses to sheep producers.

Rossow said the only states that have had no reported scrapie cases are Alaska, Arizona, Arkansas, Rhode Island, Florida, Hawaii, Montana and North Dakota. In the U.S., scrapie has mostly been diagnosed in the Suffolk breed, although it has hit other breeds also.

Symptoms of scrapie develop slowly and can vary widley among different animals, according to Rossow. He said early signs include subtle changes in temperament and behavior which may be followed by scratching or rubbing. Other signs are loss of coordination, weight loss despite the retention of appetite, biting of feet and limbs, lip smacking, and gait abnormalities.

The cause of scrapie has not yet been determined, Rossow said. He added that attempts to cure or prevent its spread using heat, ultraviolet irradiation and disinfectants have so far failed.

Once an animal begins to show the signs of scrapie infection, it may live only from one to six months.

In 1992, he said, sheep producers, veterinarians, state animal health officials and the USDA began the Voluntary Scrapie Flock Certification Program to try to deal with the disease.

The intent of the program is to monitor flocks over a five-year period or more to identify flocks that are free of scrapie, Rossow said. The aim is to help participating producers increase the marketability of their animals, he said.

To apply for the program, flock owners should contact the state's Scrapie Certification Board, he said.

The other action at the wool growers meeting was to elect four officers to new terms.

Credon Bixler, Ben Bow, and Tim Hocker all were reelected to new terms as cooperative directors.

Without Added Sugar

4 cups mashed fruit
2 12-ounce cans concentrated white grape juice, thawed
1 box Sure-Jell light pectin
½ teaspoon margarine

Mix all ingredients in large pot. Bring to a boil and cook 20 minutes, stirring constantly. Ladle into sterile jars and seal as usual or store in freezer. Makes 4-5 cups.

Ruth's Raspberry Jam

1½ teaspoons unflavored gelatin
1½ tablespoons cold water
3 cups fresh raspberries, crushed
Non-nutritive sweetener equivalent to ⅔ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon lemon juice
3 drops red food coloring (optional)

Soften gelatin in cold water. Combine berries and sweetener in saucepan; place on high heat; stir constantly until mixture boils. Remove from heat; add softened gelatin. Return to heat; cook for another minute. Remove and blend in lemon juice and food coloring. Place in pint jar; seal and store in refrigerator.

Apple Butter Jelly

8 cups apples, cored, washed, quartered
2 cups unsweetened apple juice
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup cider vinegar
2 teaspoons lemon peel, ground fine
¼ teaspoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon powdered cloves
¼ teaspoon anise seed, ground fine
Non-nutritive sweetener equivalent to ½ cup sugar

Mix all ingredients except sweetener; bring to a boil, stirring constantly, boil a few minutes. Remove from heat, stir in sweetener. Ladle into jelly glasses and seal.

Cherry Jam

1½ cups canned unsweetened cherries, drained
¾ cup cherry juice
3 teaspoon gelatin
1½ teaspoon red food coloring
¾ teaspoon almond flavoring
1½ teaspoon cherry flavor
Artificial sweetener to equal ½ cup sugar

Blend cherries to smooth and place in saucepan. Add juice and gelatin, simmer to dissolve gelatin. Set off heat and add color and flavorings. Cool 20 minutes and add sweetener. Store in refrigerator.

ANSWER — Mrs. David Early, Annville, wanted a recipe for crumb buns made with yeast. Thanks to Sharon DeLorenzo, Catawissa, for sending a recipe.

Crumb Buns

2½ cups bread flour
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons softened unsalted butter
½ cup plus 1 tablespoon milk (room temperature)
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 large egg, slightly beaten
2¼ teaspoon rapid-rise yeast

Place liquid ingredients in a lightly oiled bowl; add all dry ingredients except yeast, make an indentation in center of dry ingredients. Add yeast and mix with hands. Knead well until mixture is smooth and elastic.

Cover and let rise in warm place for approximately 1½ hours.

While rising, prepare topping:
½ cup unbleached all-purpose flour
¼ cup dark brown sugar
1 tablespoon sugar
2 pinches cinnamon
¼ cup unsalted butter, softened

Cut butter into dry ingredients until crumbs form. Refrigerate until ready to use. When dough is ready, remove from bowl. Let set five minutes.

Place dough in lightly buttered 9-inch square pan. Gently press dough with fingers to spread evenly in pan. Cover with cloth and let rise again until doubled in size.

Medical Mission Is Goodwill To Russia

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Senator Gibson E. Armstrong (R-Lancaster/York County) announced that he will be leading a group of individuals from Lancaster and York County on a goodwill medical mission to Russia.

The trip will begin on May 4 and will return on May 15. While in Russia they will be visiting Moscow, Saint Petersburg, and Zagorsk. Also, the trip will include a stay in London.

The trip is open to anyone who is interested in a unique experience of staying in Russian homes and experiencing the every day life of a Russian. The group will be visiting schools, churches, hospitals and places of employment.

The total cost of the trip is $1395. Anyone interested in learning more about the trip, contact Senator Gibson Armstrong at (717) 786-7862 or write to Post Office Box 43, Refton, Pa. 17568.

ANSWER — Carol Koser, Columbia, wanted to know where to purchase buffalo meat in quantity to freeze. She also wants some recipes for cooking with it. Thanks to Myrtle Shenk, Manheim; Doris Dilbert, Everett; Sharon Ginder, Manheim, and others for sending the following sources for purchasing bison. CeDarrow's Farms (814) 733-4908. Juniata Springs Bison Farm, Mifflintown, (717) 436-9795.

Doug and Shirley Drewes, who operate the Juniata Spring Bison Farm, write that they encourage people to come and visit the herd. The Drewes say that bison tastes hearty, sweet, and rich with no gamey taste at all. If prepared properly by cooking over low heat, bison is every bit as tender as the tenderest beef available. Since bison has a lot less fat than other meats, it doesn't produce grease and the meat is lower in cholesterol than fish or chicken and reportedly has 25 percent more protein than beef.

ANSWER — Betty Staman, Danville, wanted the address for the Magic Mill Co. Thanks to Naomi Becker, Walnutport, who writes that according to the warranty papers she has it is 1911 S. 3850 W., Salt Lake City, UT 84104. In the information that came with her mixer, another address for the company is also listed as Salt Lake City, but it has this street address: 235 W. 200 S.

However, Nevin and Robin Danner wrote that Magic Mill no longer sells the Bosch Universal Kitchen System. It is sold by independent dealers for kitchen specialties. The Danners sell the mixer, parts, and accessories and also a Whisper Quiet Grain Grinder. Contact them at 475 Moulstown Rd., Hanover, PA 17331 (717) 632-3987.

Also, Brenda Weidenhammer, Bernville, writes that a Bosch dealer by the name of David Woodruff lives in Chambersburg. His phone number is (717) 263-6222.

ANSWER — Another way to store sweet potatoes, according to a reader, is to pack in sawdust if you have no dry place.

ANSWER — A faithful reader wanted to know where she could purchase some Alice and Jerry readers that were used in school many years ago. She especially wanted a copy of "Singing Wheels" and others from that series. For "Singing Wheels," write to R.B. Beiler, 862 Valley Rd., Quarryville, PA 17566.

New Cookbook Features Amish Cooking

PHILADELPHIA — Numerous stories, histories, and cookbooks have been written about the Amish. Their unique way of life — simple, yet rich in tradition fascinates people everywhere.

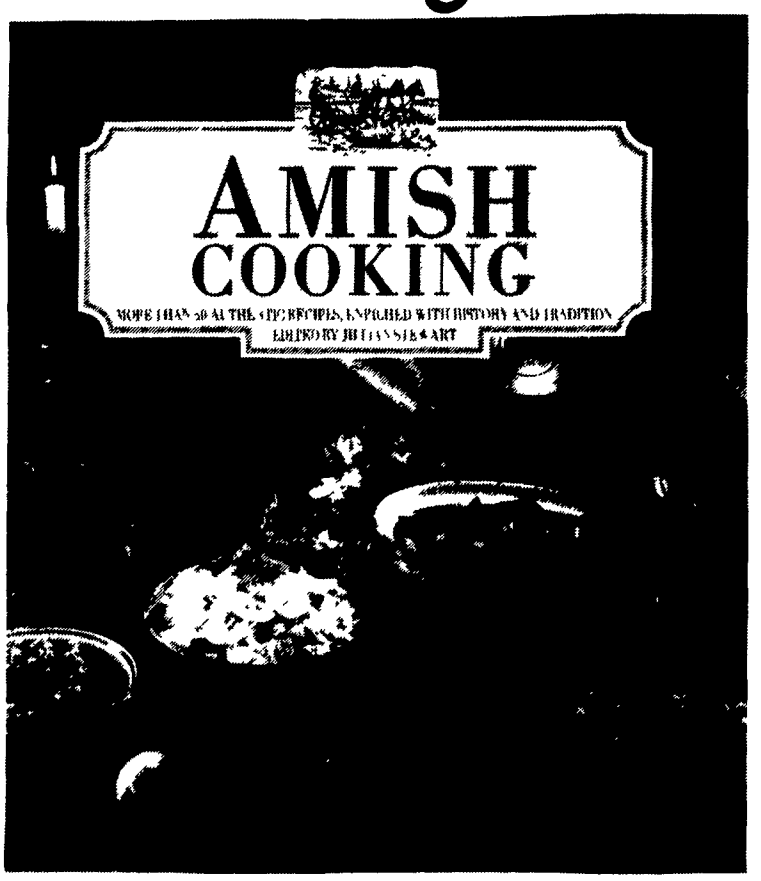
Now a new book, "Amish Cooking," has been released by Running Press Book Publishers.

The book has much more than 50 authentic recipes. It's pages are filled with vibrant photography of food, people and places. Jillian Stewart edited by book. Amish photography is done by Mel Horst, and food photography by Neil Sutherland and Peter Barry.

A history of the Amish is interspersed with anecdotes that bring to life the food, culture, and traditions of the Amish.

The hard-cover cookbook is available at book stores for $12.98. It may be mail ordered by calling 1-800-345-5359.

Here is a recipe from the cookbook.



"Amish Cooking" presents more than 50 authentic recipes for variety of appetizers, main courses, and desserts. Numerous anecdotes and period photographs, along with historical background, bring to life the food, culture, and traditions of the Amish.

STREUSEL BREAD

½ cup butter
¾ cup sugar
1 package active dry yeast
¼ cup lukewarm water
1 cup milk
2 eggs, beaten
2½ -3 cups bread flour

Topping:

1¼ cups soft bread crumbs
1 teaspoon cinnamon
3 tablespoons brown sugar
2 tablespoons butter, melted

Cream the butter and sugar together in a large bowl. Dissolve the yeast in lukewarm water and leave until frothy, about 5-10 minutes.

Scald the milk and gradually add the butter and sugar. When slighly cooled, add the eggs and the yeast mixture. Mix well, then work in the flour to make a thick batter. Add more flour if the batter is too runny. Beat the mixture with a spatula or wooden spoon; it will be too soft to knead by hand. Cover the bowl and leave the batter in a cool place for about one hour to rise until doubled in bulk.

Grease two deep pie dishes, large loaf pans or brioche pans and spoon in the batter to fill just over halfway. Mix together the topping ingredients and sprinkle over the top of each bread. Leave in a warm place for about 20 minutes to rise again. Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Bake the loaves for about 20 minutes or until golden brown. Serve with butter or jam. Makes two loaves.

How To Arrange Furniture With A Good Floor Plan

(NAPS)—If your back muscles ache from just the thought of rearranging furniture, then sit back in your favorite, most comfortable chair, put up your feet and let your fingers do the work. Avoid time-consuming, not to mention back-breaking, mistakes by creating a floor plan.

"You can create a room arrangement without moving a single piece of furniture," explained Margi Daniels, design consultant for La-Z-Boy® Chair Co. "Save time and muscle by doing what professional designers do—make mistakes on paper."

1. Put pencil to paper.

By using scaled-down representations of furniture pieces known as "templates" arranged on a grid, you can create your own floor plan. All you need is graph paper, a pencil, a ruler and scissors.

2. Measure it up.

Begin by measuring your room. Using a one-quarter inch equals one foot scale, draw the perimeter of the room on your graph paper. Using this same scale, add in the details of the room—doors, windows, fireplaces, built-ins, electrical outlets, telephone jacks and other existing architectural features. Next, measure any existing furniture pieces you wish to incorporate into your room arrangement and, using scaled-down furniture templates, plot these pieces on your graph paper floor plan. Now you can see how much room you have and what types of new furniture pieces are needed.

3. Find a focus.

Before moving anything on your grid, identify the room's focal point, such as a fireplace or a window with a pleasing view. If the room doesn't have a natural focal point, substitute an interesting furniture piece or group of accessories to create an eye-catching focus. Use this focal point as the cornerstone on which to build your furniture arrangement.

4. Move it.

Now, it's time to have some fun. Let your creative juices flow. Experiment with different room arrangements by moving the furniture templates around on the graph paper.

"You may discover you have new furniture needs," explained Daniels. "Perhaps a couple of occasional chairs or an attractive recliner would complement your sofa and create a cozy conversation area. Create templates for these new pieces and incorporate them into your room plan."

5. Direct traffic.

According to Daniels, a successful room arrangement combines comfort with a convenient traffic flow. Notice the paths people take into and out of a room, and position furniture accordingly. Also, divert traffic around conversation areas rather than through them. A good rule of thumb is to allow two to three feet of space between furniture for comfortable movement.

6. Create balance.

Finally, be aware of visual balance. For example, when decorating a large room, try creating multiple centers of activity by moving furniture away from the walls. Also, avoid placing all of your tall or weighty furniture pieces on the same side of the room.

Successful decorating doesn't happen by accident. It is the result of good planning. With the right tools and a little creativity, you can decorate like the professionals and all you may break is a pencil, not your back.

To receive a free La-Z-Boy Decorating Guide with grid and ready-made furniture templates, call 1-800-MAKE-A-HOME.

Satellite Program To Focus On Alzheimer's Disease

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — Nearly four million Americans, including former President Ronald Reagan, have Alzheimer's disease. Caregivers can find themselves experiencing a range of reactions to often unsettling new behaviors.

A video satellite program, "Coping with Alzheimer's: Challenging Behaviors," scheduled March 24 from 11 a.m. to 1.15 p.m. at the Montgomery County 4-H Center in Collegeville is designed to help families recognize, understand, and adapt to the changes in behavior they may see in their relative with the disease.

The program is sponsored by University of Wisconsin-Extension and University of Wisconsin Hospital and Clinics in cooperation with Penn State University.

Program participants will learn:

- How to understand the various losses an individual with Alzheimer's has and how those losses may affect behavior.
- How to assess the possible causes for challenging behaviors which may result from Alzheimer's.
- How to identify coping strategies and approaches to handle the challenging behaviors created by the disease.

Child Care Training Provided

COLLEGEVILLE (Montgomery Co.) — Eight sessions for persons employed in the child care profession are being offered by Penn State Cooperative Extension.

The classes will meet on various evenings and Saturday mornings in March, April, and May. Family day care home providers, group home providers, and child care center staff are welcome to attend. All sessions are free of charge and registration is required.

Topics will include recordkeeping, discipline, creative activities, feeding young children, and more. All sessions will be held at the Montgomery County 4-H Center located on Rt. 113 between Skippack and Collegeville.

For more information, contact the Cooperative Extension office in Montgomery County (610) 489-4315 and request a brochure.

Pa. Dutch Food Festival

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Join us in Lancaster County for the Pennsylvania Dutch Food Festival, June 22-24, as we celebrate the traditional farm-to-table goodness of Pennsylvania Dutch cuisine.

Lancaster County is North America's top-producing, non-irrigated farm county. So, if you think of delicious, home-cooked food when Lancaster County comes to mind, you are not alone. See how food adds fun to a visit to Lancaster County!

A free brochure detailing the Pennsylvania Dutch Food Festival, June 22-24, will be available in early spring of 1995. To receive one with a map & visitors guide, phone 1-800-PA DUTCH, ext. 2425, or write to the Pennsylvania Dutch Convention & Visitors Bureau, Dept. 2425, 501 Greenfield Road, Lancaster, PA 17601.

Our 1130 Sickle-Type Mower Conditioner is as easy on your wallet as it is on your fields. Because our stub on stub guards give you top quality cutting at down to earth prices.

See, we developed the 1130 with an over-frame flotation system for a more narrow width and high maneuverability. So you'll glide through the roughest areas with ease.

Plus, our fully engaged 110" conditioner allows aggressive hay conditioning for faster drying. It'll also clear itself of crop jams with its own automatic plug release.

Stop by your AGCO/Hesston dealer listed here and ask about our flexible financing programs on the 1130. Or on our wide selection of equipment, all backed by the AGCO Warranty Program.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

Lancaster Farm Women Society #20 met at the home of Vera Herr with Jean Ressel as co-hostess, Thursday March 2. Sue Ellenberg spoke of her trip to Russia. She spoke of the people in general and of the lovely family she stayed with, the food and how many of them get plots of land and raise and preserve as much as they can for the winter. She talked about the transportation, and she had lovely dolls there for display. They range from a big one down to a really tiny one and 20 of them all fit in the big one. They are beautiful and all hand painted.

Following the program the president, Nancy Axe, presided at the business meeting, opening with the scripture read by Vera, taken from Psalm 185. The Lord's Prayer was prayed in unison and the Pledge of Allegiance was repeated. The 20 present responded to the roll call by saying their favorite soup.

Freda Wimer, chairman of the Sewing Committee reported 13 bibs had been made. The Sunshine Committee sent five cards since the last meeting. The president stated members would be going to Conestoga View in October and she gave a report on the State Convention and mentioned the membership is now 718. The meeting closed by singing "Brighten the Corner." The April meeting will be at the Memorial United Methodist Church to entertain Societies 26, 15 and the county officers.

Berks Society 9

The February meeting of Group 9 met in the home of Pat Haas. The meeting opened with a poem reading, the Lord's Prayer, and the flag salute. For the March meeting members will meet at St. Paul's U.C.C. at 6:30 to go to City Hall for a police program about home security. After the program, members will go to Arnie's for dessert, and a short meeting. April 5th is the Birthday Party—each member is to bring a $5 gift to be swapped. Members will go to Snuzzles.

Sunshine Fund Chairperson Tippy Oxenford reminded everyone to pay equal amounts for the year. The audit was completed, with no problems.

County Board has decided that each group should collect food for local food banks, rather than the Co. Bank. The group will collect again in March for St. Paul's U.C.C.

Berks Heim Bingo will be April 6th - 7:00 p.m. at the Main Bldg. A cake is needed.

Spring Rally will be May 23rd at Dickenson College. Cost is $12.

The County Youth project needs ideas for rewarding participants; this year's project—youth are to take a photo or draw a picture of a special place in Pennsylvania—due August.

York Society 11

Potosi Society #11 of Farm Women held their February meeting at the home of Sandy Hilty, with president Arlene Miller presiding. The meeting opened with several love songs in honor of Valentines Day. Barbara Groth accompanied on the keyboard. Sarah Snyder had devotions.

The Roll Call Response was, "Who was President when you were born." This created a nice discussion with remembrances of by-gone days and past Presidents.

The guess box was won by Mary Vinemiller. The next meeting will be at Christ Lutheran Church with Hester Keeney as Hostess. Cookbook chairperson Naomi Bupp told the group more cookbooks will be arriving this week.

The finance committee announced a White Elephant Bake Sale will be held at the next meeting.

York Society 26

York County Farm Women Group 26 held the February meeting at the Jolly Coppersmith Restaurant, Etters, for a luncheon and Valentine party on February 14 with 16 members attending. President Doris Beshore was in charge of the business meeting. Betty Bertolette was in charge of the entertainment.

Three members had February birthdays.

Group 26 will entertain Group 20 at a date in the future.

Spring Rally will be held at Dickinson College in Carlisle.

Games were won by Ruth Hake and Doris Beshore.

Door prizes were won by 5 members.

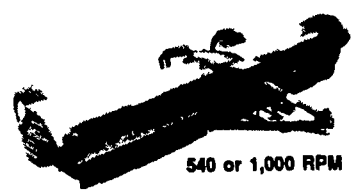
ROLLING ON...IN THE 90'S Brillion MEETS THE CHALLENGE

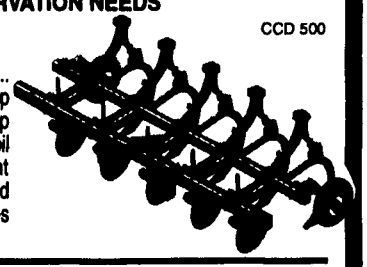
If Fuel Economy and Soil Conservation Are Concerns Of Yours, Buy Brillion



BRILLION FLAIL SHREDDERS keep going when others stop! One of the most important features is that you get the heaviest gearbox on the market with this machine. 12 & 15 foot. With either side slicer or cup knives.

COMPACTION COMMANDERS
NO-TILL RIPPER/DEEP RIPPER
DESIGNED FOR YOUR CONSERVATION NEEDS

3-5-7 Shank



Brillion introduces their new Compaction Commander... designed to break up hardpan and compaction as deep as 20". The standard V-shaped alloy point and wear strip leaves residue on the surface with minimal soil disturbance. Auto-rest shanks with 20" of trip height allows for non-stop tillage. Parabolic shanks lift and fracture the soil. 39" of underframe clearance assures trouble free operation even in heavy residue.

BRILLION THREE SHANK DEEP TILL has a Category II hitch. With a cutting width of 7'6", it is ideal for operators with smaller acreages and horsepower. It is extremely maneuverable, yet provides the same basic deep tilling job as its "big brother." Available with coulters.

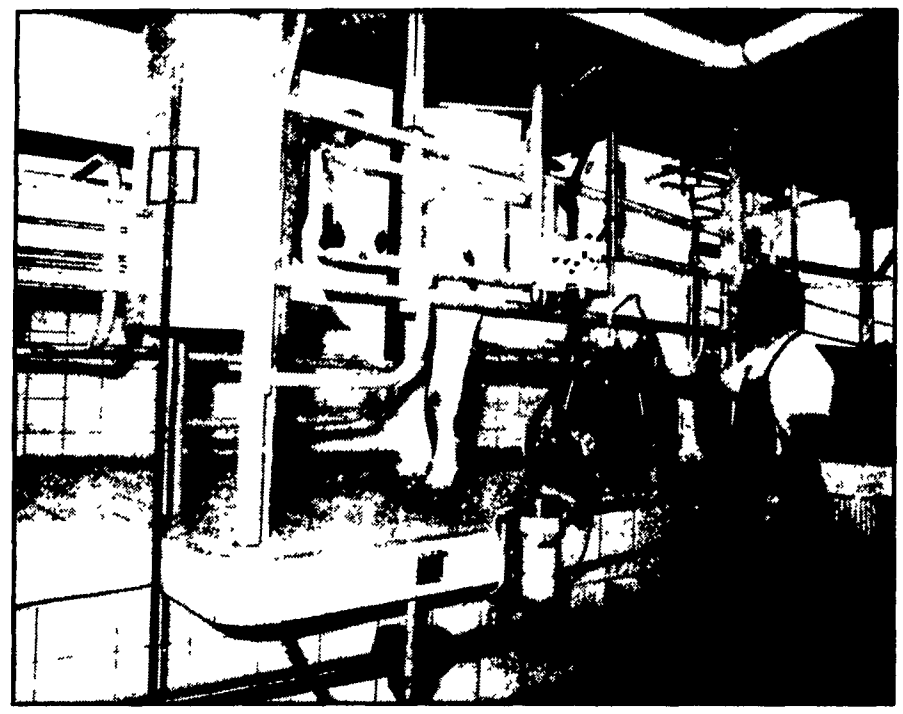
AUTOFLOW™

MILKING STALLS



With Non-Stop Cow Traffic

Using less stalls at maximum efficiency lowers the total cost of your automation and improves labor efficiency. Comparison shows it takes as much as 50% fewer AutoFlow stalls to achieve the same throughput as with similarly automated herringbone and parallel systems.

As milking equipment becomes more sophisticated and more expensive, the investment per stall becomes an important factor. The Surge AutoFlow parlor maximizes efficiencies per stall without sacrificing cow throughput.

HAPENINGS

Boots And Saddles 4-H Club

The first meeting of the Boots and Saddles 4-H club, for the 1995 project year, came to order on Friday, Feb. 10, at the Farm and Home Center.

This meeting was called to order by President Nathan Stoltzfus at 7 p.m. About 30 members attended this organizational meeting.

They told about themselves and their horses. They shared their ideas and thoughts on 4-H. They were told about shows and fundraisers. They were given candy selling sheets and then instructed to get out and sell, sell, sell.

Then they voted on whom they wanted to hold the offices for this year. Abby Just was voted president. Nathan Stoltzfus was elected as vice president; secretary, Melissa Meisky; treasurer, Kelly Sullivan; assistant treasurer, Victoria Stuart; and elected reporter was Emily Hill.

Then the 4-Her's watched a movie called "A Horse of Our Own." When the movie was over, refreshments were served.

Goat Club Meets

The Cumberland County 4-H Goat Club met March 1 at the home of Tim Zeigler. Eleven members were present.

The members welcomed Sandy Sargent, DVM from Farrell Veterinary Clinic. She talked on proper kidding techniques, kid feeding, and a vaccination program. She also gave a demonstration on tube feeding a kid.

Meat animals will be tagged and weighed on May 10 at Farrell Veterinary Clinic from 7 p.m.-7:30 p.m. The club purchased animal clippers and tatooing equipment for the members' use. Members also voted to begin meetings at 7 p.m. instead of 7:30 p.m.

The next meeting will be held April 5 at 7 p.m. at the home of Beth and Greg Garvin.

Those wishing to join the club or needing additional information should contact one of the leaders: Red Allen at (717) 776-5097 or Ron and Lois Zeigler at (717) 776-7583.

TOP 10 REASONS

TANCO	COMPETITION
1. Five (5) points of support on turntable: Four heavy duty rollers add stability and support to the perimeter of the turntable in addition to the main central shaft. This allows Tanco wrappers to safely wrap the heaviest silage bales on rough or uneven ground.	Competition uses one central shaft to support the entire turntable mechanism
2. Single solid belt on turntable: The single belt enables Tanco wrappers to effectively wrap misshapen or soggy bales providing a positive surface for bale rotation.	Competition uses either no belts between rollers, or multiple belts which can allow bales to sag and slip.
3. Adjustable extendable axle: On trailed models the extendable axle provides a wide, stable wheel base when loading bales. Eliminates the need for counter weights.	Competition must add counterweights or tandem axles as options to effectively handle silage bales.
4. Top rollers on turntable: Extra rollers provide security to keep bales in place when wrapping at high RPM's (25) or on uneven terrain.	Competition - None.
5. Unloading ramp on trailed models: The ramp allows bales to be unloaded gently. When a wrapped bale falls hard it can "burp." Once it "burps" the bale does not re-seal. The ramp gives a smooth transition between the ground and turntable.	Competition - optional drop mats or ramps available
6. Optional "High Rise" axle kit for soft ground conditions.	Compare!
7. Models available to fit every individual need, including machines to wrap big square bales. Tanco was first to build a large square bale wrapper, and continues to produce advancements in bale wrapping technology.	Limited product lines.
8. Positive bale positioning: While being wrapped, bales are rotated the exact distance required to obtain optimum coverage.	Competition uses continuous hydraulic advance. Bales can slip or over-rotate giving an uneven wrap.
9. Durability: Tanco's subframe is one of the heaviest of any machines available in North America. The low profile design keeps silage bales closer to the ground with a low center of gravity for stability. Tanco's features are the result of years of experience and input from hundreds of individual, and commercial users.	Competition - Compare!
10. Price: From a basic 3 point Model AW200, to the trailed Model AW400 with automatic cut & start, bale and batch counter, and tractor seat controls, Tanco prices are very competitive. Pay less for more features and durability than any other bale wrapper on the market.	Competition - Compare!

FFA HAPPENINGS

ALEXANDRIA, Va.—Agricultural education and FFA activities help make students more valuable employees and business owners/operators, according to Heather Oberholtzer, 16, of Elizabethtown, state winner in FFA New Horizons magazine's "Up With Agriculture" Writing Contest. Oberholtzer receives $50 as the state winner. The chapter advisor is William Erikson.

More than 1,300 students competed in this year's contest. According to Chad Hammerschmidt, 18, of DeRidder, Louisiana, FFA has been "instrumental in my understanding of land stewardship." Hammerschmidt's essay was chosen as the national first-place winner.

For 16-year-old Lyndy Paske of Lamesa, Texas, FFA and agricultural education develops both independence and interdependence. She cites initiative and teamwork as two skills that FFA has fostered in her.

National third-place winner Katie Rein, 15, of Big Timber, Montana, believes a valuable employee or business owner must possess leadership, responsibility, time management skills, and a cooperative spirit.

Nathaniel Allen found "individual responsibility, initiative, and self-confidence all qualities I have enhanced through my FFA projects." The 18-year-old Ontario, Oregon, resident placed fourth in the national contest.

The "Up With Agriculture" Writing Contest is sponsored by ICI Seeds, Inc., as a special project of the FFA Foundation for FFA New Horizons magazine. FFA New Horizons is the official publication for FFA members who are students of agricultural education.

FFA is a national organization of 428,109 members preparing for leadership and careers in the science, business, and technology of agriculture. The organization has 7,545 local chapters located throughout the United States, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands. FFA's mission is to make a positive difference in the lives of students by developing their potential for premier leadership, personal growth, and career success through agricultural education. Local, state, and national activities and award programs provide opportunities for students to apply knowledge and skills learned in the classroom.

"Agricultural education has helped me to prepare for the future by teaching me teamwork, effective leadership, marketing skills, public speaking skills, and a greater respect for mankind. Agricultural sales and public speaking contests have helped me to learn the steps of marketing while communicating effectively with others. While delivering food boxes and gifts to the needy last Christmas, I gained a deeper respect for all individuals and have learned to ignore the labels placed upon people. I feel agricultural education activities have prepared me to meet many new people and gain confidence to meet the numerous obstacles in my future."—Heather Oberholtzer

Chester County Dairy Milk Lines

Walter Wurster Extension Dairy Agent

WEST CHESTER (Chester Co.) — Penn State University presented a three-day teleconference via satellite in many Pennsylvania counties, including Chester County, in early February.

It was also picked up by several states in the Northeast and Midwest. Local extension agents coordinated the workshops and conducted 14 activity sessions over the three days.

It was an excellent program to educate farmers about the basics and current research in dairy nutrition.

A few of the highlights of the workshop were emphasized several times, and the following points can be helpful to all dairy farmers.

• Your finely tuned, computer-generated dairy nutrition program is only accurate if you or your nutritionist has taken truly representative samples of your forage. Samples should be taken every time hay or silage quality changes. Also, several samples of a particular forage should be taken and mixed together to get a true sample for the lab.

• Be sure you have an accurate determination of the dry matter for each forage. A change of just a couple percent either way can drastically affect the ration balance and, ultimately, milk production, and herd health

• Do you really know how much your cows are actually consuming? Determine accurate weights for each forage that is fed and, most importantly, deduct the amount that is refused. Mixing a TMR for a certain level of intake is fine, if the cows eat all of it. However, if some is refused, the entire ration becomes out of balance.

• When asked what your cows' body weights are, do you automatically say 1,300 pounds? This is another area that affects the ration that is required to reach peak production. If your ration is calculated for a 1,300-pound cow and your average body weight is really 1,400 pounds, your cows are getting short-changed.

• Different rations for different groups. We, in human nutrition, don't eat or need the same nutrition at 10-years-old as we do at 25, or at 60! Cows are similar, with different nutritional needs based on their age and stage of lactation. The ideal setup would be to have separate rations for the following groups: first calf heifers; early dry cows (1 to 40 days); close-up dry cows (two weeks before calving); transitional group (first two weeks after calving); high group for production; middle group for production; low group for production.

If you have 500 cows, you probably can create a system close to this, depending on your facilities. However, for the majority of farms, a high group, low group, and one or two dry cow rations could produce positive returns for production and herd health.

• The dry cow programs on many farms are often neglected, whereas these should be top priority. What the cow does during the next lactation is largely reflected by her care and feeding during the dry period.

These six points can be easily accomplished by all dairy farmers, and the results will be more profit. That is what the business of dairy farming is all about.

Wayne County DHIA Recongizes Member Achievements

HONESDALE (Wayne Co.) — The 68th annual meeting and dinner of the Wayne County affiliate of Pennsylvania DHIA (Pa.DHIA) was held recently at the Bethany Methodist Church Hall, near Honesdale, with about 80 dairymen and their families, plus other dairy industry people in attendance.

David Slusser, general manager for Pa.DHIA, was the featured speaker. His talk was mostly about the recent reorganization of Pa.DHIA, including downsizing total staff, relocating the computer facilities back into the owned laboratory building on Penn State campus, using new lap top computers, and the restructuring and raising of testing fees for member herds.

He also talked about the switch of testing methods by many Pa.DHIA members, going from the traditional twice-per-day, 2X testing to the AM-PM program. This second program is considered very accurate and results with official records for breed testing and production recognition awards, in addition to saving both the member and the association time and money.

John Castrogiovanni, of Montrose, a District 6 director to Pa.DHIA, also spoke during the meeting, and made some brief remarks in review and support of Pa.DHIA.

In its own business, the Wayne County reported 98 herds finishing the affiliations 68th year. Total number of cows on test was 4,747. The average production per cow was 17,214 pounds of milk, 630 pounds of butterfat, and 555 pounds of protein.

The average county cow produced $2,266 in milk income during 1994, and had a total feed cost of $978. Net income over feed cost averaged $1,288 per cow.

The grain to milk ratio was 1:2.6, and the average feed cost per hundredweight of milk was $5.68.

In awards presentations, a number of county-high production recognitions were made.

The high herd for milk production was owned by George and Dave Banicky, or Thompson, with 22,293 pounds of milk. They also were honored for having the herd with the highest averaging protein production, with 712 pounds.

The Rowe Brothers, of Honesdale, were recognized for their herd's production of 941 pounds butterfat per cow. The Rowe Brothers also owned the county's highest butterfat producing cow, Daylight, making 1,349 pounds in a 305-day lactation.

In the improvement awards, the Banickys were honored for having the best production improvement for milk, butterfat and protein, and for their management improvement.

Others receiving recognition include Riverside Farm, owned by Chuck and Amy Theobald, of Waymart, whose cow Pretty made 31,0333 pounds of milk, the highest individual record. Pretty was also recognized for making 963 pounds of protein.

Also, the Theobalds were runnerups in the herd production improvement award for milk and all components.

D. Ellis and Daisy Dix, of Pleasant Mount, were honored for their cow Terry's high lifetime production of milk and butterfat. Terry produced 273,160 pounds of milk and 8,778 pounds of butterfat in 16 lactations.

Jack and Ella Chyle, of Pleasant Mount, were honored for the production of their cow Alice's lifetime production of 7,018 pounds of protein in nine lactations.

Jim and Cindy Grossman, of Honesdale, received a high quality milk award for having the lowest somatic cell count, at 78,000 SCC.

The award for having the herd with the best improvement for protein production went to N. Gary Kravetsky, of Thompson, while the award for having the herd with the best improvement in milk and protein production was presented to Charles Keating Jr., of Lake Ariel.

Keystone Farm Credit Schedules Meetings

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — Keystone Farm Credit's 1995 annual meetings have been scheduled for April 3 - 4.

The Holiday Inn in Lehigh Valley will be the site of the first meeting and Yoder's Restaurant will be the location of the second meeting. Registration will begin at 6 p.m. at both locations with dinner being served at 7 p.m. followed by the business meeting.

Four director positions and seven nominating committee positions will be voted on by the stockholders in attendance. Results of the elections will be available after noon on April 5 by contacting one of the branch offfices. Also, a news release will be issued to announce the results.

Philip Kimmel, president and CEO of Keystone Farm Credit, will give a report on the association's activities and financial status for 1994 and provide a preview of what goals the association has established for 1995. In addition, entertainment will be provided as well as door prizes.

Registration materials will be mailed to each stockholder during March. Stockholders are encouraged to attend the meeting most convenient to them.

MILK AMERICA'S HEALTH KICK

Beekeepers Must Register With State

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture is reminding all beekeepers that they must register their apiaries with the Department.

"The state Agriculture Code has been amended to require apiary registration, no matter how small or large they are," said Jim Steinhauer, the Department's chief apiary inspector. "The registration system is designed to help the bee industry as well as individual beekeepers."

Registration forms have been mailed to all state beekeepers on the Department's current list. If you keep one or more hives of bees and have not yet received a registration form, contact the Department of Agriculture's Apiary Section by telephone, (717) 787-5609, or by mail 2301 North Cameron Street, Harrisburg, PA 17110-9408, to have a form sent to you.

A registration fee of $10 per beekeeper, regardless of the number of apiaries owned, will register the beekeeper for up to two years.

Apiary registration has many benefits. These benefits include an ability to notify beekeepers of potential dangers and benefits to their apiaries, tracking of trends in the distribution of bees, pests and diseases, and an increase in efficiency of the bee inspection program.

The Agriculture Code's amendments also include an increase in fines and penalties for failure to register apiaries.

WHAT CAN YOU DO IF PRV IS ON YOUR FARM?

Robert Graybill, DVM
Veterinary Practitioner
Lancaster, Pa.

Elimination of a disease or diseases has been proven to be one of the most economical methods to reduce the cost of production within a swine unit. Continual vaccinations, additional medication costs, and increased mortality can continue to keep production costs above normal industry levels.

Each herd needs to complete a herd serological profile test to determine which diseases are present and to what extent they are present. With this information, plans can be developed to improve total herd health through adequate vaccination and biosecurity procedures.

Diseases are most commonly spread by pig-to-pig contact. Therefore, disease control begins with dividing groups of animals in all phases of production by utilizing all-in/all-out production by air space.

Equally important, however, is a smooth pig flow. Pigs should never be moved backward within a production system. If this occurs, it presents the opportunity for chronic disease to be transferred from older to younger groups of pigs.

Cleaning and disinfecting pens and buildings between groups greatly reduces the possibility that an organism will build up and be transferred to the next group. Establish a daily work schedule for employees that permits them to work from the younger to the older pigs. Avoid moving from room to room more than necessary. Sanitation is a critical part of herd health security.

Prevention of environmental stress is extremely important, especially this time of year. Evaluate buildings for leaks and seal properly. Check ventilation equipment, since maintenance is cheaper than repair. This is especially true when you consider what environmental stress caused by a mechanical breakdown can do to performance and health care costs.

Another aspect of a good biosecurity program is reducing the risk of disease transmission within the herd. Footbaths cut the threat of health problems moving from room to room and building to building.

The addition of the new improved PRV vaccine has given added protection and control of PRV within the infected herds. Develop a vaccination protocol using periodic herd serology results to determine when and how frequently to utilize vaccine. The response seen in many herds using an adequate vaccination program demonstrates that this is a valuable tool for cleaning up PRV infections within the herd.

Breakdown of progress has been infrequent and is usually associated with excessive stocking density, inadequate ventilation, or failure to utilize adequate pig flow within the production unit. These herds are a small minority but do present a challenge in revising their procedures to ensure success in their eradication programs.

Results seen in the larger herds have been rather successful if proper procedures are followed. This seems to indicate that elimination of PRV can be accomplished in any size herd in Pennsylvania if the producer is willing and determined to see his efforts succeed.

Periodic testing is needed to monitor herd progress. A producer has the option to follow the program through by allowing natural culling to eliminate older positive animals. The procedure can be accelerated by testing and removing positive animals after testing reveals only a small portion of older animals are positive. Thirty days after positive animals are removed, 30 animals or 30 percent, whichever is less, need to be tested at 90-day intervals for a total of three negative tests to remove the infected herd from quarantine.

After a herd has been successfully cleaned up, vaccination and yearly serological monitoring are still recommended in order to insure that infection has not recurred. Area vaccination continues to be important until all herds have been successfully cleaned up.

The past year has seen many herds eliminate PRV and indicates that it can be successfully completed with adequate herd serology, proper vaccination procedures, and proper pig flow. Any producer with solid goals and a program to eliminate PRV or other disease process within a production unit should realize improvement of the economic status of the production unit.

Make Spring Lawn Clean-up A Snap!

McLANE

8 Models Available

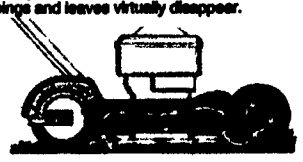
21" MULCHING MOWER

Push and Self Propelled

(Also Available: 21" convertible mower for mulching or bagging)

Engineered like no other lawn mower in the world!

The new McLane mulching mower features a high-lift steel blade and a new deck configuration which create a super vacuum that holds grass blades upright for maximum cutting efficiency. The clippings are forced through a special recirculation chamber and down into the mower path for recutting. This recutting process is repeated over and over again until the clippings are pulverized into a fine mulch. This mulch is then driven deep into the lawn, returning nutrients and moisture to the soil. Grass clippings and leaves virtually disappear.



FEATURES:

- Quick-Release controls assure safe operation
- Single lever cutting height control adjusts instantly
- Variable speed throttle
- 5 HP Quantum Engine

Lancaster Conservation District Hosts Tree Seedling Sale

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.)—With spring just around the corner, it's time for the Lancaster County Conservation District's Annual Tree Seedling Sale.

This year marks the 21st year that the conservation district has been offering seedlings to all landowners to improve their property and help the environment.

The Lancaster County Conservation District is offering a variety of conifer, hardwood, and ornamental seedlings as well as ground covers. Available conifer seedlings include Blue Spruce, Norway Spruce, White Spruce, Douglas Fir, White Pine and Canadian Hemlock. Hardwood seedlings include Sugar Maple, Red Osier Dogwood, Red Oak, White Ash, Manchu Cherry, Pin Oak, White Oak, Winterberry, American Chestnut, Thornless Honey, Kousa Dogwood, Red Azalea, Purple Rhododendrons and Bittersweet, as well as ground covers; Pachysandra, English Ivy, and Myrtle are available.

Order forms are available at the Lancaster County Conservation District Office, Room 6 of the Farm and Home Center, 1383 Arcadia Road, (717) 299-5361. Prepaid orders must be returned by Friday, March 31. Seedlings are picked up at the Kiwanis Lodge in Lancaster County Central Park on Friday, April 21, between the hours of 12 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Penn State Students Capture Beef Bowl

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Four students from Penn State's Department of Dairy and Animal Science won the National Championship Quiz Bowl Competition at a recent meeting of the National Cattlemen's Association in Nashville.

National in scope, the Beef Bowl is co-sponsored by the American Cyanimid Company, Franklin Laboratories, and Fort Dodge Laboratories. Each invited team must first win a similar competition in its own region. The Penn State team represented the Northeast, the University of Wisconsin-River Falls the Midwest, Oklahoma State University the South, and Montana State University the West.

The contest was a round-robin, double-elimination tournament with questions covering all phases of the beef industry. Much like the old television College Bowl, a team had to buzz in to win the right to try answering each question. Questions on genetics and breeding, nutrition, bovine medicine, marketing, and finances challenged the competitors.

The Penn State contingent went undefeated, surpassing Montana State and Oklahoma State in preliminary rounds and beating Wisconsin-River Falls in the finals. A Penn State team previously went undefeated in the 1993 National Cattlemen's Foundation Quiz Bowl contest.

This year's winning team members included four Penn State seniors, Jason Ahola, from Woodstock, Conn.; Jeff Hostetter, from Annville; Ryan Mattocks from Meadville; and Marel Raub from Duncannon. Penn State Block and Bridle Club Advisor Ron Kensinger was the team's coach.

Competitors from all four teams also attended various seminars and programs related to the cattle business, including sessions on the proposed consolidation of the four national beef organizations.

CURRENT COW COSTS

For most herds of beef cows in Pennsylvania, the next few weeks represent the most costly time of the year.

Most spring-calving cows have either already calved or are very close to calving date. Couple this nutritional stress with the fact there is still no grass, and the cost of feeding cows is pretty high.

Recall that at calving, the cow's nutritional needs are at their peak for the entire year. This includes a doubling of protein requirements (from about 1 pound of actual protein per day to about 2 pounds), and the energy needs go up by about 50 percent (and even more if the cow is in poor condition). The cost of feeding these cows is higher because almost all of it will be in stored feed and commercial supplements.

It is also the key time to find ways to lower costs, because there will be more money made in the cattle business in the next few years by lowering costs than by any other factor.

Some of the things to do to help lower current feeding costs:

• Know how much the cow needs of the valuable (costly) nutrients such as energy and protein. There will be little gained by feeding beyond the needs.

• Know the quantity of the valuable (costly) nutrients in the feeds you are using so that feed is not wasted.

• Look hard for alternative sources. This may include food processing by-products or alternative grain feeds. Many of these feeds will work fine, but there may be less convenience than in going to the local feed source and pouring it out of a bag. You will have to decide what convenience is worth to you.

• Sort cows that have different nutritional needs. Cows that are calving later and yearling heifers probably do not need the quality and quantity of feed needed by lactating cows, particularly young cows.

• Be sure the cows are healthy and free of parasites. There is no need to feed costly feed to worms.

• Make sure feeders are sufficient for the job. For grain feeding, it takes about 1 foot of bunk pace per cow. Hay feeders vary widely in the amount of waste that results. For most ring-type feeders for big bales, waste is about 8 percent. The amount of feed you put in the feeder is never the same as the amount of feed the cows actually swallow.

Marketing A Value-Added Feeder Calf

Interest seems to be growing around the state in pooling feeder calves from several sources in an area that can be marketed as a group. This usually implies the calves will all have been handled the same way prior to sale.

I am often asked what is the list of practices that should be used for these calves. The following list should be useful in helping merchandise calves in this manner:

1. All calves have received vaccinations for IBR-BVD-PI3-BRSV, 5 strains of lepto, H. Somnus, and 7-way clostridials. They should be boostered at least 2 weeks before sale. That sounds like a lot of shots, but each round can be given with just 2 needles.
2. Male calves castrated early, preferably with a knife.
3. Heifers guaranteed open.
4. All horns removed early.
5. All calves wormed and deloused.
6. All calves weaned for at least 2 weeks prior to sale. This is the hardest one for many small producers to do. Good health management, good facilities, and good feeding practices are essential in making it work.
7. Providing some accurate estimates of weight.

Some of the other factors that may help:

• Guaranteeing breed composition

• Using only performance-tested bulls as sires

• Implanting with growth promotants

• Providing calving dates and preweaning information.

If you are interested in pooling calves in your area, call your local extension office and let them know. We will be happy to work with breeders who may be interested in working together.

WEANING RESULTS

We have completed the analysis of the weaning trial conducted at Penn State last fall, and the results should be helpful to a good management and marketing program.

In this trial, we were testing whether there was an advantage in performance and health of feeder calves by weaning them early (146 days of age) and returning them to pasture, or weaning them at a more conventional age (200 days of age) and then returning them to pasture for two weeks, or simply weaning and shipping them to a feedlot on the same day.

The calves weaned at 146 days got off to a good start. They had an average daily gain of 1.9 pounds per day for the first 14 days after weaning compared to .98 pounds per day for those weaned at 200 days.

However, it was downhill after that for the early weaned group. Their weaning weights at 7 months of age were about 65 pounds lighter. Even considering lower cow maintenance costs since they were not nursing a calf, this difference in pay weight may be too much.

At about 7½ months of age, all three groups of calves were placed in a feedlot and fed the same pelleted diet for 28 days. Those calves weaned and shipped the same day had the lowest gains (1.66 pounds/day) and the lowest feed conversion (13 pounds of feed/pound of gain.) Somewhat surprisingly, the calves that had been weaned for more than two months did not gain as fast (2.14 pounds/day) as those weaned for only two weeks (2.74 pounds/day).

These results indicate that those who wish to develop a management and marketing plan that includes weaning before sale should consider a relatively short weaning period. While it was not an issue in this trial, a good vaccination program with boosters given ahead of weaning will be an important part of a successful program.

Northumberland District Sets Banquet

SUNBURY (Northumberland Co.) — The Northumberland County Conservation District's annual awards banquet is scheduled for Thursday, March 23, at the Sunbury Social Club starting at 6:30 p.m.

Agriculture economics professor H. Louis Moore from Penn State University will present a program on his experiences in Poland and Russia while assisting with the transition from a centrally planned communist economy to a market oriented economy.

Awards will be presented to groups and individuals for the following categories: Conservation Farmer of the Year, Conservation Teacher of the Year, youth conservation organization, scholarships to students, wildlife conservation, and the conservation district patch to area scouts.

A roast beef dinner will precede the award presentations and entertainment. Tickets for the event are $7.50 each and can be purchased by calling the Northumberland County Conservation District office at (717) 988-4224.

The conservation district also announces they are continuing to take orders in the 1995 tree sale. Buyers can choose from more than 60 varieties of evergreen trees, ground covers, ornamental trees, fruit trees and berry bushes. Most trees and plants are bare root, although several varieties are potted, such as rhododendrons, azaleas, and holly bushes.

Also being sold are flower and vegetable seed packs, wildflower seeds, and fertilizer tablets. Order forms can be obtained by calling the office at (717) 988-4224 or writing to Northumberland County Conservation District, RR 3 Box 238-C, Sunbury, PA 17801.

Following is a list of awards to be presented:

- Conservation Farmer Of The Year - Stanley Crone, Danville.
- Wildlife Conservation Award - Luke Rebuck, Dornsife.
- C.Q. McWilliams Scholarship - Christina Fatz, Lourdes Regional High School, Atlas.
- Conservation Teacher Of The Year - Mrs. Trina Leshinski, Kulpmont Elementary School, Mt. Carmel.
- Swank Scholarship - Douglas M. Klinger - Line Mountain High School, Dalmatia.
- Swank Conservation Youth Org. - Junior Girl Scout Troop 455, St. Michael's Church, Sunbury.
- Conservation District Patch Award - 9 Girl Scouts from Junior Girl Scout Troop 80, Mt. It's Time To Start Transplants

COLLEGE PARK, Md. — At this time of year, it may be tough to think about gardening. However, specialists at the Home and Garden Information Center of the Cooperative Extension Service-University of Maryland at College Park are already thinking ahead and providing information on pertinent topics of the season.

For instance, many gardeners like to get a jump on spring by growing their own vegetable and flower transplants inside. "This is a good way to obtain unusual varieties found only in catalogs," said Ray Bosmans, regional horticulture specialist.

Bosmans recommends starting with a suitable growing medium and plenty of light. Growing mixes made of peat moss, perlite, or vermiculite are ideal. To overcome low-light problems, transplants can be grown under fluorescent lights to supplement or replace natural light. In order to use artificial light effectively, the light fixture should be about two to three inches above the seedlings and left on for 14 to 16 hours per day.

Seeds should be sowed inside about 5 to 6 weeks before the last frost date. "In central Maryland, the last frost date is May 10, and in warmer areas such as Baltimore City and southern Maryland, the date is April 25," said Bosmans. "In Allegany and Garrett counties, frost can occur as late as May 25."

He recommends conditioning the transplants for the outdoor environment by placing them outside on nice days in a semi-shaded location for a week before transplanting.

Maryland residents can get more information on starting transplants and other horticultural subjects from the Home and Garden Information Center at (800) 342-2507. Experts are available to answer questions between 8 a.m. and 1 p.m., Monday through Friday. Recorded information on various horticultural topics can be accessed via touch-tone phone 24 hours a day.

If it were human, they'd test it for steroids.

Massey Ferguson's newest platform tractor — the MF 3120T — delivers 110 horsepower from a turbocharged Perkins 1000 Series engine But you'd swear it was even bigger. That's because the engine's unique Quadram combustion chamber and Dynatorque Power Curve deliver more torque and higher torque backup on less fuel than conventional 110 hp engines.

And when you add in the superior performance of Massey Ferguson's exclusive Economy PTO, Dynashift transmission, and optional true 4WD, you've got one powerful performer So much useable power that the competition can't believe it's real

Stop in and test drive an MF 3120T today and see for yourself

Nutrient-Enriched Crops Could Save Millions Of Poor

WASHINGTON, D.C. - New mineral-enriched varieties of the world's most common food crops could prevent malnutrition and disease in millions of the world's poorest people, international scientists announced.

In a newly launched program, the Consultative Group on International Agricultural Research (CGIAR), Waite Agricultural Research Institute at the University of Adelaide, Australia, the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Plant, Soil, and Nutrition Laboratory at Cornell University, and other research institutes in 12 countries are developing new varieties of crops such as corn, rice, and wheat that will be better at absorbing critical minerals directly from the soil. These crops will perform particularly well on mineral-deficient soils, which are widespread in the developing world.

"This is a low-cost approach to fighting malnutrition that could improve farm productivity and benefit the environment at the same time," said Howarth E. Bouis, director of the CGIAR Micronutrients Project and research fellow at the International Food Policy Research Institute (IFPRI).

Washington, D.C.-based IFPRI coordinates human nutrition research for the 17 centers of the CGIAR.

"Crops such as corn, rice, wheat, beans, and cassava, which are the primary sources of food for the vast majority of the world's poor, lack sufficient amounts of essential vitamins and minerals that prevent disease. The CGIAR Micronutrients Project could have nutrient-enriched crops ready for commercial production within six to ten years."

Such mineral-enriched crops also have been shown to outyield present crop varieties and to require fewer chemical inputs and less irrigation, thuse reducing the costs of growing them and better protecting the environment. These agronomic advantages enhance the chances that they would be adopted by farmers in the developing world. But mineral-enriched crops would also enhance commercial agriculture in the United States and other developed-world countries where mineral-deficient soils are also widespread.

"The research costs for developing mineral-dense varieties can be justified on the basis of the benefits to agricultural productivity alone," said Bouis.

Diets low in essential vitamins and minerals such as iron, iodine, zinc, and vitamin A are prevalent in poor countries. An estimated 2.1 billion people lack sufficient amounts of iron, contributing to anemia in an estimated 1.2 billion people. Anemia affects pregnant women particularly hard and accounts for up to 40 percent of the half-million deaths that occur each year to women giving birth.

The World Health Organization estimates that 125 million preschool children worldwide suffer severe vitamin A deficiency, which can cause permanent blindness. Less severe vitamin A deficiency is associated with high rates of child mortality due to an inability of the immune system to fight off killer diseases such as diarrhea and measles.

Center Accepts Testing Applications

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — The Pennsylvania Dept. of Agriculture's Meat Animal Evaluation Center wishes to announce that applications for Pennsylvania's performance ram testing program are currently being accepted.

Rams eligible for this centralized testing program are purebred rams of any breed born from Sept. 1, 1994, through Feb. 28, 1995. Rams accepted for the performance testing programs will be delivered to the Meat Animal Evaluation Center, State College, April 11.

The rams will be given a one-week adjustment period and then will be weighed on test April 18. This marks the start of an 84-Day testing period. While on test, the rams are weighed every 14 days and reports are generated and distributed at least every other weigh date.

At the conclusion of the testing period , the rams are scanned ultrasonically to determine fat-thickness and loin-eye area. The rams are all examined for breeding, soundness, or structural problems and must meet certain minimum requirements.

After all of the evaluations are completed, approximately the top 75 percent of the rams completing the test will be selected to be offered in Pennsylvania's 17th annual Performance Tested Ram Sale scheduled for Saturday, August 5. The sale is slated for the Ag Arena on the campus of Penn State University.

In conjunction with the ram sale, the center will conduct an Invitational Ewe Sale and The Pennsylvania Sheep and Wool Growers Association is planning a sheep producer's annual field day.

These testing programs and the sales are designed to serve both the producers who participate in the testing programs as well as the livestock producers who purchase seedstock at our sales. These animals are objectively evaluated for economically important traits. This aids producers in making genetic selections of animals that will most closely fill the needs that they have determined to be most important to the genetic improvement of their herds or flocks.

For more information on Pennsylvania's perfomance testing programs, performance-tested sales or to nominate animals to the central testing programs, contact Glenn Eberly, Director, Meat Animal Evaluation Center, 651 Fox Hollow Road, State College, PA 16803, (814) 238-2527.

Bou-Matic Introduces Milk Coolers

MADISON, Wis.—Bou-Matic introduces the Dari-Kool Glacier series milk coolers.

Drawing on its 40 years of expertise, Bou-Matic has re-engineered the Glacier series milk coolers to make them sturdy, reliable, and technologically advanced.

John Brzezinski, Dari-Kool product manager, said "Over the years, experience and technology led us to the design changes that have improved the Dari-Kool line. This is reflected in the new Glacier series."

Bou-Matic has thickened up the evaporator plates so they can withstand up to 25 times a milk cooler's normal operating pressure. And it has added stronger internal components to support the milk cooler even under the most extreme conditions.

With an improved cooling system, the Glacier series guarantees uniform cooling and maintains the high quality of the milk.

Producers To Benefit From Ear Tag Registration

MUNDELEIN, Ill. — This spring, farmers and ranchers will benefit from the availability of a new advancement in insecticide ear tags designed to decrease horn fly resistance and negate the need for ear tag rotation each season.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) recently approved registration for Double Barrel™ Insecticide Ear Tags, to be marketed by Mallinckrodt Veterinary, Inc. for the upcoming season.

"A study recently published by scientists at New Mexico State University supports the efficacy of a mixture of the synthetic pyrethroid and organophosphate insecticide classes in controlling horn flies on beef and non-lactating dairy cattle and calves," said Jeff Meyer, Ph.D., director of parasiticide development at Mallinckrodt Veterinary, Inc.

The unique combination of insecticides in Double Barrel Insecticide Ear Tags reduces the likelihood that horn flies will develop resistance to a single class of insecticide.

"Cattle producers no longer need to worry about which class of insecticide ear tag they used the previous season," Meyer said. "The new Double Barrel Insecticide Ear Tags add a level of convenience to the cattle producer's life in that they do not need to be rotated. They can be used, season after season, with reliable efficacy."

This spring, farmers and ranchers will benefit from the availability of a new advancement in insecticide ear tags designed to decrease horn fly resistance and negate the need for ear tag rotation each season.

In addition to horn flies, Double Barrel Insecticide Ear Tags also control face flies, which are often implicated in the spread of pinkeye, a serious problem in some pasture cattle.

Baler With Accumulator Stacks Bales Two Deep

COLUMBUS, Ind. — The new Claas® Quadrant 1100 large square baler with bale accumulator stacks two bales, on on the other during baling. Stacking bales two deep cuts transport time from the field in half and facilitates double bale wrapping for silage.

The accumulator can be quickly removed from the baler and can be retrofit to Quadrant 1100s already in service. Completely mechanical, the accumulator features a rearview mirror for checking functions and audible/visible alarms that signal in the event of a malfunction.

Fixed to the Quadrant 1100 flexibly, the accumulator adjusts to the terrain and reverses easily. The accumulator's wheels swivel and feature a light braking effect which stops them from wandering at speeds up to 25 mph.

The new Claas® Quadrant 1100 large square baler with bale accumulator stacks two bales, one on the other during baling. Stacking bales two deep cuts transport time from the field in half and facilitates double bale wrapping for silage.

The Quadrant 1100 is ideal for medium and large size dairy and feed operations and produces 31.5 inches wide x 19.5-inch deep bales. Bale length is adjustable from 27.5 inches to 78.5 inches.

The large bales can be efficiently handled, stacked and transported by any available vehicle. Once twine is removed, the bales divide easily into flakes, simplifying feeding and bedding. When stacked and covered, the bales create an airtight package that ensures excellent fermentation.

Dekalb, Community College Win Partnership Award

TOPEKA, Kan. — Dekalb Swine Breeders, Inc. and Seward County Community College have been awarded the 1994 Kansas Business/School Partnership Award by the Kansas Chamber of Commerce and Industry. The award is based on innovative business and school partnerships designed to enhance the educational opportunities for high school graduates.

The Business/School Partnership Award is given annually to a Kansas firm and an educational institution that have fostered a special or unique business/school partnership. In accepting the award, Dekalb Swine Breeders' President Roy Poage said, "We hope this partnership becomes a model to eliminate the shortage of employees in the swine industry and prepare more students for rewarding careers in the swine industry."

Seward County Community College, under the direction of college administrators, the Agriculture Department and the Business Division, developed the two-year program with Dekalb President Roy Poage, DeKalb, Ill., and Vice President of Production Doug Jewell, Plains, Kan., to provide entry-level employees with both animal husbandry and management skills. Students have the opportunity to receive a two-year associate in applied science degree with two years of part-time experience in sophisticated swine production facilities.

The college provides facilities and faculty for courses in management, science and agriculture. Dekalb provides training personnel, classrooms, and laboratories so students can experience swine production first-hand. Dekalb's veterinarians, trainers and management personnel provide instruction during the student internship at Dekalb's production facilities.

The Kansas Chamber of Commerce and Industry awarded Dekalb Swine Breeders, Inc. and Seward County Community College the 1994 Kansas Business Partnership Award. The award was given for the development and implemantation of an innovative business and school partnership that provides college educational opportunities for high school graduates. Shown accepting the award for Dekalb are, left to right, Jackie Long and Ben Standard, training managers; Doug Jewell, vice president of production; Roy Poage, president and for SCCC, Dr. James Grote, president.

Graduates have an opportunity to begin their careers with Dekalb or they can seek employment with other companies. College and Dekalb staff assist graduates in locating job opportunities. Demand for the graduates is intense because of the unique combination of college education and training with Dekalb Swine Breeders offered by this program.

Jackie Long and Ben Standard, Dekalb's full-time program trainers, assist Mike Schwab, coordinator of the program, in the promotion, recruitment and supervision of students. Now in its fourth year, the program has attracted students from Kansas, Oklahoma, Nevada, Pennsylvania, and Indiana.

Lagoon Pumps Agitate Any Size Pit

FORT ATKINSON, Wis. — A powerful new line of liquid manure lagoon pumps is being introduced by Van Dale.

The new Series 5000 Lagoon Pumps are built with strength, power, and reliability to quickly and completely agitate any size liquid manure pit or lagoon. Van Dale research has shown that speed of agitation in lagoons and manure pits is as important to their customers as pumping power. Three new models of the Series 5000 line are available with capabilities of operating in everything from shallow straight wall pits to the deepest sloped wall lagoon.

The new Series 5000 Lagoon Pumps are built with strength, power, and reliability to quickly and completely agitate any size liquid manure pit or lagoon.

The Series 5000 Trailer Lagoon Pumps are available in 32-foot and 42-foot lengths and feature 68 inches ground clearance for easy transport around pits and over lagoon banks. They are excellent at breaking up hard crust and surface or bottom manure solids. With up to 5,000 gallons per minute capacity, it can easily blast a stream of manure 100 feet or more to create an easy to pump and spread slurry.

The Series 5000 features twin stabilizer legs and wide-stance tires for stability and to counterbalance side agitation thrust. They also feature remote controls that are easy to operate from the tractor seat and an aggressive high pressure impeller and tapered agitation nozzle that allows for 120° vertical movement and 340° horizontal agitation control. The shredder plate housing includes a special baffle inside for increased pressure when using lower hp tractors. PTO operates at 540 rpm.

Grower Meetings Look To Future

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — Moyer & Son, Inc.'s Plant Nutrients group recently held growers' meetings at the Keystone Fire Company in Boyertown, Meyers Family Restaurant in Quakertown, and Yoder's Restaurant in New Holland.

Attended by more than 650 area farmers, these meetings covered many diverse topics of interest to farm professionals, including grain marketing strategies, worker protection standards, and pesticide safety and weed control strategies. All of the topics discussed addressed immediate concerns facing farmers and effective strategies for remaining profitable throughout the '90s.

"While the basics of efficient crop production remain fairly unchanged, the business of farming is always facing new challenges,

PLANNING FOR 1995 FEED STORAGE... WILTED HAY...SILAGE...HI-MOISTURE GRAINS

"The major costs on dairy and livestock farms are related to FEED: production - harvesting - storage - purchases - delivery to animals."

Significant savings in time and money are possible when you store and deliver your forage from a poured concrete silo, equipped with a Big Jim Distributor/ Unloader.

Protect your valuable forages from rain, sleet, snow, mud, ice and wind. Reduce the stress! Increase the efficiency of your feeds, labor, and livestock.

At SOLLENBERGER SILOS CORP. we know a lot about feed storage and handling... we've been in the business since 1908. If you are thinking about new or additional feed storage, give us a call. We'd like to contribute to your success.

EARLY ORDER DISCOUNT
CENTERLINE BIG BAGGER
7' - 8' - 9' 10' Diameter

Design Permits Bagging Twice as Fast as other Models

Puts up to 15% more in the bag than bottom-pack units

Features...
- Wheels and tongue rotate to travel position
- Self-cleaning tunnel
- Cable up to 250'
- Rust-free chrome disc mechanical brake
- 540 or 1,000 rpm PTO • No hydraulics
- Mounted engines available
- Oil bath gearbox and drive chain
- #160 roller chain main rotor drive
- Safety first, V-belt-driven conveyor for side feeding. Front-load hopper available.
- Tongue centered for close bag spacing and road travel
- Up to 12' diameter by special order

What users report...
- "Produces a more even pack"
- "Up to 15% more feed in a bag"
- "Handles material with greater percentage of moisture"
- "Virtually eliminates 'juicing up' - as is experienced with bagging machines with rotors low to the ground to provide ground clearance"
- "Higher quality feed due to more even pack"
- "Machines with low mounted rotors must pack feedstuffs actually too tight in the lower area in order to get enough force to fill the bag at the top of the tunnel."
- "With a more even pack it's easier to remove the feedstuffs from the bag."

Silage Bags
- Triex Bonded Bags - White & Black
- Triex Bonded white 7', 8', 9', 10', 11' & 12 bags; length available 100'-275. Available w/24 months, 12 mo., and 90 day warranty
- Trench & Pit Covers
- Our silage bags fit all make machines

Rural Economy

Build with Centurydrain roofing and siding and you've built a money-wise structure. Full-hard, high tensile galvanized steel, and an exclusive drain channel for a dry interior give you a building that'll handle years of hard duty and hard weather. Good looking, too. Crisp lines and plenty of bright, long-lasting colors make Wheeling Centurydrain as handsome as it is economical.

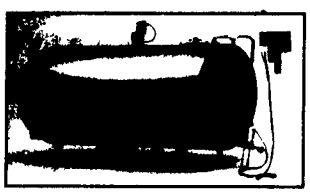
And...

MUELLER DAIRY FARM EQUIPMENT

Offer

Scroll-Compressor Technology
New in 1994



You may pay less for some dairy farm equipment... but it can cost you more!

Equipment costs are not the only cost of cooling milk.

In the long run, total operating costs of a Mueller milk-cooling system are generally substantially less than those of "bargain-brand" milk-cooling equipment.

Example	Mueller	Competition
Cost of equipment	$31 000	$28 000
Cost of electricity @ 08 kW for 12 000 lbs milk day for 10 years	$17 550	$22 850
Total operating cost for ten years	$48 550	$50 850
Savings	$ 2 300

PENNSYLVANIA'S 22ND PERFORMANCE TESTED BULL SALE

FRIDAY, MARCH 31, 1995
AT PENN STATE'S AG ARENA
Only the top bulls from the respective herds were put on test. They are fully evaluated for ADG on test, lifetime WDA, adjusted 205- and 365-day weights. The bulls are ultrasonically scanned for backfat thickness and loin-eye area and are given a complete breeding soundness and semen exam. The bulls will have health papers to go anywhere. After the evaluation, the top two-thirds of the bulls will be offered. In the past, these bulls have been real herd-improving bargains. Current EPD's will be available.

P.C.A.'s Annual Meeting and Banquet following bull sale.

LLAMAS LLAMAS LLAMAS

If you've been considering starting in llamas, or having a llama for a pet, why not stop in to see our herd.

Our young males start at $500, our weanling females at $2,500, our pregnant females at-$3,500. A deposit will hold any of our crias (baby llamas) for you.

All of our llamas are registered with the International Llama Registry. Some of the finest wool and blood lines can be found in our herd, including Otter Creek Harold.

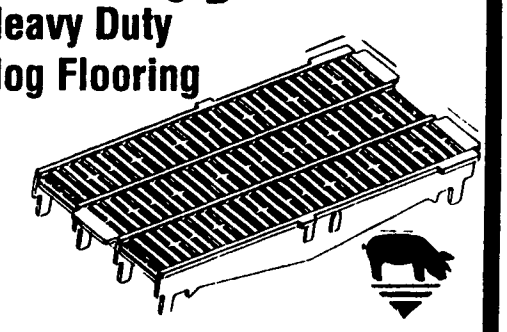
☑ CHECK OUT Polygrate™

Heavy Duty Hog Flooring



Time Tested and Proven
This style of POLYGRATE was first introduced in 1981. Over the years Farocx has continued to refine this product. POLYGRATE is one of only a few "World Class" floors that has stood this test of time.

Outstanding Traction
POLYGRATE'S unique "high-low" finger design provides outstanding traction for pigs of all sizes, while enhancing safety and comfort.

- POLYGRATE'S rounded corners minimize injuries. The edges are beveled providing a smoother, safer surface that promotes comfort, too.

What Does This All Add Up To?

- More piglets survive until weaning
- Less splay/spraddle leg problems
- Heavier piglets at weaning
- Better conditioned sows at weaning

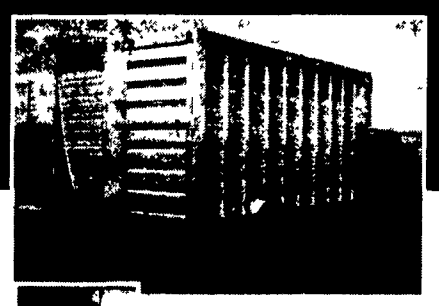
Agriculture Moves on EBY Bodies



M.H. Eby custom-builds aluminum truck bodies for the agri-transportation market. Nobody offers more sizes and options in:

- LIVESTOCK BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of heights and widths.
- GRAIN BODIES - Lengths to 24'; landscape and general purpose dumps to 12'.
- FLATBED BODIES - Lengths to 32', choice of 5 widths.

For greater payload capacity, Eby's aluminum design is equal in strength to steel and up to 40% lighter. Our corrosion-resistant components never need painting. That means minimum maintenance, improved appearance and higher resale value.

Eby products have superior standard features. And we offer custom options for virtually any application. Agriculture is your business- building bodies to haul it is ours.

Let EBY custom build one for you.

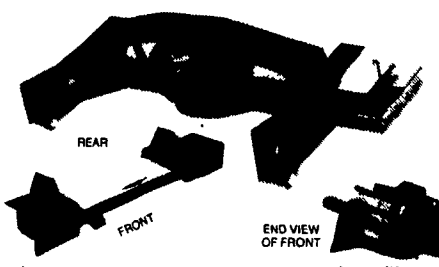
KELDERMAN AIR RIDE

SMOOTH



SMOOTH

Adding a Kelderman Air Ride Conversion system to your present suspension will result in a two stage suspension system. This is not to be confused with adding an Air bag mounted above the axle. Allows adding extra spring leafs to increase load rating and still maintain Air-Ride comfort.

The bolt on basic package utilizes an air stem mounted in a convenient location to add or remove air from the system

Also available for some Ford, Chevy and GMC truck models. Special orders available for most motor homes This option will smooth out the ride on those rough-road fishing/camping trips.

Super All Traction 23°

R-1

- New top-of-line bias-ply tractor rear, featuring our long bar/long bar design for tread stability, and heavy bar bracing to extend tread life.
- Long wearing and smooth riding, due to the more uniform, flatter contour of the long bar/long bar design.
- Proven 23° bar angle for traction and open center for self-cleaning.
- Bead and rim protector shields the rim to help keep stubble and soil from getting between the bead and rim flange.

MULCH LAYER

For Quick, Easy Application of Plastic Mulch

MODEL 90 LAYING PLASTIC MULCH SMOOTHLY AND TIGHTLY

- The most fully adjustable and free floating mulch layer on the market. Side arms can float independently, but yet are tied together for added strength. The roll of mulch can also float with the contour of the ground.
- Large (5.70x8) gauge wheels control depth and give smooth operation in all soil conditions.
- All new toolbar system allows for easy adjustment of all parts by simply moving the clamps.
- Two sets of large 14" disc blades. One set opens the furrow for the mulch and the second set covers the mulch evenly.

The Mulch Layer Adjusts To Any Width Up To 6 Feet

Westfield grain augers are built right, from the ground up. They're designed and engineered to be tough, durable and dependable – by people whose only business is augers

Westfield offers a choice of several electric gas or PTO drive styles (SD Model shown) in lengths from 26 to 71 feet and diameters of 6, 7, 8 and 10 inches

Our new MK Series in 8, 10 and 13 inch models feature a simple PTO driven internal mechanical drive – powering both the main auger and intake swing hopper – plus a labour-saving hydraulic lift – to make light work of grain handling chores

1995 Dairy Of Distinction Farms Sought

Kingston (Luzerne Co.) — Do you take pride in maintaining your dairy farm? Does your dairy farm project an attractive, wholesome image to consumers? If so, the Dairy Of Distinction Program of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania will consider your farm for the program's annual recognition awards.

The Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program was first started in 1983 to recognize the hard work and dedication of the farmers who maintain attractive farms. The purpose of the program is to instill a greater sense of confidence in the wholesomeness of dairy products, and increase their sales.

Farms that apply are judged on the roadside appearance of buildings, grounds, and surroundings, since this is what our dairy product consumers observe as they drive by. The cleanliness of the barnyard, feed areas and manure management are other aspects of the farm operation taken into consideration. Roadside judging is conducted during the month of May. Former winners of past years are also rejudged to ensure they continue to meet the standards of excellence.

To qualify for consideration, you must be actively dairy farming and shipping milk. Applications are available from your state secretary, Pennsylvania: Paul Nichols, American Dairy Association and Dairy Council, Inc., 239 Schuyler Avenue, Box 5 , Kingston, Pa. 18704, (717) 283-2204, New York: Carol Weddle, N.Y. Holstein Association, 957 Mitchell Street, Ithaca N.Y. 14851, (607) 273-7591, or New Jersey: August Knispel, R.D. 1, Box 325, Pittstown, New Jersey 08867, (201) 735-4989. All applications muse be completed and returned by April 15th, 1995.

The Dairy of Distinction program is financed in Pennsylvania by Dairy Farmers through the American Dairy Association Dairy Council and Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program, plus Agribusiness organizations. The Pennsylvania Dairy Of Distinction Program is conducted with advice and help by Penn State cooperative extension.

Application

PURPOSE OF PROGRAM

Attractive dairy farms give the consumer greater confidence in the wholesomeness of milk and stimulate milk sales which encourages public support for the dairy industry. The award gives recognition to the dairy farmer for maintaining a well-kept farmstead.

ELIGIBILITY

All Northeast dairy farms producing milk for sale are invited to make application for the award. Dairies receiving the 10 highest scores in each of the 91 districts will receive an 18" x 24" Dairy of Distinction sign to be displayed in front of their farm.

HOW IS YOUR FARM SCORED?

Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Program, Inc.

Awards will be based upon neatness, good maintenance and other factors which can be controlled by the farmer. Attractive background scenery should not be weighed heavily in judging. All judging observations should be made from a vehicle at one or more points on an adjacent public highway (or if farm is off the road, the nearest lane). Judging should give equal consideration to old wood construction and new construction of metal or concrete block.

The award program may be used for subsequent advertising or promotion activities for dairy products or dairy farming. Farmers who apply for awards agree that; if selected they will cooperate with these activities and make all reasonable efforts to maintain both the exterior and interior of their properties in an acceptable condition.

HOW THE APPLICATION WORKS

The owner or operator of the dairy farm should sign the application and send it to NEDFBP secretary by April 15.

HOW THE JUDGING WORKS

Judging teams will visit farms during the month of May. Farms will be judged each year as the award is presented on an annual basis. Any dairy failing to maintain appearance standards will be asked to remove their sign. The Dairy of Distinction signs remain the property of the committee, not the property of the dairy farmer. All farms must achieve a compliance score of 90 percent on their Dairy of Distinction score card. Your cooperative or milk handler will be contacted to approve your milk quality.

RULES FOR THE DAIRY OF DISTINCTION AWARD

1). The Dairy of Distinction sign remains the property of the Northeast Dairy Farm Beautification Committee.
2). The post and bracket shall be supplied by and maintained by the dairy farmer. It is suggested that a wood post 4' x 4' x 12' or iron pipe 2' x 12' be used. Posts or pipe should be installed and maintained in true vertical position with 8' above ground. Top of the bracket shou'd be lower than six inches from the top of the post.
3). Sign shall be displayed in front of the dairy at roadside. An attractive post and bracket, or other frame, shall be used to display the sign. No more than three signs should be displayed from the sign frame or post, and all shall be of a style, general size and quality comparable to the Dairy of Distinction sign. Sign should be secured on all sides to avoid wind damage.
4). Signs shall not be moved to other premises. New owners of a Dairy of Distinction farm must apply to retain the sign.
5). Replacement of damaged signs shall be the discretion of the committee.
6). No producer shall be charged with scoring or sign expense.
7). Judges' decisions will be final.
8). Judging will take place between May 1st and May 31st.
9). Farms awarded a Dairy of Distinction sign in previous years will be judged between April 1st and April 30th. If they do not qualify, they will be rejudged between May 1st and May 31st so they have the opportunity to keep the sign.
10). Farms that do not requalify will return the sign to their regional Dairy of Distinction Committee.

Binkley & Hurst Bros, Inc. Has A New Packer For You At Factory Direct Prices

Levels Firms Seals

Farmhand WingPackers break clods, level seedbeds....then gently firm the soil to reduce air pockets and seal in moisture. Flat fold WingPackers range from 19' to 36' wide. Behind a disk harrow or field cultivator, they're an ideal final tool before planting. Behind a drill, they gently but firmly pack soil to increase seed-to-soil contact, improving germination for even field stands.

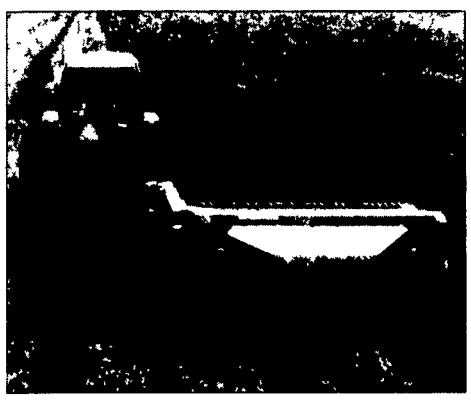
FULL-FEATURED PERFORMER



The Case International 8340 mower conditioner offers you features in a 9 foot plus cutting width that you'd only expect to find as options, or on a larger more expensive machine.

Features like a heavy box-beam frame and tongue that you hydraulically position from the tractor. Quickly steer around field obstacles or switch between field and transport positions. Low maintenance describes the 1700-stroke per minute sickle. Sickle sections bolt-on for quick and convenient replacement.

And there are even more features that make the Case International 8340 a truly deluxe high performance mower conditioner. Stop in and see them all.

Also 12' swing frame & self propelled machines in stock. Don't wait, save by seeing Binkley & Hurst before March 31.

If Your Haymaking Operation Could Use More Speed Count On Binkley & Hurst Bros. For Spring Delivery On The Latest In High Speed Mowing Technology The NEW Proven Model 8550 Case IH Self Propelled 15 Foot Disc Mower Conditioner

Double productivity with this new windrower from Case IH. This 8850 High Performance Self-propelled Windrower is the first of its kind to incorporate disc mower technology, which can more than double productivity compared to traditional sickle-bar machines.

Features include:
- turbocharged six-cylinder, 5.9 liter Case engine
- entire header, including disc cutting mechanism and hay conditioner, is driven by two separate hydraulic motors
- cuts to 15 feet three inches

Binkley & Hurst Has Quality Case IH Balers Which Pull Easier & Allow Horses To Walk On Either Side Of Windrow.

Mesh Wrap Attachment

Studies have shown that losses from handling and spoilage for a round bale stored outside can be as high as 30% more for a twine-wrapped bale as opposed to a bale wrapped with mesh Mesh wrap serves as a barrier to moisture absorption As a result quality losses resulting from decomposition are reduced

Mesh wrap also reduces losses during bale handling and transporting And because fewer turns are needed when wrapping versus tying with dual twine arms (2 to 2 5 wraps vs 10 to 15 turns), there is significant savings in the time required to finish a bale

The optional mesh wrap is available as a field attachment for the following round balers
- 8455 Tractor Hydraulic
- 8465 Tractor Hydraulic
- 8465 AUTOMATIC
- 8460 after PIN CFH0057418

STRAIGHT TALK ABOUT FASTER BALING

Uniquely Designed Case International Balers Put Crop Quality Into Every Bale

This Baler Can Save Thousands Of Dollars With Increased Milk Production In Greatly Reduced Leaf Loss Obtained With Our Direct Feed Crop Flow System (Unbiased Testing Has Proven The Facts)

Your Best Buy in Balers is

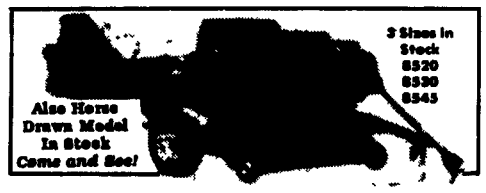
The Baler That Works!



WHY STRAIGHT IS BETTER THAN SIDEWAYS . . .

Reason #1 Transport width ranges from 7'11" to only 8'88" on our 8550 Model. Conventional balers are generally 1-foot wider in transport

Reason #2 No need to widen our baler out once you're in the field or narrowing when leaving the field The conventional baler must be narrowed and widened Reduced time and effort means money.

Reason #3 Never a need to pick up bales when opening a field and cropping them on the ground — you can even leave the bale thrower on and drop the back chute Since the baler and tractor straddles the windrow, the bales dropped on the ground from previous rounds never interferes with the operation

Reason #4 Gauge wheels are mounted on both sides for better performance Not so with conventional balers

Reason #5 Our pickup is half the height of conventional balers This means less leaves are lost because less travel distance up and over the pickup is required An optional hydraulic pickup lift is even available

Reason #6 Conventional balers use high maintenance cross feeders or sweep arms to move hay to the chamber Our baler feeds hay from the pickup straight into the chamber by the use of a simple stuffer mechanism Leaves don t fall to the bottom of the chamber and later fall out the back Due to our design, leaves are placed evenly throughout the bale — the leaves are not given time to settle to the bottom

Reason #7 Due to our design, our plunger stroke distance is 25 30% less than conventional balers Example John Deere 327, 337, 347 and 467 Models = 30 stroke, Case IH 8520 = 21 6 stroke and a high of 23 on our 8550 The result Less wear, less side to side stress force and less repairs!

Reason #8 The clearance of our needles from the ground far exceeds conventional balers due to the high position of our chamber This translates to less breakage and bending of the needles due to hitting high places in the field, etc

Reason #9 We have equal baler weight distribution on both carrying wheels for easier handling and less side pull on hills

Reason #10 The distance from the end of our bale chamber to the thrower belts is enough so that the thrower doesn t fight the bale, i e , the bale is not still wedged in the chamber when the thrower first contacts the bale

Reason #11 Our bale edges are sharp and corners are square on all types of hay - excellent when stackers are used or hay is hauled by truck

Reason #12 Proven and reliable Deering type knotters on all center line balers

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Has A Line Of Quality U-Type Gehl Scavenger Spreaders In Stock For Immediate Delivery

MANURE SPREADERS
When it comes to hauling manure, Gehl has a spreader that will fit your operation. Box spreader? Gehl's got 'em with a full line of spreaders in just the right size for your needs, from 135 to 425 bushel capacities. And they're backed by one of the best warranties in the industry, 10 years on sides and floors.
How about a spreader that will handle "everything"? Gehl's Scavenger® II will take on any challenge you can give it. Liquid, semi-solid, pen packed, even frozen. The Gehl Scavanger® II will do the work of two spreaders for the price of one...all year 'round.
If you're in the market for a spreader, now's the time to see your Gehl Dealer. They'll pass your toughest acid test with flying colors.

GEHL Box Spreaders

Binkley & Hurst Bros. Has A Quality Gehl Spreader In Stock And Ready For Use Now At Economical Pricing!

Low profile design means easy loading by skid loader, front end loader or barn cleaner

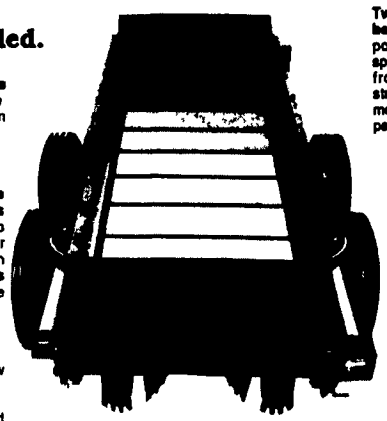
Double Galvanized steel sides are corrosion resistant for long life One-piece seamless construction won't catch material or leak

Gehl-Tuff Flooring prevents the apron from freezing to the floor allowing manure to slide out with little resistance Less apron pull means less wear and tear on drives and apron chains One piece construction won t flex under heavy loads

Optional hydraulic endgate rests in front of the beater paddles to secure sloppy loads and keep heaped material out of the beater unit you're ready to spread An available litter pan reduces spills in the yard or roadway while enhancing the spread distribution

Extra-strong, T-bar apron chains with an average tensile strength of over 23,500 pounds keep the biggest loads moving

Oscillating tandem wheels allow faster ground speeds while providing greater flotation They re standard on the 325 bushel and 425 bushel models and optional on the 250-bushel model



Twelve extra wide one-piece beater paddles are symmetrically positioned for broad, uniform spreads Paddles are fabricated from tough, 1/4" thick high strength steel Bolt-on replacement tips are available to extend paddle life

Constant velocity pto for continuous, smooth, chatter-free power transfer when spreading on turns and reduced stress on the entire drive line

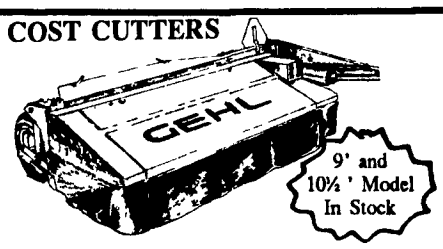
COST CUTTERS



Gehl has two all new disc mower conditioners to cut your crop down to size, fast and easy. The DC2340 has 7 discs and a 9 foot cutting width, the DC2360 has 8 discs, and a 10½ foot cutting width.
— Standard hydraulic tongue Makes it easy to position the unit without leaving the tractor seat

— High speed discs — Each disc has two knives to slice through the toughest crops and conditions the disc gear drive operates in an oil bath for long life.

— Sturdy frame — Cradles the cutterbar for extra protection and durability

— 540 and 1000 rpm driveline with equal-angle hitch for smooth power transfer.

GEHL

A sturdy cutterbar support frame extends beneath the entire cutterbar. This design shields the cutterbar from direct impact with rocks or other field obstructions.

- ☐ Standard highway light package
- ☐ Optional folding 18-inch conveyor extension

GEHL

Most Mix-All owners will never buy another.

Model MX125 And Model MX170 In Stock

In fact, you'd probably have a hard time convincing Gehl Mix-All® owners to even look at anything else And why should they?
The Mix-All's big 21-inch wide hammermill features 66 reversible thin hammers that cut, rather than pound the feed to deliver a more consistent grind and ensure uniform mixing for a better feed conversion rate
Gehl's self-contained hydraulic system is designed-in, not added on. It provides the precision of infinitely variable in-feed attachment control to match tractor power for greater grinding capacity. Plus you get fast, smooth, trouble-free unloading with greater reliability
And a wide variety of options and attachments lets you customize your Mix-All to fit any operation.

TENDERNESS

Bulk-handling systems were developed for one primary reason: greater efficiency in larger operations. But sometimes, bulk-handling can mean rough-handling

That's why Binkley & Hurst is your one-stop source for a complete line of bulk-handling equipment that treats seed and grain with kid gloves. Our unique auger with brush-flighting, for example, is ideal for movement of beans and other delicate seeds The compact bristles produce a gentle sweeping action at the flight edge which smoothly conveys seed into the planter and limits varietal contamination.

Brush-flighting is also available as an option on Unverferth's 6-inch truck and grain box augers that serve your planting and harvesting needs

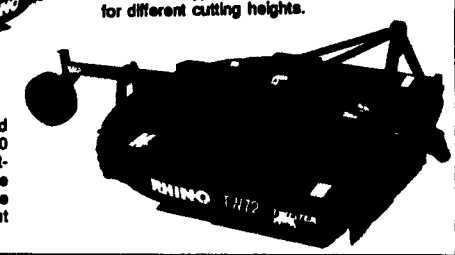
TWISTER

TW60

The TW60 mows a full 5' swath and is available in 540 RPM and three-point lift. The TW60 requires only a 30 HP tractor (with adequate front weight) to save on operating costs. The tail-wheel beam of the TW60, 72, and 84 lift-type cutters are easily adjustable for different cutting heights.



TW72

The TW72 mows a 6' swath of material and can be operated on a tractor as small as 40 HP (with adequate front weight). The floating top linkage of the "A" Frame allows the TW cutters to follow the contour of the ground in rough conditions without damange to the hitch.

Unverferth Snap-Ons: more of what you're looking for Ductile iron clamps feature an innovative foot design which eliminates bending and loosening of the components by applying the support load to the rim rather than to the rail.

Heat-treated, epoxy-coated steel attaching hooks are corrosion-resistant and virtually indestructible

NO-TIL GRAIN DRILL SPECIALISTS

Building NO-TIL DRILLS Since 1982

FEATURING Parallel Linkage, Double Disc Openers
GREAT PLAINS Drills Put Seeds Where You Want It -
But The LITTLE THINGS Make the Difference!

1 SPEED-CHANGE GEARBOX makes seeding rate changes easier

2 FLUTED SEED CUPS - a Great Plains exclusive - deliver outstanding accuracy. Whether the seed you're drilling is small, large or fragile, the Great Plains time-proven metering system will deliver the rate you choose evenly and gently - without scuffing.

3 DIAL-A-DEPTH system makes changing planting depth quick & easy

4 LARGE ALL-WELDED SEEDBOX holds up to 3 bushels per foot. The lid is rain tight to protect your seed.

Westfield Auger

WE BUILD AUGERS... AND WE BUILD'EM RIGHT.

Westfield grain augers are built right from the ground up. They're designed and engineered to be tough, durable and dependable – by people whose only business is augers.

Westfield offers a choice of several electric, gas or PTO drive styles (SD Model shown) in lengths from 26 to 71 feet and diameters of 6, 7, 8 and 10 inches.

Our new MK Series in 8, 10 and 13 inch models feature a simple PTO driven internal mechanical drive – powering both the main auger and intake swing hopper – plus a labour saving hydraulic lift – to make light work of grain handling chores.

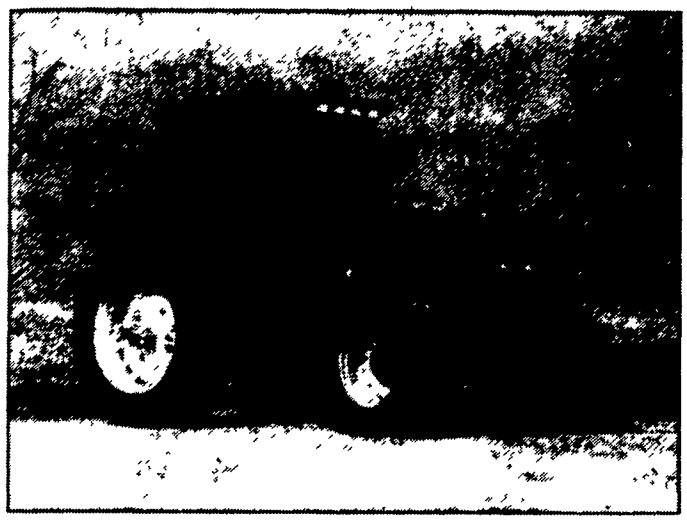
For The Way You Farm Today

Fingertip Powershift Control, Improved Field Visibility and The Most Comfortable Cab Ever



AGCO ALLIS
For the way you farm today

Model 9650
147 PTO HP (109.7 kW)
In Stock Ready For Delivery

With their new 18x9 speed full powershift transmissions that electronically control the engagement of massive gears with just the tap of a hand... their cab-forward design that permits a clear, unobstructed view of the field in all directions... and their roomy, comfortable cabs, that feature a unique swivel, air-ride seat and an exclusive seat-mounted control console, the new 9600 Series tractors are clearly ahead of the time.

Every component — from the sleek, sloping hood, to the rugged, cast-iron mainframe to the world-proven air-cooled diesel engines, that require less maintenance — has been designed to match the way you farm today. The result is greater comfort, better performance and improved productivity.

Compare the features and specifications for yourself. Better yet, stop by BHM Farm Equipment soon and try out the 9650 model for yourself. You have to drive it to believe it.

The CLAAS® Quadrant 1200 Square Baler -

The New Standard Equipment For Commercial Operators!

Yes, the Quadrant 1200 delivers the density commercial operators want. Yes, its bales inhibit spoilage by keeping the air out. Yes, they preserve quality because they minimize nutrient loss.

The 1200 also offers the high production capacities you demand. Its 4 ft x 2-1/4 ft x up to 8 ft long bales effectively increase storage space and dramatically increase transport capacities—all at a high productivity rate. And you know what this means to your bottom line.

CLAAS's shaft-driven knotters have earned a worldwide reputation for reliability and low maintenance. Other notable features are its 3-stage pre-chamber, 78" wide pickup, powerful transmission, heavy-duty worm gear, 1000rpm pto, hydraulic density control, capacity for up to 24 balls of sisal or plastic twine, and of course 6 dependable CLAAS shaft-driven knotters.

Production capacity. Convenient handling and storage. Economical transport. Density and quality. A better bottom line.

For more information about the Quadrant and how it can meet your commercial needs, contact the CLAAS dealer listed below.

Badger®

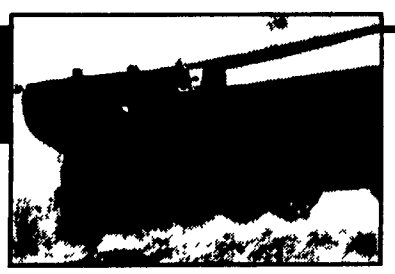
BN2610 Ring Drive FROST BUSTER



When it comes to cold weather performance, Badger's FROST BUSTERS are unsurpassed by any other silo unloader. They are the heavyweight division champions for cutting through and delivering frozen, hard-packed silage. They thrive in conditions that would send most others packing. That's why they're called FROST BUSTERS. From the tough chipper wheel to the spout, the FROST BUSTER won't let you down. The BN2610 is available as a Ring Drive or Pack Drive model. The FROST BUSTER....make it your unloader.

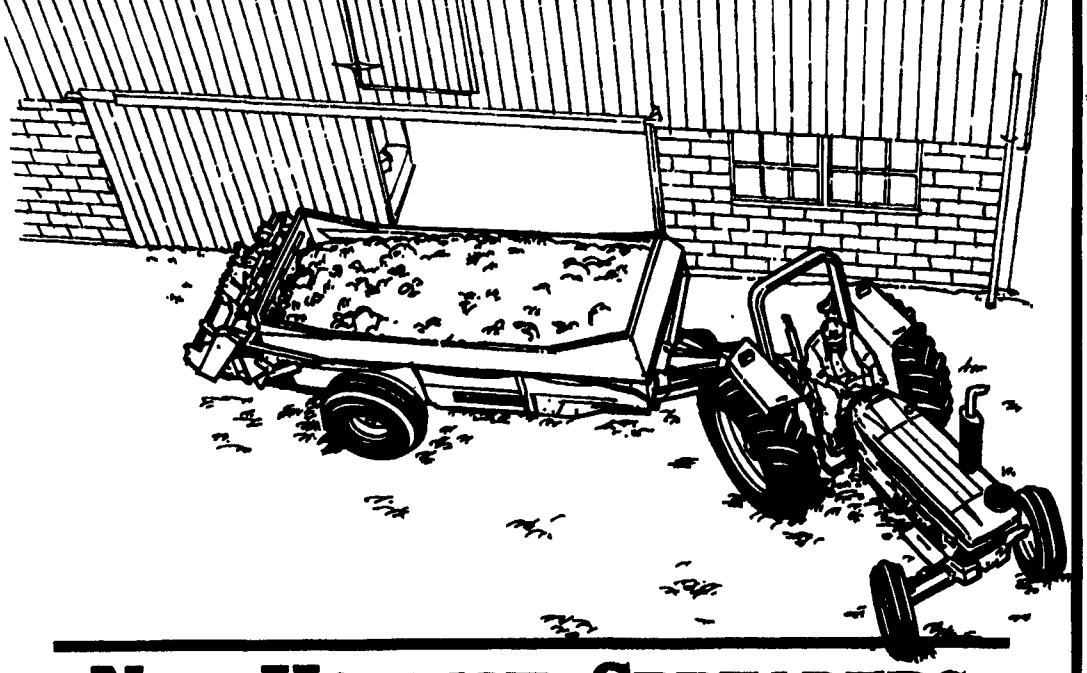
PEACE OF MIND



NEW HOLLAND SPREADERS 12-YEAR PROTECTION PLAN

Most guarantees last only as long as the original owner. But New Holland Bonded Protection means our entire line of box spreaders is guaranteed not just to the first owner, but to all future owners.

Bonded Protection covers every box spreader's floor and sides for twelve years. If a floorboard fails for any reason during normal use, or the sides rust through, we'll replace them free.

Free Financing Waiver On New Spreaders Until January 1, 1996

Mon. Thru Fri. 8:00 AM to 5:00 PM; Sat. 8:00-12:00 Evening by Appt.

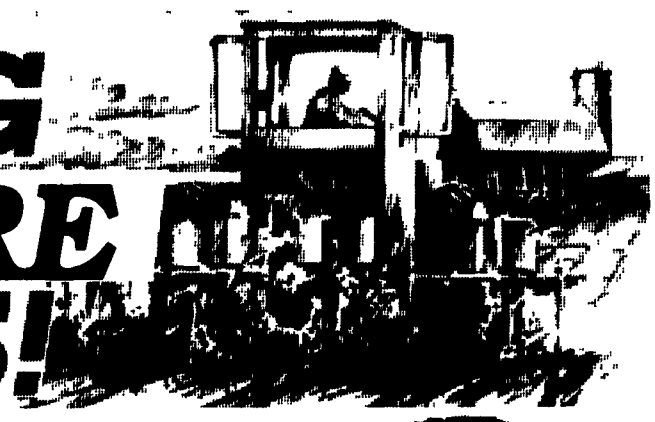
SPRING FARM TIRE VALUES!



GOODYEAR
#1 in Tires

MONTHLY MAINTENANCE TIP

CHECKING INFLATION

Inflation pressure should be checked at least every week. Recomended inflation pressure based on total Load on tires should be used. For accurate inflation, use a special low-pressure gauge with one-pound gradations. Gauges should be checked occasionally for accuracy. Always use sealing valve caps to prevent loss of air

Good News For Agriculture, Good Outlook For Everyone

GEORGE F.W. HAENLEIN
Extension Dairy Specialist
University of Delaware

NEWARK, Del. — Groundhog Day, with its perennial hope that spring will arrive sooner than expected, reminded me of just how much we all long to hear good news.

An unending flow of interesting news has been arriving weekly in my mailbox in the form of Feedstuffs magazine. I'd like to share some good news from a recent issue that was loaded with information on areas that concern us.

The articles aren't only about how we can farm our cows better to achieve a better income; they also cover external forces in Washington and in the worldwide market, what they mean to us and how we can apply them for new opportunities on our own farms.

The new secretary of agriculture in Washington has new ideas that will affect us and newly elected lawmakers will be shaping our farm legislation.

U.S. Sen. Robert Dole said at the recent Farm Bureau Federation Convention that idling U.S. farm acreage only increases foreign production and competition and displaces our nation's export market shares.

This is a positive statement for us. He added that research is the key to our agriculture 10 to 15 years from now. This is the best news we've heard in a long time!

Dole said he wants to reduce acreage reduction, increase emphasis on research and promote value-added production for better farm income and creation of jobs. What a welcome change!

Value-added production also means retailing for farmers, something Pennsylvania has long supported in its dairy "juggers." Delaware, Maryland and New Jersey never developed this concept.

In Holland, the proverbial dairyland, travelers constantly see highway signs that herald "fresh farm cheese." This kind of promotion is legal, popular with consumers and gives dairy farmers retail income from "value-added" production.

While USDA's guide to modern health proposes 2 to 3 servings per day from this group, the study found most consumers get only 1.3 servings. The good news is that there is a huge dormant demand waiting for U.S. dairy farmers to fill.

Among other encouraging reports in this recent issue of Feedstuffs is one about GATT.

The article helps to dispel some of the fear and mistrust about this new concept that has prevailed in the dairy industry. It discusses U.S. agriculture's future role in world trade.

For the first time there is documentation that world population growth is no longer on an upward trend, but is diminishing instead. Third world countries are showing decreased birth rates per woman from 6.5 in 1960 to 3.4 today.

Farm exports will no longer be for starving populations, but rather, income is the key.

Agricultural productivity and growing affluence is eliminating the threat of famine. The growth market for U.S. farming will be prosperity in other countries and the growing demand for meat, milk, eggs and the feeds to grow them.

The spread of economic well-being is coming from Japan, Taiwan, South Korea, Thailand, Malaysia, Pakistan, southern China, Indonesia and India.

In 1970, 60 percent of Indonesia's population was in poverty; today it is only 15 percent. In India, milk consumption is increasing by two million tons per year.

Asians now are eating 13 grams of high-quality protein per day compared to 71 grams in the United States and 55 grams in Japan. The opportunities for new markets in the future are boundless.

And as a result of the GATT-proposed free trade, the United States will export much to satisfy this demand.

Agronomic genetics is scoring a great success story in the desert of Saudi Arabia. A new crop called "salicornia" is being grown on 2,500 acres of desert along the ocean shores. The salt-tolerant salicornia is irrigated with seawater.

An oilseed crop, it is fed as a high protein green chop to dairy cattle just as alfalfa is. At maturity, salicornia is harvested as an oilseed and provides an oilseed meal much like soybeans for feeding to livestock.

Finally, genetic studies at Purdue University have succeeded in selecting "kinder and gentler" chickens that don't require debeaking. Because they are less aggressive than typical chickens, they don't feather-pick other chickens under crowded conditions. One wonders why this selection has taken so long.

Dairy farmers have long selected against bad temperament in cows. Guernseys were and still are famous for their quiet disposition. My students prefer to handle Guernseys in exercises rather than Holsteins.

The Holsteins here at the University of Delaware and on many other farms allow people to walk among them peacefully without being scared and without causing dominance butting or fights.

Building mild-tempered dairy herds came out of necessity when we started loose housing in 1960. In stanchion barns, it didn't matter that cows didn't get along with each other.

Their new "kinder, gentler" chickens are less costly to produce, more productive and survive stress better. Animal welfare people should be delighted with this news.

In addition to our more gentle cows at the University of Delaware, we have "socializing" calves that don't need cage separation and are fed by an electronic calf-nursing system. We've made a video about this system that people can request for an $8 fee.

All of this good news can mean greater progress and better income prospects for dairy farmers.

Cooperatives Advocate Partnership Approach

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Farmers and their cooperatives advocate a voluntary, incentive-based approach to water quality issues, an NCFC spokesman today told Chairman Sherwood Boehlert (R-NY) and other members of the House Transportation and Infrastructure Committee's Subcommittee on Water Resources and Environment.

Steve Hoefer, vice president of public affairs for Agway in Syracuse, N.Y., said agricultural organizations recommend a strategy to "maintain and enhance the quality of water resources through effective management of nonpoint source pollution from agricultural activities, where problems are identified, in a manner compatible with food and agricultural policy objectives."

The ag co-op leader commended full Committee Chairman Bud Shuster (R-Pa.) and other co-sponsors for introducing HR 961, which shifts the focus of Clean Water Act reauthorization debate from a top-down, command and control strategy to an approach that places emphasis on empowering states to develop programs that will allow farmers to become partners in addressing water quality concerns through more flexible, cost-effective means.

He advocated a strategy that employs an educational outreach program, developing a single farm plan concept, use of certified advisors, and incentives that encourage voluntary adoption.

Hoefer told the subcommittee that Agway and other cooperatives are considerably hampered in their efforts to help farmers comply with water quality regulations and programs explaining, "we have to deal with multiple agencies and different requirements. For example, in our 12-state region, six federal statutes and programs come into play: the Clean Water Act, the Coastal Zone Management Act, the Chesapeake Bay Program, the Great Lakes Initiative, the Safe Drinking Water Act, and the Farm Bill." He specifically recommended four key improvements to HR 961:

•Consolidate federal water quality programs where possible, and send one clear policy signal to states and stakeholders

•Resolve serious problems raised by C.A.R.E. v. Southview Farm, where the court decision could unfairly subject many of America's farmers to onerous regulations and clean water citizen suits

•Revise provisions that could unintentionally encourage implementation of enforcement mechanisms and detract from the partnership approach

•Maximize limited federal resources by engaging private sector capabilities, such as those in cooperatives.

"We in agriculture are already doing a great deal to move toward the water quality finish line," Hoefer said. "H.R. 961 is a step in the right direction toward providing a voluntary, incentive-based approach."

Hog Calling Contest To Highlight Open House

ANNAPOLIS, Md.—Maryland Secretary of Agriculture Lewis R. Riley has announced that a new event—a hog calling contest—has been added to the Eight Annual Maryland Department of Agriculture Open House set for March 18 from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

"We invite participants of all ages to enter our hog calling contest and at the same time visit the Maryland Department of Agriculture to see our fascinating laboratories and learn about agriculture in the state. And you can be sure, there will be plenty of great Maryland food available," Riley said.

In addition to the hog calling contest, new features this year will include a hay bale toss and cherry seed spitting contest. There will also be face painting, a petting zoo, craft demonstrations, food sampling, and entertainment. Visitors will be able to tour the chemical, weights and measures and plant laboratories and learn about many of the department's other programs.

The Maryland Department of Agriculture is located outside of Annapolis in Parole off of Riva Road at 50 Harry S. Truman Parkway, Annapolis, MD.

For more information on the Open House, call the Maryland Department of Agriculture Open House, Marketing Services, (410) 841-5770.

RATS, CATS, AND DOGS DO NOT MIX WITH GOOD POULTRY HOUSE BIOSECURITY!

Dr. Michael Hulet
Associate Professor
Poultry Science

Biosecurity in poultry terms means to protect flocks from any type of infectious agent — viral, bacterial, fungal, or parasitic. It also implies the responsibility of not infecting your neighbor's flock with any infectious agent that may be on your farm.

As Dr. Cal Larsen, avian veterinarian at VPI&SU has stated, "Take precautions to prevent any disease organism from coming onto your premise and do not carry any disease organisms with you when you leave that farm."

The Penn State Extension circular, "Biosecurity For Poultry" (#350), states that disease gains access to your flocks most frequently in the following nine ways:

1. By birds carrying disease onto the premise when they are placed
2. By birds or eggs that are added to the flock
3. By human feet, hands, clothes, and hats
4. By dust, feathers, and manure on equipment and supplies such as trucks, coops, and egg flats
5. By feral birds, predators, rodents, flies, and insects
6. By live or contaminated vaccines
7. By feed contaminated at the manufacturing plant
8. By contaminated water
9. By disease carried in the air by dust and manure particles.

This winter we have experienced several different major disease challenges: laryngotracheitis (LT) in Delmarva, Georgia, Arkansas, and to a much lesser extent, Pennsylvania; airsacculitis in Pennsylvania, Virginia, Delmarva and to a lesser extent in many other states; avian influenza (AI) in Mexico; Mycoplasma Gallisepticum (MG) in Virginia; Marek's Disease in many states; and many other disease challenges.

The point is that there are a number of disease challenges all around us in the environment that can cause tremendous damage to your flocks and pocketbook.

As I have traveled in Pennsylvania and viewed farm sites, the greatest risk to flock biosecurity is the presence of wild and domestic birds, cats, dogs, rats, mice, and other predators around and inside poultry houses. These animals are feeding off of mortality that hasn't been properly disposed and then coming into contact with you and your flock.

Populations of rodents and other animals are encouraged and maintained by the piling of equipment and trash near the poultry house. Some operators wonder why disease is present on their farm flock after flock, although they try to clean and disinfect their houses.

On some farms, I have seen dead birds piled at the end of the house with evidence indicating that the pile had been visited by scavengers. Diseases in these birds may not be a problem to the scavengers, but the scavengers can act as mechanical or biological carriers of the disease organisms.

Rodents, cats, dogs, and insects such as darkling beetles can carry disease organisms and create flock-to-flock transfer of disease. Often times, live birds are also left from previous flocks and are allowed to run wild around the farm. These live and dead birds are reservoirs of disease that can challenge your next flock of chicks.

Daily mortality needs to be properly taken care of to prevent disease spread to future flocks as well as your neighbor's flocks. Rats have been known to travel long distances to forage for food and can carry disease with them. Avian scavengers can fly from one farm to another to pick up dead-bird meals and leave disease organisms wherever they land.

When composters are used, mortality needs to be covered immediately after placement into the composter to prevent the feeding of cats, dogs, and other wild scavengers. Leaving uncovered mortality is a practice that represents a biological risk of disease challenge that can reduce the efficiency and increase the medication cost for flocks. Outbreaks of fowl cholera have been traced to raccoons and skunks that fed on improperly disposed poultry mortality or on feed in houses left open.

Many farms have scenic ponds near poultry houses. These ponds can be visited by wild waterfowl, which can harbor diseases such as avian influenza (AI) and can infect locally living waterfowl and eventually the poultry flock. Waterfowl are known carriers of AI organism. Waterfowl can randomly shed avian influenza organisms as they migrate back and forth from their winter ranges in the south and summer ranges in the north.

For rodent control, a consistent baiting program needs to be practiced to control the rodent population on or around poultry houses. Many people have utilized small sections of 2½ or 3-inch PVC pipe as bait stations. Some will put in a "T" with the upright of the "T" used to apply the bait. These need to be placed near the edge of buildings or areas that have shown signs of rodent activity. Bait stations need to be routinely monitored and bait rotated to maintain good control.

Harborages for rodents also need to be eliminated. Any buildup of lumber, round bales, old equipment, other junk, or just high grass and weeds can attract and harbor rodent populations which can increase disease challenges to your flocks.

Usually biosecurity is only effective when there are current disease challenges that cause fear in the wallet of growers. Be dollar wise in your management of poultry flocks and implement biosecurity practices to reduce the risk of disease challenge to flocks, which will allow optimal productivity.

Do not wait until your farm has to be depopulated and remain empty before you gain a commitment to prevent the entrance or spread of disease organisms.

Discover AGGRESSOR AMERICA'S Alfalfa

The extra cut variety

Aggressor withstands aggressive cutting, which is exactly what alfalfa growers pushing their varieties to the limit require for more yield and quality. A research study started in 1989 measured variety persistence under aggressive cutting schedules. Each variety was cut five times per year in this North Central study.

Aggressor came out on top!

Percent stand survival

AGGRESSOR	60%
FUNKS 2841	48%
PIONEER BRAND 5364	38%
VERNAL	35%
FORTRESS 15%

Frequent cutting requires high disease and insect resistance — Aggressor delivers:

- HR Phytophthora
- HR Bacterial wilt
- R Verticillium wilt
- HR Fusarium wilt
- HR Anthracnose
- R Leafhopper yellowing

Plus — Aggressor fights Aphanomcyes — found where Phytophthora root rot and Pythium 'damping off' occur.

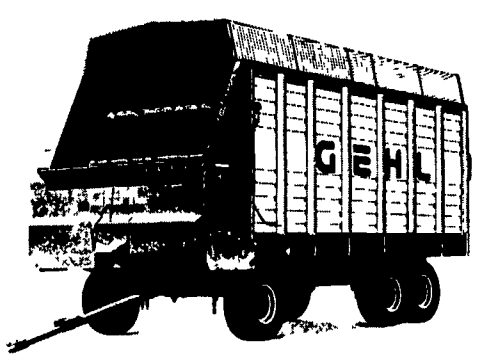
YOUR BEST FORAGE BOX VALUE



Gehl's new BU980 Self-unloading forage box has been redesigned for improved performance and durability. Features include:

- ❒ True variable-speed drive for infinite unloading speeds.
- ❒ Single lever control.
- ❒ Improved beater design.
- ❒ Stronger drive chain and reinforced roof.
- ❒ Standard highway light package.
- ❒ Optional folding 18-inch conveyor extension.

COMMON SENSE MOWER CONDITIONERS

- Full-width intermeshing conditioning rolls with intermittent ribs deliver thorough, uniform conditioning.
- Simple sickle drive with pivot-arm design provides more cutting force.
- Fewer moving parts than competitive models for worry-free performance.
- Three-point flotation support protects the cutterbar from rocks and uneven terrain.
- 9'3" cutting width.

COMMUNITY CONSIGNMENT AUCTION
Saturday, March 25th

Following our regular hay auction we will be conducting our annual community consignment auction. We are looking for good quality farm machinery, tools, building materials, greenhouse, vegetable items, etc. for this auction. We are accepting consignments from 3/13 to 3/24, please call for more information. To be included in our advertising, machinery and other noteworthy items must be contracted by 3/11. We will not accept any poultry equipment, upholstered furniture, old glass windows, appliances, or tires. We currently have consigned quantities of greenhouse items such as new pots, flats, pro-mix, mulch plastic, John Henry picture labels & more.

NURSERY STOCK AUCTIONS
April 4, 25 & May 9, 23
at 11:00 a.m.

We have a great selection of nursery stock lined up for these auctions. These are designed for the wholesale trade only, so bring a large truck. We also sell nursery stock every Tuesday & Thursday, on a smaller basis with our other auctions. We will also be selling perennials & bedding plants. If you are a consignor & have a valid nursery license we would be pleased to sell you products at auction. Please call us for more information.

PURINA PROFILE

The Farmer's Union Cooperative located on the western edge of the boro of Greencastle has a history as a milk creamery back to 1938. But that changed to a Purina dealership in the early '70's and became aggressive in sales in 1981 when Dave Forrester became general manager. Today, the business has 11 employees that include two nutritional consultants who help farmers to formulate feed rations and help them with many other management inputs for their operations.

The mill sits on seven acres of land and has a 4000,000 bushel storage capacity for farmers to use as a "grain bank" to store their homegrown beans, corn, and other grains until they are needed to be mixed into their feed rations. The operation has the capacity to roast beans, and 191,000 bushels of beans were taken in for farmers this year.

One of the major advantages of this operation is that it is large enough to serve the needs of farmers with growing herds and flocks while small enough to know each farmer's name. they serve an area within 15 miles radius of Greencastle.

Forrester believes Purina dealers have the advantage because of the large amount of training given by the company and the leading-edge products the company offers.

Dave Forrester shows an aerial photograph of the Farmer's Union Cooperative mill. The mill is located on seven acres along the western edge of the boro of Greencastle.
